STATEMENT ON ASSEMBLY BILL NUMBER TWO THOUSAND THREE HUNDRED SIXTEEN BY SENATOR JONES.

The Constitution of the United States provides two methods by which proposed amendments may be ratified—first, by State Legislatures, and second by State conventions.

The procedure followed heretofore has been to submit proposed amendments for consideration by the Legislatures. In the case of this particular amendment (No. 21) Congress has departed from this procedure. Instead of requesting the views of the Legislatures of the various States it has asked for the views of State conventions.

The prerogative and duty of the Legislature, therefore, is merely to provide the machinery by which delegates can be elected to a State convention. The Legislature is in no way asked to express judgment on the merits of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Since Congress has asked that the people of California be accorded the right to vote on the Eighteenth Amendment, I am voting for this bill, as it affords the means by which the people can make the State's decision on this important public question.

Assembly Bill No. 2337—An act giving the Insurance Commissioner power to limit payments or loans of funds of life insurance companies and to generally regulate such companies for the protection of policyholders during periods of extraordinary economic and financial conditions, defining the term "life insurance companies" as used herein, reciting the establishment of similar control and limitations in other States, and declaring the urgency thereof and that the same shall take effect immediately.

URGENT CLAUSE.

SEC. 7. This act is hereby declared to be an urgent measure, within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution, necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety, and shall take effect immediately. The facts constituting such necessity are that there exist throughout the United States economic conditions which have engendered financial disturbances requiring the immediate enactment of effective legislation protecting life insurance companies and their policyholders; that measures generally similar to this act have been recently enacted, by reason of such conditions, in many other States; that regulations and orders promulgated by State Insurance Commissioners under those enactments will seriously prejudice life insurance companies doing business in this State unless they are similarly regulated and their policyholders similarly protected; and that it is also essential to the preservation of the public peace, health and safety that life insurance companies be afforded reasonable opportunity for the orderly payment of moneys due their policyholders, and that this act will aid materially in accomplishing that result.

THIRD READING OF SENATE BILLS—(RESUMED).

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 15.

Relative to memorializing and petitioning Congress to enact legislation which will facilitate the protection of sardines in the territorial waters of this State.

WHEREAS, It has long been the practice of the State of California to protect the sardines which inhabit the territorial waters of this State; and

WHEREAS, To that end, the reduction of sardines into fish meal, fish oil, and other fishery products has been carefully regulated; and

WHEREAS, There are now operating on the high seas, off the coast of California, certain vessels which have been equipped to operate as reduction plants; and

WHEREAS, Such vessels operate in waters over which this State has no jurisdiction, and engage in the unrestricted reduction of sardines; and

WHEREAS, Sardines are generally found near the coast line, and not on the high seas; and

WHEREAS, Sardines are migratory within a distance of a few miles, and the unrestricted reduction of sardines caught beyond the three-mile limit is depleting the species as effectively as if such fish were caught within the territorial waters of this State; and

WHEREAS, The number of floating reduction plants is constantly increasing; and

WHEREAS, There are now pending before the Legislature of the State of California measures designed to control the present unrestricted destruction of sardines, which measures if adopted could be made more effective should Congress also enact legislation looking toward the preservation of this species of fish; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate and the Assembly of the State of California, jointly, That the Legislature of the State of California earnestly memorializes and petitions Congress to enact legislation which will facilitate the preservation of sardines in the territorial waters of this State; and be it further

ALL NAMES OF SUBMITTERS

On page 4 of the printed bill, as amended March 20, 1967, after line 20, insert the following:

NOTE 2 A new section entitled "Section 11a" is being added to the proposal in the title heretofore to read as follows:

See 15a. The drilling, penetrating or boring of wells on lands containing, or reasonably presumed to contain, petroleum or natural gas shall be conducted vertically by a maximum depth more than the horizontal distance from the surface of the earth, five degrees at depths between one and two thousand feet, and at depths below two thousand feet, one degree. The drilling, penetrating or boring of wells for the production of petroleum and natural gas shall be conducted in such a manner as to be as difficult and uncertain the discovery of petroleum deposits and the recovery of petroleum from sand and shales of all water overlying and underlying sand and shales in gas-bearing strata.

It shall be the duty of the State Oil and Gas Supervisor to require that no Every owner, contractor, operator or other person who is engaged in the deepening of any well in lands produced or to be produced by the State oil or natural gas shall cause to be filed with the State Oil and Gas Supervisor as often as and immediately after each such deepening as follows: (1) A record of deepening of each well or wells shall have been completed and filed at least thirty days prior to running each string of casing or other well casing in another well, which shall be a public record and which shall show wells owned by each owner, and

(1) The location with respect to contour, on field and property, in case of new well or wells and by whom the same are sunk and are being drilled, extended or deepened;

(2) The number or other official designation by which each such well is known, and

(3) The deviation, if any, from the vertical in degrees, of such well or wells, with reference to each five hundred feet of depth thereof, as determined by measurements to be approved by the State Oil and Gas Superintendent or his authorized agent.

upon complaint made to him by any person, to cause a survey to be made of any oil field, to measure with instruments approved by the State Oil and Gas Surveyor or gas well or wells drilled or deepened in said oil field, with a view to determining the extent of the deviation of such well or wells, if any, from a vertical line. Such measurements shall, if the State Oil and Gas Surveyor reports, be made by the party drilling, redrilling or deepening such well or wells under the direction of and in the presence of said supervisor or his deputy, and the State Oil and Gas Supervisor may order further drilling and/or operation of said well or wells discontinued pending completion of said measurements. The record of such measurements shall be a public record. Whenever it appears to the satisfaction of the State Oil and Gas Supervisor, either from reports filed with him by persons or corporations engaged in the drilling, redrilling or deepening of a well or wells, or from his own investigation, or from both, that a well or wells are being drilled, redrilled or deepened with a deviation from the vertical in excess of the maximum herein prescribed for the depth of such well or wells, it shall be his duty to order the party drilling, redrilling or deepening such well or wells to either correct the deviation of the same from the vertical so that such deviation will not exceed such maximum, or to cease further drilling, redrilling or deepening of the same. Such order and notice thereof shall be made and given in the same manner as provided in section 8 of this act, and the party to whom the same is directed, or the owner or lessee of the land upon which such well or wells are situated, shall have the right to appeal from such order in the manner provided in section 8 hereof. Pending such appeal the drilling, redrilling or deepening of said well or wells in violation of said order shall not be permitted or carried on.

The use of whipstocks or similar devices for the purpose of causing wells to deviate from the vertical is prohibited except upon written order of the State Oil and Gas Supervisor obtained in advance of such use by the party desiring to use such devices in drilling.

The superior court of the county in which any well or wells are situated, which may hereafter be drilled, redrilled or deepened in violation of the provisions of this section or of any order of the State Oil and Gas Supervisor made pursuant thereto, shall have jurisdiction in any suit brought by the State Oil and Gas Supervisor in the name of the Director of Natural Resources of California, to enforce the provisions of this section by injunction or other appropriate remedy. In such suit, the finding of the State Oil and Gas Supervisor as to the extent of any deviation from the vertical of any well or wells shall be admissible in evidence and shall constitute prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated, unless such finding shall have been reversed or modified by the district board of oil and gas commissioners on appeal, and in such event the decision of such district board shall be prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated.

SEC. 3. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California and shall therefore go into effect immediately.

The facts constituting the necessity are as follows: Due to carelessness in drilling and redrilling of wells for petroleum or natural gas said wells are allowed to deviate from the vertical more than is reasonably necessary with the result that preservation of petroleum and natural gas sands against water infiltration is greatly enhanced because of the uncertainty of determining the proper depth and location of the shut-off from said sands and all water overlying and underlying such oil bearing or gas bearing strata resulting in the infiltration of water into such oil bearing or gas bearing strata and likewise the impregnation and destruction of the water strata.

Amendment adopted.

Senate Bill No. 606 read second time, ordered to reprint, and re-referred to Committee on Oil Industries.

CONSIDERATION OF ASSEMBLY BILL NUMBER TWO THOUSAND

THREE HUNDRED FORTY TWO

Assembly Bill No. 2342—An act relating to the safety of design and construction of public school buildings, providing for regulation and supervision of the construction, reconstruction or alteration of or addition to public school buildings, defining the powers and duties of the State Division of Architecture in respect thereto, providing for the collection and disposition of fees, prescribing penalties for violation thereof and declaring the emergency of the act, to take effect immediately.

CASE OF URGENCY

RECOMMENDATION OF THE GOVERNOR

In accordance with section 34 of Article IV of the Constitution, the Governor presented the following communication recommending the passage of Assembly Bill No. 2342:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, Governor's Office,

SACRAMENTO, March 23, 1933.

To the Honorable Members of the Senate:

Assembly Bill No. 2342 provides for the regulation and supervision of the construction, reconstruction or alteration of or addition to public school buildings.

In my opinion Assembly Bill No. 2342 constitutes an emergency bill within the meaning of section 34 of Article IV of the State Constitution, construction of which should not await final enactment of the budget bill, in view of the immediate necessity of putting into effect the regulation of the construction of public school buildings provided for by this bill and in the fact that all necessary and proper steps have been taken to insure against a recurrence of the loss and damage caused by the destruction by earthquakes of school buildings not properly constructed.

School buildings destroyed in the recent earthquake will be immediately rebuilt, and for that reason it is necessary that the regulation provided for by this bill be immediately made effective in order that this reconstruction work may be properly supervised and regulated.

I, therefore, recommend the passage of this bill as an emergency bill, within the meaning of that term as used in section 34 of Article IV of the Constitution.

Respectfully submitted,

• JAMES ROUPH, JR., Governor of California.

URGENCY CLAUSE

SEC. 9. This act is hereby declared to be an emergency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution and shall therefore go into immediate effect.

The facts constituting the necessity are as follows: The series of earthquakes occurring in the southern portion of the State has caused great loss of life and damage to property. The public school buildings constructed at public expense were among the most seriously damaged buildings. Much of this loss and damage could have been avoided if the buildings and other structures had been properly constructed. The school buildings which will be erected, reconstructed and reconstructed to replace the buildings damaged or destroyed by the earthquakes should be so constructed as to resist, in so far as is possible, future earthquakes. These buildings will be erected, constructed and reconstructed at once and accordingly it is necessary this case not go into committee in order that the lives and property of the people will be protected.

Such allocation and hypothecation shall be made in each case for the exclusive benefit of the bonds to be issued for the purpose of acquiring or constructing the particular revenue-producing harbor improvement in question. Such allocation shall be made as additional security for the payment of the principal and interest of said bonds and shall not constitute the exclusive source of payment thereof but, on the contrary, said bonds shall constitute general obligations of the port district and both principal and interest thereof may be paid from any moneys or sources of revenue of any kind, including taxes, on hand and available for that purpose.

Whenever the revenues of the port district are, or in the opinion of the Port Commission will be insufficient to provide for the payment in full of the principal or interest on said bonds as the same becomes due, the Port Commission shall, and in the event the revenues in the interest fund referred to in subparagraph first hereof are insufficient to meet the next ensuing year's interest on the bonds issued hereunder and then outstanding or the moneys in the sinking fund referred to in subparagraph second hereof are insufficient to pay or provide for the payment of any bonds maturing during the next ensuing year, the Port Commission must cause a tax to be levied and collected upon all of the taxable property in the port district sufficient to meet all sums coming due for principal and interest on said bonds during the next ensuing year and before the time for fixing the next general tax levy in the county in which the port district is located. Such tax shall be levied and collected annually in the manner provided by section 15 of this act and shall be in addition to all other taxes in this act authorized or provided to be levied and collected, and when collected shall be used for no other purpose than the payment of said bonds and the accruing interest thereon."

73a. The owners or holders in fee of lands which constitute a portion of any irrigation district may jointly or severally file a verified complaint in the superior court in the county in which said land or any portion thereof is situated for the purpose of releasing said lands from their present encumbrance of the bonding indebtedness of said district. Said complaint shall include as defendants in said action the following parties:

- (1) The irrigation district in which said lands are situated;
- (2) The names of the members of the board of directors of said district;
- (3) All owners and holders of bonds of said district, together with those who have registered their names and post-office addresses with the secretary of the irrigation district in which said land is situated as in this act hereinafter provided;
- (4) All persons known or unknown, who own or claim to own an claim to have any interest in or to the outstanding bonds of said irrigation district.

Said complaint shall also contain the following statements and allegations:

- (1) A description of the real property owned by the plaintiffs situated within the irrigation district;
- (2) That the lands described and owned by the plaintiffs are within the exterior boundaries of the irrigation district;
- (3) The total amount of the unpaid bonded indebtedness of the irrigation district, including interest on such bonds;
- (4) The total assessed valuation of the lands within such district, together with a description of the method of assessment employed by the district;
- (5) When the outstanding bonds mature;
- (6) The value of the lands described in the petition compared with the value of all other lands within such district;
- (7) That the plaintiff or plaintiffs desire to pay their proportion of the total bonded indebtedness of such irrigation district, together with their proportion of the interest thereon and thereafter be released from any future assessment or any other charge for or on account of the outstanding bonded indebtedness of said district existing at the time of the filing of the complaint in said action;
- (8) Said complaint shall contain a request for the appointment by the court of a referee to make an investigation of the ratio of values of the lands owned by the plaintiff or plaintiffs to the total value of all other lands in such irrigation district, and the just proportion of the bonded indebtedness of such district which the lands described in the complaint shall bear.

After the filing of the complaint in such action, the clerk of the court shall upon request of the plaintiffs or any of them at any time within one year thereafter issue a summons. Such summons shall be served personally upon each of the board of directors and the secretary of such irrigation district and a copy thereof, to which shall be attached a copy of the complaint, shall be mailed by registered mail to any person or persons who have filed their names and addresses with the secretary of such irrigation district as the owner or owners of bonds thereof, and also to any person who is the known owner or holder of any bonds of said district.

Service of summons upon all unknown owners or holders of bonds and interest coupons shall be made by publication in a newspaper of general circulation printed and published in the county in which the property is located, and in a newspaper of general circulation in the City and County of San Francisco, State of California, and also in the city and county of Los Angeles, State of California, to be designated by the judge of the superior court having jurisdiction of the case, for the period of two (2) consecutive months, as in other cases of service by publication.

After such service of summons has been made as hereinbefore provided, all such unknown persons so served shall have the right to appear and defend such action at any time within thirty (30) days after the completion of the publication of summons. All other defendants shall have the right to appear and defend such action within the respective times provided by law for defendants to appear after service in other actions at law.

After such service has been completed, the prosecution of such action shall be maintained in the same manner and form as provided for the prosecution of other actions of a similar nature.

The claims of any unknown defendants shall be concluded by the judgment in such action as effectually as if the action were brought against such person by his or her name and to the same extent as in case of personal service.

When all of such defendants so served have appeared and answered or defaulted, the said action shall be at issue and tried and determined as in other cases; provided, however, that the court may appoint a referee to ascertain and determine and report to the court the amount of outstanding bonds or bonded indebtedness of such irrigation district existing at the time of the filing of the complaint in said action, and also to ascertain the proportionate share of the entire bonded indebtedness of such irrigation district that should equitably be borne by the property described in the complaint.

After the referees herein provided for have made their reports, the court may at the instance of any party who has appeared in said action set the cause for trial and proceed as in other civil cases. Upon the conclusion of the trial, the court shall make its findings and enter its judgment decreeing that the plaintiff shall pay the costs of the referee and all other court costs and the amount found due from plaintiffs on account of their proportionate share of the bonded indebtedness of such irrigation district to the treasurer of such irrigation district proportionately as may be decreed by the court, within three (3) days after entry of judgment. The amounts so paid shall be placed in the bond fund and used only for the purpose of paying or redeeming mature bonds and interest coupons.

Said decree shall also provide that the plaintiffs may, in lieu of cash, deposit bonds of the irrigation district which may have been issued prior to the filing of the complaint and or matured interest coupons thereon, which bonds and coupons shall be accepted by the treasurer of said district at their face value and canceled.

After such judgment has been entered and payments made by the plaintiffs as provided in said decree, no further levy shall be made by the irrigation district upon assessments of the lands of the plaintiffs as described in the judgment in said action for or on account of the payment or redemption of any bonds and or coupons issued prior to the filing of the complaint in said action."

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The following message from the Governor was received and read:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE.

SACRAMENTO, April 5, 1933.

To the President and Members of the Senate of the State of California.

I have received reports from Mr. W. H. Cooley of Bakersfield and Mr. Ralph B. Lloyd of Los Angeles whom I appointed to represent the Governor at a conference on the oil situation called upon the request of the President of the United States by the Honorable Secretary of the Interior at a meeting held in the office of the Secretary of the Interior, Washington, D. C., March 27, 28, and 29, 1933.

I transmit for your information and for your records copies of the reports received by me from Mr. W. H. Cooley.

Respectfully,

JAMES ROLPH, JR., Governor of California.

(COPY.)

March 31, 1933.

Hon. James Rolph, Jr., State Capitol, Sacramento, California.

MY DEAR GOVERNOR: I am enclosing you herewith three documents, the first of which embodies a list of recommendations prepared by the Governors' representa-tives and submitted to the Honorable Secretary of the Interior and upon which the President of the United States is expected to act.

These recommendations resulted from four days' discussion between the various oil and gas associations throughout the United States, the American Petroleum Institute, and the representatives of the Governors of the producing States.

The final approval of these recommendations was made by a committee of fifteen, representing five chosen members from each of the above groups, and the group was a member of the Governors' group on this committee. It is my opinion, if these recommendations are carried out, the oil industry will be stabilized throughout the United States. I might say that Mr. Kingberry of California was also a member of this committee. It seems likely that the President will call upon the Legislature of California and the Governor to pass some general conservation and control measure dealing with the oil situation. Thus in order to have full cooperation to the other oil-producing States.

The document headed "Resolution" was passed by the Governors' conference after the set of recommendations were approved of by the Governors' conference, and this resolution was prepared by the committee of which I was chairman, viz. the oil States Advisory Committee, and I was now in conference with the Honorable Harold Ickes, Secretary of the Interior Department, previous to my departure thereon, and we are trying to present the name of Thomas Hall of the State of Kansas as the President's representative to carry out these recommendations.

The other enclosure, which is in the form of a letter signed by the Independent Petroleum Association, appeared to me merely, in the words of our fellow Californian from Los Angeles, John R. Brown, who would not agree, his own organization and all other groups attending this conference. Mr. William M. Knack, whom you appointed, aligned himself with Mr. Elliott and peacefully withdrew from the Governors' conference after its first session on March 28th. Mr. Lloyd, your other appointee, served very creditably and was in complete accord with the program as adopted. He was also selected as secretary of the Governors' conference, a fine gentleman and a credit to the State. Mr. Elliott had no program of his own to present, although he was requested by many of the representatives to offer a program.

I will remain here a day or so to complete personal interviews with the solicitor of the Department of the Interior.

With expressions of respect, I have the honor to remain,

Your obedient servant,

(Signed)

W. H. COOLEY.

(COPY.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 20, 1933

The Honorable The Secretary of the Interior

DEAR MR. SECRETARY: The above committee, representing (1) the Governors of the oil producing States or those who withdrew therefrom; (2) the oil and gas associations representing independent producers of oil and gas in the United States; and (3) the major oil and gas producing and marketing institutions, after conferring together have unanimously agreed to recommend the following program to you, in order to meet the existing emergency in the oil and gas industry and to provide the basis for conservation and secure the future development of the oil and gas resources of our country:

A. To meet the existing emergency the committee unanimously recommended:

1. That the President of the United States be requested to transmit this report to the Governors of California, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico, and to call upon them immediately to issue an order to their respective States until the fifteenth day of April next, suspending wells producing more than 40 per cent of water which would be damaged irreparably by a complete shutdown.

2. That the President of the United States be requested to call upon the Governors and Legislatures of the principal oil producing States which have no adequate or no general conservation statute in effect, such a statute immediately in order to further the conservation and scientific and more orderly development of the oil and gas resources of such States and to urge to enable full cooperation toward these ends between all the principal producing States.

3. That the President of the United States be requested immediately to recommend to Congress the adoption of a law prohibiting the transportation, in interstate and foreign commerce of any oil or the products thereof produced or manufactured in any State in violation of the laws thereof, and providing adequate penalties for violations of the said law.

4. That the President of the United States be requested: (a) to require strict enforcement of the Federal gasoline tax and pipe line tax and vigorous prosecution of evaders thereof so long as the said taxes remain in effect; and (b) to instruct the Bureau of Internal Revenue to ascertain, at the time of collecting the tax, the consignee, consignee, destination and quantity being shipped by each refinery, and (c) to instruct the said Bureau to transmit the said information to the tax collecting authorities of those States into which the gasoline is to be moved.

5. That the President of the United States be requested fully to endorse the recommendations made herein and to appeal to the States, and to all those engaged in the oil and gas industry, faithfully to cooperate in the enforcement and observance of the said recommendations and in the limitation of production in harmony with a fair allocation of the national consumptive demand.

6. We further recommend that the President submit to Congress a request for emergency legislation authorizing him to appoint a personal representative to cooperate with the duly constituted authorities of the several oil producing States in bringing about a compromise on the part of said States with the program covered by these recommendations, and to advise and cooperate with the industry in complying with that portion of the program recommended for action by the industry; such act of Congress to be effective during the emergency only, and whenever, in the opinion of the President of the United States the emergency in the oil industry has passed, thereupon, by proclamation, the President may declare the emergency ended and the office, thereby created, abolished.

B. To provide a basis for conservation of the oil and gas resources of the United States and the scientific future development of the oil and gas industry therein, the committees are unanimously of the opinion:

1. That the government of the United States can aid and assist in the following respects:

(a) By initiating a comprehensive and scientific study of the entire subject and publishing, as soon as possible, a report of the facts found, conclusions reached and recommendations made with reference thereto.

(b) By imposing an adequate competitive tariff on crude petroleum and the products thereof.

(c) By eliminating the tax on domestic refined products and the Federal pipe line tax.

(d) By vigorous prosecution for evasion of the Federal gasoline tax and pipe line tax if such taxes are to be continued.

(e) By permitting drilling on the public lands to be delayed.

(f) By limiting imports to the average for the last six months of 1932 this after reserve tax.

(g) By continuing the Federal Oil Conservation Board as an advisory body.

2. That the producing States can aid and assist in the following respects:

(a) By the enactment, where necessary, of adequate State laws under which conservation can be enforced.

(b) By the issuance of valid orders under such conservation statutes.

(c) By strict enforcement of the orders issued.

(d) By the equitable allocation of the allowed production as between pools.

(e) By limiting productions of crude oil to the requirements of the consumer of refined products, or crude petroleum as such.

(f) By reaching an agreement with each other on the total market demand for crude petroleum and a proper allocation of this demand as between the producing States.

NOTE—Pending a more complete study of the subject, the production in the United States should for the time being be limited to 2,000,000 barrels per day, allocated as follows:

Texas .....	786,242 barrels
Oklahoma .....	417,690 barrels
Kansas .....	93,366 barrels
California .....	432,132 barrels
All other States .....	270,270 barrels

(g) By rigidly enforcing the gasoline tax laws so as to prevent tax evasion, by preventing the diversion of the tax from highway uses, and by a reduction of the tax wherever at all possible.

(h) By encouraging permissive unit operation under voluntary agreements.

3. That the industry can aid and assist in the following respects:

(a) By actively supporting governmental agencies in their efforts to make and enforce valid orders.

(b) By refraining from producing oil unlawfully and refusing to transport or purchase oil unlawfully produced.

(c) By marketing arrangements with limited areas conforming to the principle announced by the Supreme Court in the Appalachian Coals case.

(d) By diligent efforts to promote permissive unit operation under voluntary agreements.

- (e) By avoiding excessive withdrawal from storage;
- (f) By limiting drilling to the absolute minimum;
- (g) By limiting exports to the storage for the last six months of 1932.

C. If the foregoing conservation program is approved, the committee respectfully submit that it must be based on a price for crude oil which will allow a margin of profit to the producer and a price for the refined petroleum which will allow a margin of profit for the refinery and the retail dealer.

Respectfully submitted,

RESOLUTION

The conference of the Governors of the oil-producing States or their representatives (16 States being represented), held at Washington, D. C., on March 27, 28, and 29, 1933, upon the call of the Hon. HARRY L. TOLSON, Secretary of the Interior, to consider problems affecting the conservation of the petroleum mineral resources of the Nation and of the States, recommended action of the General Corporation as follows, but subject to the reservations made by the delegates from Texas and Arkansas:

1. We approve the action of our committee of five in making it the resolutions adopted by the General Corporation of fifteen, a copy of which is herewith attached.

2. We recommend to each Governor of the oil-producing States the appointment of one or more representatives, who, under such terms as may be desired by the representatives appointed by the President of the United States, shall cooperate with, as yet jointly with, the said representatives of the United States. We believe strongly in the policy of continuous cooperation between the Federal and State governments in the conservation of the petroleum resources of the Nation and States, with the purpose that neither the Federal government nor the States shall surrender or lose any of their assets, but that each shall so exercise its power as to further a common policy of conservation. The first meeting of said body should be held at Washington, D. C., as soon as authority from said Governors can be obtained.

3. We urge an immediate personal conference between the Governors of Oklahoma, Texas, California, Kansas and Louisiana, to which may be invited the Governors of the other oil-producing States or their representatives, and the members of the conservancy bodies of such States, with the purpose of coordinating action by such States.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 29, 1933.

*Hon. Harold Ickes, Secretary of the Interior,

MY DEAR SIR: The petroleum industry of the United States is in a more healthy condition, than industry generally. It suffers, however, from certain ills, chief among which are monopolistic control, agreements in restraint of trade, price fixing agreements, unfair practices, burdensome taxation, false propaganda and excessive governmental regulation.

There is no overproduction of petroleum in the United States today.

True conservation of petroleum resources is desired. The duty and right of conserving the petroleum resources is a function of government exclusively vested in the several sovereign States. It can only be done through a reasonable exercise of the police power which was reserved to the States and never delegated to the national government.

To the end that a more wholesome condition of the industry, with the resultant good to the American people, may be brought about, we respectfully recommend the speedy accomplishment of the following definite measures of relief:

1. That appropriate action be taken to require the Interstate Commerce Commission to fix and enforce fair and reasonable rates to be charged by pipe line common carriers engaged in the transportation of petroleum in interstate commerce.

2. The enactment of emergency legislation by Congress, divorcing oil pipe lines engaged in interstate commerce from other branches of the oil industry.

3. That the Department of Justice be required immediately to investigate and vigorously prosecute violations of the anti-trust laws to the end that combinations and agreements in restraint of trade, price fixing and other unfair practices affecting the petroleum industry may be effectively stopped.

4. The immediate enactment of laws by Congress making it unlawful for any person, firm or corporation wilfully to disseminate false information designed to influence public opinion.

5. That the Federal Oil Conservation Board be abolished.

6. That the American producer not only be permitted to, but be assisted by the agencies of the government, in capturing all of the world market for petroleum and its products possible.

7. That American oil companies be discouraged in the present practice of developing unregulated and uncontrolled foreign oil fields with cheap foreign labor which compete with regulated and controlled American production.

8. That Congress protect the American market from the importation of foreign oils by the imposition of a constitution tariff.

9. That the Federal government respect and not interfere with the rights and duties of the sovereign States to regulate the production of petroleum within their respective borders.

Respectfully submitted

SENATE RESOLUTION BY SENATOR CRITTENDEN.

WHEREAS, On March 9, 1933, the following communication was received by the Senate from the Railroad Commission of the State of California:

"SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA, March 8, 1933.

To the Senate of the State of California.

GENTLEMEN: According to press reports there are before your body resolutions calling for certain information from this commission regarding the rates of return of the utilities of the State and kindred matters. Whether or not these resolutions are passed, this commission is desirous of not only furnishing any information wanted but of getting your aid in attempting to harmonize the income of the utilities with conditions obtaining with businesses and individuals. Some proposed legislation is now before you which may indirectly assist in this regard.

For the past three years this commission has been devoting especial attention to utility rates and has succeeded in reducing the return below what has been allowed in normal times, except where we have been attacked in the Federal courts. We have now three major rate cases under hearing. In addition to this, we have contemplated and have been preparing to take more drastic action which might or might not take us further into the Federal courts. On February 14th of this year the commission spread upon its minutes a resolution directing its departments to bring together in concise form the data necessary upon which to institute such emergency proceedings regarding rates and rates of return. We have not heretofore actually started such proceedings for four principal reasons:

1. Because to do so would have unduly interfered with the legal and proper process of the Legislature in the equalization of utility taxes, which matter we knew we all be before very soon.

2. Because we believe it equalization of taxes was accomplished the return of the rates would be fixed at substantially equal perhaps no less or lower than we could accomplish by an attempt to exercise extraordinary regulatory powers.

3. Because we believed the proposed equalization of taxes would be a better way of reducing rates than drastic action on the part of the commission subject, as the latter action as to many will proceed through the Federal courts.

4. Because this commission in its much stronger position to prevent rate increases than to reduce rates.

The commission is also advised through the press and by individual queries that it is contemplated later in the session to change equalization of utility taxes. We wish to conform to the wishes of the Legislature in this matter. If it is your desire that we proceed at once to attempt drastic reduction of rates under the circumstances we are prepared to do so.

Respectfully,

RAILROAD COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA

By CLYDE L. SEABY, President.

and,

WHEREAS, We believe it to be to the best interest of all the people of the State of California that the rates of all public utilities charged to the consuming public be reduced to the lowest point which is just and fair under present conditions; and

WHEREAS, In said letter it was stated that certain legal proceedings have not been started to obtain reductions in rates and that continuous time wasting the action of the Legislature on the equalization of taxes; and

WHEREAS, In said communication the said Railroad Commission stated that the commission wished to conform to the wishes of the Legislature in the matter of pressing proceedings for the reduction of rates, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, and it is hereby enacted, That this Senate does hereby urge the Railroad Commission of the State of California to proceed at once to fix rates to an amount which are just and fair under present conditions, and be it further

Resolved, That copy of this resolution be forthwith mailed to the Railroad Commission by the Secretary of this Senate.

A judgment rendered in any such case where service of process has been made shall be valid and binding against the subscribers as their personal agents.

The exchange may sue or be sued in the same manner as in the case of an individual. No action shall lie against any subscriber, agent or attorney involved in exchange made or liability incurred in the course of the exchange, such a final judgment has been obtained against the exchange and has remained unsatisfied for more than 90 days; provided however that any judgment rendered against the exchange shall be binding upon each subscriber only in such proportion as his balance may require.

(b) A bond in favor of the people of the State of California executed by the said attorney with two sureties or with a surety company authorized to do business in the State of California in sums to be approved by and filed with the Insurance Commissioner in the penal sum of fifty thousand dollars, conditioned that the attorney shall faithfully account for all moneys and other property which may come into his hands or be handled by him under the terms of the said power of attorney and the rules and regulations, and shall not withdraw or allow to be withdrawn, or convert or appropriate for his own use, from the funds of the exchange, any moneys or property or any other thing of value to which he is not entitled under the terms of the said power of attorney and the said rules and regulations.

The Insurance Commissioner shall not accept for filing any bond executed by a corporate attorney, as principal, and executed by surety who are officers of such corporate principal.

Sec. 4. Section 5 of said act is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec. 5. (a) (b) Every exchange shall maintain its assets in cash or invested in securities of the kind designated by the laws of the State where the principal office is located for the investment of funds of insurance companies.

Every exchange shall maintain at all times a sum in cash sufficient to discharge all liabilities and to provide a surplus over all liabilities of fifty thousand dollars; or, if an exchange does both liability and required a surplus, then a surplus of one hundred thousand dollars, provided, however, that on the effective date of this act shall have until December 31, 1935, to make good any deficiency in such surplus requirement; provided, however, that prior to said date every exchange must maintain assets in an amount not less than fifty thousand dollars in excess of a sum sufficient to discharge all liabilities arising from the assumed premium reserve.

In estimating the financial condition of any exchange the Insurance Commissioner shall charge as liabilities the same uncollected premium reserve, loss reserve and other reserves required of stock and mutual insurance companies. There shall be allowed as admitted assets the surplus deposits of subscribers, provided that in the case of any individual subscriber whose premium deposit may be drawn and unpaid for thirty days, such premium deposit shall be first charged against such surplus deposit; the surplus deposits of subscribers shall not be charged as a liability; all premium deposits due and unpaid for a period not exceeding ninety days shall be allowed as admitted assets, as in the case of stock companies; any assessment levied and not collected shall in no event be allowed as an asset; the entire payment made by the subscriber, except that made as a surplus deposit, shall be deemed the premium deposit for all purposes, and the computation of reserves shall be based upon such premium deposits without any deduction for the compensation of the attorney.

If, at any time, an exchange is not possessed of admitted assets sufficient to discharge all liabilities and to maintain the surplus hereinbefore required, the attorney or the Insurance Commissioner, if the attorney fails to do so within thirty days after notice from the Insurance Commissioner so to do, shall make an assessment for the amount needed to make up the deficiency, including the reasonable cost of liquidation, if liquidation is ordered, upon the members liable to assessment therefor, in proportion to their several liabilities.

Except as herein provided, every subscriber shall be liable to pay, and shall pay, his proportionate part of any such assessment, in accordance with law and his contract covering any such deficiency, if he is notified of intention to levy such assessment within one year after the expiration or cancellation of his policy. Each subscriber's share of the deficiency, for which an assessment is made, shall be determined by applying to the premium earned on the member's policy or policies during the period to be covered by the assessment, the ratio of the total deficiency to the total premiums earned during such period, upon all policies subject to assessment. The subscribers liable to assessment shall pay the same without offsetting any claim for unearned premiums or losses payable to or for the account of the subscriber. All proposed assessments shall be filed with the Insurance Department and shall not take effect until approved by the Insurance Commissioner after such investigation as he may deem necessary. All funds of the exchange and the contingent liability of the subscribers thereof shall be available for the payment of any liability of the exchange. All assessments, whether levied by the attorney, the Insurance Commissioner in the liquidation of the exchange, or otherwise, shall be of no greater amount than specified in the power of attorney.

The power of attorney may limit the contingent liability of the subscriber for assessment, but such contingent liability shall not be less than an amount equal to the amount of, and in addition to, the premium deposit provided in the policy; each subscriber may maintain with the exchange, in addition to the premium deposit provided in the policy, a further deposit to be held as the surplus deposit of such subscriber; each subscriber maintaining a surplus deposit equal to the amount of, and in addition to, the total current annual premium deposit or deposits provided in his policy or policies, shall have no liability for assessment during the period such surplus deposit is so maintained. If an exchange be certified by the Insurance Commissioner as having a surplus of admitted assets over all liabilities in a sum equal to one and one-half times the minimum capital required of stock companies doing the same kinds of insurance, then during the continued maintenance of such surplus of assets, subscribers at such exchanges shall not be liable to assessment.

Savings or credits may be returned to the subscribers irrespective as to the source from which the same accrue whenever such returns do not constitute an impairment of the assets or reserves to be maintained as herein required; provided, however, that there shall be no discrimination in the making of such returns as between persons or places. Where the subscribers are grouped by industries or otherwise under any ruling or agreement which exempts the funds of one group from liability in whole or in part for the payment of losses or expenses chargeable against another group, each independent group must maintain the reserves and surplus herein specified and comply with the requirements of subdivision (f) of section 3 hereof relative to the number and amount of risks to be assumed.

SEC. 5. Section 6 of said act is hereby amended to read as follows:

SEC. 6. Such attorney shall, within the time limited for the filing of annual statements by insurance companies transacting the same kind of business, make a report, under oath, to the Insurance Commissioner for each calendar year, showing the financial condition of affairs at the office where such contracts are issued, and shall at any time furnish such additional information and reports as may be required; provided, however, that the attorney shall not be required to furnish the names and addresses of any subscribers except in case of an unpaid final judgment. The assets, business affairs and records of such organization and of the attorney shall be subject to examination by the Insurance Commissioner at any reasonable time, and such examination shall be at the expense of the organization, provided, such examination of the attorney shall be restricted to only such records and accounts as are concerned with the business of the exchange. The right of examination herein granted shall include the right to examine the records containing the names and addresses of the subscribers, but any information obtained therefrom shall be regarded as confidential and the disclosure thereof, except under order of court, shall constitute a breach of official duty. Where the principal office of the attorney is located in another State, the Insurance Commissioner may, in lieu of the examination provided for in this section, accept a certified copy of the report of examination made by the Insurance Department of the State where the principal office is located, or by the Insurance Department of any other State.

Sec. 6. Section 13 of said act is hereby amended to read as follows:
 Sec. 13. (a) Except as herein provided, the making of contracts by licensees provided for and such other matters as the Insurance Commission, 1930 and the provisions of the laws of this State relating to insurance, including those now (hereby amended) mentioned. This section shall not be construed, however, as depriving the Insurance Department of the State of the right of examination and of supervision over reciprocal or interinsurance exchanges, their officers, agents and brokers, or of the right to hold and conduct hearings on the matters and upon the other procedure as provided by law in the case of contract or other insurance companies, but such right is hereby expressly recognized and confirmed.

(b) It shall be unlawful for any licensed or unlicensed exchange, attorney in fact, agent or broker to give or offer a rebate to a subscriber, directly or indirectly. A rebate is hereby defined as an agreement, gift, loan or payment directly or indirectly made or offered as an inducement to secure the exchange of indemnities, other than a savings or credit to be returned to the subscriber in accordance with the provisions mentioned in the process of effecting, or in the reciprocal or interinsurance contract entered by him.

(c) The Insurance laws of this State regarding the Department of Insurance, unification and regulation of insurance, license holders and multiple shall not apply to the attorney in fact of a reciprocal or interinsurance exchange, nor to the salaried representatives of such exchange or attorney, receiving no commissions, but shall apply to any agent, broker or solicitor of any reciprocal or interinsurance exchange receiving any commissions.

(d) The provisions of section 506a of the Political Code shall be construed as reciprocal or interinsurance exchanges.

Sec. 7. A new section to be numbered 15 is hereby added to said act to read as follows:

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

The following message from the Governor was received and read:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE,
SACRAMENTO, APRIL 7, 1933.

To the President and Members of the Senate of the State of California:

I received today a letter from the President of the United States, which I transmit to you without delay. It concerns the national policy of oil conservation and California's part in it. The President's letter is accompanied by copies, transmitted herewith, of the unanimous report of three committees which met last week in Washington, comprising:

- (1) Representatives of the Governors of oil producing States;
- (2) Independent producers, and
- (3) Major companies, supplemented by a resolution adopted at the conference of the Governors of 16 States who were represented at the meeting, and also by a report signed by the Independent Petroleum Association Opposed to Monopoly.

The President directs particular attention to the first two recommendations of the combined committees representing State Executives and the oil industry, namely, the temporary closing of all fresh production and the immediate adoption of a conservation statute by States which have no law adequate to meet the existing emergency.

Two years ago our State Legislature passed, and I signed, a restrictive bill which was intended to anticipate in this State the situation which is now recognized as one of national importance on account of conditions here, and in other oil producing States. The measure was defeated on referendum. This may have been due to the fact that our proposed statute gave in substantial part the enforcement of oil restriction to representatives of the industry itself. In acting upon the President's message and the recommendations which accompanied it, you may wish to consider the advisability of giving to some such constitutional body as our Railroad Commission the power to limit and prorate production.

The present recognition by the executives of all the oil-producing States, by the industry at large, and by the President and his Secretary of the Interior, of the need for immediate action will, I think, commend itself to you and justify in no small measure the course proposed in this State two years ago.

If there were any doubt about the timeliness of the action taken then, it is now removed. Recognition will readily be given to critical conditions and to the need for exercising every effort not only to insure the success of the national plan but also to preserve one of the great industries of the State.

I leave to you the detail of the plan and the policy which you will adopt to meet our present need and the President's request, with every confidence that prompt and constructive action will be your response.

Respectfully,

JAMES ROLPH, JR., Governor of California.

(COPY.)

THE WHITE HOUSE, WASHINGTON, April 1, 1933.

Hon. James Rolph, Jr., Governor of California, Sacramento, California.

MY DEAR GOVERNOR ROLPH: I am sending you herewith for your consideration a report submitted to the Secretary of the Interior as the result of a three days' conference held in Washington the early part of this week on the oil situation and participated in by representatives of the Governors of seventeen of the oil-producing States. There were also present at the conference representatives of the independents in the industry as well as of the major oil- and gas-producing agencies. The main report was drafted and unanimously adopted by a committee of fifteen, composed in equal parts of representatives of the Governors, of the major oil industries, and of the independents. When this report was finally submitted to the full conference, it received the affirmative votes of all the representatives of the Governors and of those representatives of the oil industries voting as set forth on page four of the report.

Together with the majority report just referred to, I enclose also for your information, a minority report adopted by a group of independents and subscribed by them in the name of "Independent Petroleum Association Opposed to Monopoly."

I further enclose a resolution adopted by the representatives of the Governors after the main report already referred to had been ratified.

To complete the record, I am sending also a final correction to the recommendations made by the committee of fifteen, which was handed to the Secretary of the Interior yesterday.

I especially direct your attention to paragraphs A-1 and A-2 of the recommendations of the committee of fifteen. It is obvious that the action proposed to be taken in these paragraphs is within the sole authority and jurisdiction of the interested States. The President of the United States has no authority to declare a moratorium such as is proposed and he might be regarded as infringing on the sovereignty of the States if he should make the suggestion contained in paragraph A-2.

There seems to be a widespread feeling that an emergency exists in the oil industry calling for action and it is hoped that the Governors of the States affected, after consultation with each other, will take action appropriate to meet it.

The committee of fifteen in paragraphs A-3 and A-4 recommend certain action on the part of the Federal government. I am of the opinion that the suggestion that the Congress pass legislation prohibiting the transportation in interstate and foreign commerce of any oil or the products thereof produced or manufactured in any State in violation of the laws thereof, is well considered. I am prepared to recommend such legislation to Congress as a contribution on the part of the national government toward the solution of the difficulties in which the oil industry finds itself.

I also approve of the recommendation in paragraph A-4 of this report.

The report of the Independent Petroleum Association Opposed to Monopoly recommends "the enactment of emergency legislation by Congress divorcing oil pipe lines engaged in interstate commerce from other branches of the oil industry." I am of the opinion that this is a reasonable request and that such legislation should be enacted at as early a date as possible.

There are other suggestions and recommendations made to the Secretary of the Interior as a result of the deliberations of the oil conference that on their face are fair and reasonable but which do not require immediate action. These recommendations can be taken up at a later date, perhaps after further conferences between the representatives of the States and of the industry and of the national government.

Very sincerely yours,
(Signed)

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, D. C. March 29, 1933.

The Honorable The Secretary of the Interior

DEAR MR. SECRETARY: The three committees respectively representing (1) the Governors of the oil-producing States or their duly authorized delegates; (2) the oil and gas associations representing independent producers of oil and gas in the United States; and (3) the major oil and gas refining and marketing companies, after conferring together, have unanimously agreed to recommend the following program to you, in order to meet the existing emergency in the oil and gas industry and to provide the basis for conservation and scientific future development of the oil and gas resources of our country:

A. To meet the existing emergency, the committees unanimously recommend:

1. That the President of the United States be requested to transmit this report to the Governors of California, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico, and to call upon them immediately to cause all their laws to remain in force in their respective States until the fifteenth day of April, 1933, excepting such producing more than 10 per cent of water, which would be damaged irreparably by a complete shutdown.

2. That the President of the United States be requested to call upon the Governors and Legislatures of the principal oil-producing States which have no adequate or no general conservation statute to adopt such a statute immediately in order to further the conservation and scientific and economic development of the oil and gas resources of such States and to urge to obtain full cooperation toward those ends between all the principal producing States.

3. That the President of the United States be requested immediately to recommend to Congress the adoption of a law prohibiting the transportation in interstate and foreign commerce of any oil or the products thereof produced or manufactured in any State in violation of the laws thereof, and providing adequate penalties for violations of the said law.

4. That the President of the United States be requested (a) to require strict enforcement of the Federal gasoline tax and pipe line tax and vigorous prosecution of evaders thereof, so long as the said taxes remain in effect; and (b) to instruct the Bureau of Internal Revenue to cooperate at the time of collecting the tax, the consignor, consignee, destination and quantity being shipped by each refinery, and (c) to instruct the said bureau to transmit this said information to the tax collecting authorities of those States into which the gasoline is to be moved.

5. That the President of the United States be requested fully to endorse the recommendations made herein and to appeal to the States and to all those engaged in the oil and gas industry, faithfully to cooperate in the enforcement and observance of the said recommendations and in the limitation of production in harmony with a fair allocation of the national conservative demand.

6. We further recommend that the President submit to Congress a request for emergency legislation authorizing him to appoint a personal representative to cooperate with the duly constituted authorities of the several oil-producing States in bringing about a compliance on the part of said States with the program covered by these recommendations, and to advise and cooperate with the industry in complying with that portion of the program recommended for action by the industry; such act of Congress to be effective during the emergency only, and whenever in the opinion of the President of the United States the emergency in the oil industry has passed, thereupon, by proclamation, the President may declare the emergency ended and the office, thereby created, abolished.

B. To provide a basis for conservation of the oil and gas resources of the United States and the scientific future development of the oil and gas industry thereon, the committees are unanimously of the opinion:

1. That the government of the United States can and should assist in the following respects:

(a) By initiating a comprehensive and scientific study of the entire subject and publishing, as soon as possible, a report of the facts found, conclusions reached and recommendations made with reference thereto.

(b) By imposing an adequate competitive tariff on crude petroleum and the products thereof.

(c) By eliminating the tax on domestic refined products and the Federal pipe line tax.

(d) By vigorous prosecution for evasion of the Federal gasoline tax and pipe line tax if such taxes are to be continued.

(e) By permitting drilling on the public lands to be delayed.

(f) By limiting imports to the average for the last six months of 1932.

- (g) By continuing the Federal Oil Conservation Board as an advisory body.
2. That the producing States can aid and assist in the following respects:
- (a) By the enactment, where necessary, of adequate State laws under which conservation can be enforced.
  - (b) By the issuance of valid orders under such conservation statutes.
  - (c) By strict enforcement of the orders issued.
  - (d) By the equitable allocation of the allowed production as between pools.
  - (e) By limiting production of crude oil to the requirements of the consumer of refined products, or crude petroleum as such.
  - (f) By reaching an agreement with each other on the total market demand for crude petroleum and a proper allocation of this demand as between the producing States.

NOTE—Pending a more complete study of the subject, the production in the United States should for the time being be limited to 2,000,000 barrels per day, allocated as follows:

Texas .....	786,242 barrels
Oklahoma .....	417,690 barrels
Kansas .....	93,366 barrels
California .....	432,432 barrels
All other States .....	270,270 barrels

- (g) By rigidly enforcing the gasoline tax laws so as to prevent tax evasion, by preventing the diversion of the tax from highway uses, and by a reduction of the tax wherever at all possible.
  - (h) By encouraging permissive unit operation under voluntary agreements.
3. That the industry can aid and assist in the following respects:
- (a) By actively supporting governmental agencies in their efforts to make and enforce valid orders.
  - (b) By refraining from producing oil unlawfully and refusing to transport or purchase oil unlawfully produced.
  - (c) By marketing arrangements with limited areas conforming to the principle announced by the Supreme Court in the Appalachian Coals case.
  - (d) By diligent efforts to promote permissive unit operation under voluntary agreements.
  - (e) By avoiding excessive withdrawals from storage.
  - (f) By limiting drilling to the absolute minimum.
  - (g) By limiting imports to the average for the last six months of 1932.

C. If the foregoing conservation program is to succeed, the committees respectfully submit that it must be based on a price for crude oil which will allow a margin of profit to the producer and a price for the refined products which will allow a margin of profit for the refinery and the retail dealer.

Respectfully submitted.

WASHINGTON, D. C. March 29, 1933

Hon. Harold Ickes, Secretary of the Interior, Washington, D. C.

DEAR SIR: The petroleum industry of the United States is in a most favorable condition, than industry generally. It is more prosperous than most other industries which are monopolized, control agreements or restraint of trade cases being agreements, unfair practices, horizontal and vertical price fixing, and government regulation.

There is no overproduction of petroleum in the United States today.

True conservation of petroleum resources is desired. The duty and right of conserving the petroleum resources is a function of government, entrusted to the several sovereign States. It can only be done through a reasonable exercise of the police power which was reserved to the States and later delegated to the national government.

To the end that a more wholesome conservation of the industry, with the resultant good to the American people, may be brought about, we respectfully recommend the speedy accomplishment of the following desirable measures or goals:

1. That appropriate action be taken to require the Interstate Commerce Commission to fix and enforce fair and reasonable rates to be charged by pipeline common carriers engaged in the transportation of petroleum in interstate commerce.

2. The enactment of emergency legislation by Congress, divorcing oil pipeline engaged in interstate commerce from other branches of the oil industry.

3. That the Department of Justice be requested immediately to investigate and vigorously prosecute violations of the antitrust laws to the end that combinations and agreements in restraint of trade, price fixing and other unfair practices affecting the petroleum industry may be effectively stopped.

4. The immediate enactment of laws by Congress making it unlawful for any person, firm or corporation willfully to disseminate false information designed to influence public opinion.

5. That the Federal Oil Conservation Board be established.

6. That the American petroleum industry be requested to, but be assisted by the agencies of the government, in expanding all of the world market for petroleum and its products possible.

7. That American oil companies be discouraged in the present practice of developing unregulated and uncontrolled foreign oil fields with cheap foreign labor which compete with regulated and controlled American production.

8. That Congress protect the American market from the importation of foreign oils by the imposition of a competitive tariff.

9. That the Federal government respect and not interfere upon the rights and duties of the sovereign States to regulate the production of petroleum within their respective borders.

Respectfully submitted.

INDEPENDENT PETROLEUM ASSOCIATION OPPOSED TO MONOPOLY

The Governors' groups in the recent conference with the Secretary of the Interior, which yesterday agreed with him and with representatives of the industry, met again today and passed a resolution putting itself on record as favoring government cooperation but not government control of oil production.

The resolution follows:

RESOLUTION.

The conference of the Governors of the oil-producing States, or their representatives (16 States being represented) held at Washington, D. C. on March 27, 28 and 29, 1933, upon the call of the Honorable Harold I. Ickes, Secretary of the Interior, to consider problems affecting the conservation of the petroleum natural resources of the Nation and of the States, recommends action of the general character as follows, but subject to the reservations made by the delegates from Texas and Arkansas:

1. We approve the action of our committee of five in joining in the resolutions adopted by the so-called committee of fifteen, a copy of which is hereto attached.

2. We recommend to each Governor of the oil-producing States the appointment of one or more representatives, who, under some name selected by themselves, shall continue the work of this conference, and who, to the extent desired by the representatives appointed by the President of the United States shall cooperate with, or act jointly with, the said representative of the United States. We believe strongly in the policy of continuous cooperation between the Federal and State governments in the conservation of the petroleum resources of the Nation and States, with the purpose that neither the Federal government nor the States shall surrender or lose any of their powers, but that each shall so exercise its power as to further a common policy of conservation. The first meeting of said body should be held at Washington, D. C., as soon as authority from said Governors can be obtained.

3. We urge an immediate personal conference between the Governors of Oklahoma, Texas, California, Kansas, and Louisiana, to which may be invited the Governors of the other oil-producing States or their representatives, and the members of the conservancy bodies of such States, with the purpose of coordinating action by such States.

4. We urge frequent conferences between the responsible officials of the oil-producing States for the purpose of discussing policies affecting common problems.

(COPY.)

PHILADELPHIA, PENNSYLVANIA, March 30, 1933.

Hon. Harold Ickes, Secretary of the Interior Department, Washington, D. C.

DEAR SIR: You will remember during the last conference you had with the committee of fifteen, representing (1) the Governors or their authorized delegates from oil-producing States, (2) oil and gas associations of independent producers, (3) major oil and gas producing and importing companies, it was suggested by this committee that its original recommendations should be submitted to President Roosevelt, owing solely to the question as to whether the many duties of the Secretary of the Interior would permit his giving the time necessary to make completely effective the various recommendations of the committee.

In the haste to get the complete report before the conference paragraph 4 of the original recommendations of the committee of fifteen, and approved by the Governors or their authorized delegates, was inadvertently left out. This omission was not noticed at the time the complete report was read by Governor Landon before the entire conference.

The paragraph to which I refer reads as follows:

"(4) (a) As a measure of true conservation it shall be recognized that the oil reserve in the settled production areas of the country shall be preserved."

This paragraph was accepted by the committee as a compromise and affects approximately 275,000 or 300,000 of the 340,000 voters in the United States and is a vital part, therefore, of the recommendation.

I ask, therefore, that this explanatory letter, together with the original draft of the recommendations of the committee of fifteen, be printed and made a part of the record.

Yours very truly,

W. J. BRUNDRED, Oil City, Pennsylvania.

SECOND READING OF SENATE BILL NUMBER FIVE HUNDRED SIXTY SEVEN

Senate Bill No. 567. An act to amend an act entitled "An act to provide for the creation, organization and government of water conservation districts, defining their powers and prescribing the method of exercising the same, reenacting and continuing in force the provisions of Chapter 166 of the Statutes of 1929, known as the 'Water Conservation Act of 1929,' and validating and confirming all proceedings had and taken under the provisions of said act resulting in the organization of water conservation districts, and continuing such districts under the provisions of this act with the powers herein conferred."

AMENDMENTS FROM THE FLOOR

During second reading of Senate Bill No. 567, the following amendments, offered by Senator Jones, were read:

AMENDMENT NUMBER ONE

In the last line of the title of the printed bill, strike out the period following the word "conferred", and insert in lieu thereof a comma and the following: "and Chapter 1029, Statutes of 1931; to repeal sections 51 to 54 inclusive, and to add new sections to be numbered 51 to 78 inclusive, relating to amendment of laws from water conservation districts and to improvement districts within water conservation districts."

Amendment adopted.

AMENDMENT NUMBER TWO

In line 3 of the printed bill, after the figures "36", insert the following: "The district may incur a bonded indebtedness for any purpose for which the board of directors is authorized to expend the funds of the district in the manner in this act set forth.

The board of directors, whenever the interest of the district shall require, may cause a report to be made to the effect that the acquisition of certain property or works or the construction of such works is necessary or necessary to supply or to fill the purpose for which the district exists and that the cost of such property or works can not be paid for out of the annual revenues of the district. Such report shall be in such detail and be accompanied by such exhibits as will justify the purpose sought to be accomplished and the means to be employed therefor. Such report shall be printed in convenient form for distribution to the directors of the district.

After the printing of said report the board of directors by resolution adopted by a majority of the members of the board may call an election to be held in the district for the purpose of authorizing the incurring of a bonded indebtedness by the district. Such resolution shall specify the purpose for which it is proposed shall be issued, the maximum rate of interest such bonds shall bear, and the number of years, not exceeding twenty-five, the whole or any part of said bonds are to run until maturity. It shall further provide for submitting the question of the incurring of such indebtedness to the qualified electors of the district at an election called for that purpose, and the words to appear upon the ballot shall be "Bonds—Yes," and "Bonds—No," or words of similar import, together with a general statement of the amount and purpose of the bonds to be issued. Several propositions may be submitted at the same election. None but qualified electors of the district shall be permitted to vote at such election.

A notice shall be given of such election by publication in a newspaper of general circulation published in the district once a week for at least three weeks if published in a weekly or semiweekly newspaper or for at least ten days if published in a daily newspaper and the first publication shall be at least thirty days prior to the day fixed for the election.

Such notice shall state the time and place for holding the election, the names or numbers of the election precincts, which may be the general election precincts established by the board of supervisors for general State or county elections, or a consolidation of such precincts, or such other special precincts for the purpose of such bond election as the board of directors of such water conservation district may designate and establish, the location of the polling places and the names of the election officers appointed to conduct such election. Such notice shall also state the amount of the debt that it is proposed to incur, a brief statement of the purpose thereof and refer to the report hereinbefore provided to be made for further particulars, the number of years the bonds or any part thereof are to run before the maturity thereof and the maximum rate of interest such bonds shall bear.

The manner of holding and conducting such election, the selection of officers to conduct the same, the designation of precincts and polling places, the preparation of ballots and the receipt, counting and return of the same, and the canvassing and determining the results thereof shall be as provided for the election of directors as provided in this act as nearly as practicable, and in particulars not so provided shall be in accordance with the general laws of the State relative to elections whereon propositions are submitted and voted upon. In the event that such election has been fairly held and conducted, no informality nor omission to perform a prescribed duty shall be held to invalidate or affect the legality of any bonded debt authorized to be incurred.

If two-thirds of the votes cast upon the proposition shall have been marked and counted "Bonds—Yes" or appear to favor the proposition submitted, then such proposition shall be deemed to have been accepted by the voters and to authorize the incurring of a bonded debt and the issuance of bonds therefor to the amount of and for the purpose stated in the proposition.

Thereafter the board of directors of the district may issue the bonds of the district for the whole or for any part of the amount of the indebtedness so authorized, and may, from time to time, provide for the issuance of such amounts as the necessity therefor shall appear, until the full amount of such bonds authorized shall have been issued. Each separate issue shall be given a serial number or letter.

The board of directors shall, by a resolution adopted by a majority of its members, prescribe the form of the bonds and the form of the coupons attached thereto and fix the time when the whole or any part of the principal shall become due and payable. The payment of the first installment may be deferred for a period not longer than five years from the date of the bond, and not less than four per cent of the principal sum shall be paid each year at and following the date when the first installment becomes due and payable. The bonds shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding six per centum per annum, payable semiannually.

The denomination of the bonds shall be stated in the resolution providing for their issuance, but shall not be less than one hundred nor more than one thousand dollars. The principal and interest shall be payable in gold coin of the United States at the office of the treasurer of the county or such other place as may be designated or at either place at the option of the holder of the bond.

The bonds shall be dated, numbered consecutively, and be signed by the president of the district and attested by the secretary with the official seal of the district. The interest coupons shall bear the actual or facsimile signature of the president of the district.

The bonds as the same shall be issued may be sold at such times and in such amounts as the board of directors shall deem expedient, after a notice inviting bids therefor shall have been given by publication in a newspaper of general circulation published in the district for a period of at least ten days prior to such sale. A certified check payable to the district for at least five per cent of the amount of the bonds offered shall accompany each bid conditioned that the bidder will accept and pay for the bonds bid for if awarded to him, otherwise such check shall be forfeited to the district and the amount thereof paid into the treasury. In case no bids are received the bonds offered may be sold at private sale.

The proceeds arising from the sale of bonds shall be paid into the treasury of the district and placed to the credit of a special fund and expended only for the purpose for which the indebtedness was created.

It shall be the duty of the board of supervisors of the county or counties within which the district is situated to provide for the levy and collection of an assessment tax upon the lands within the district as in this act provided sufficient and in season to pay any installment of principal and all interest on the bonds that may become due during the year following the levy of such assessment tax.

At any time the board of directors may apply to the commission authorized by law to approve bonds of irrigation and other districts for certification as legal investments for savings banks or for other purposes specified in the act creating such commission and when such certification shall have been given, the bonds of the district shall be acceptable for investment and surety purposes to the same extent as are county or municipal bonds."

Amendment adopted.

AMENDMENT NUMBER THREE

Strike out all of lines 4, 5 and 6 of the printed bill, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"Sec. 2. Sections 51, 52, 53 and 54 of the Water Conservation Act of 1929 as revised by Chapter 1029, Statutes of 1931, are hereby repealed."

Sec. 3. Twenty-eight new sections to be numbered 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77 and 78 are hereby added to the Water Conservation Act of 1929 as amended by Chapter 1029, Statutes of 1931, and to read as follows:

Sec. 51. The boundaries of any water conservation district were established or hereafter organized under the provisions of this act, and by the same, any portion of land which were included within the boundaries of such district, or any other organization under the provisions of said act, may be excluded therefrom, in the manner and within the time herein provided, but no owner, any mortgage or the boundaries of the districts, nor such portions of lands from the district shall impair or affect its organization, or its right to use, property, or any of its rights or privileges of whatever kind or nature; nor shall it affect, impair, or discharge any contract, obligation, lien or charge for or upon which said district was at any time made liable or chargeable, and such change of its boundaries and lands made, or had not such land been excluded from the district.

Sec. 52. The owner or owners in fee of one or more tracts of land which constitute a portion of a water conservation district and which severally or in their entirety are contiguous to the extreme boundaries of the district may jointly or severally file with the board of directors of the district a petition, setting forth such tract or tracts, and any other tracts contiguous thereto, may be excluded and taken from said district. The petition shall state the grounds and reasons upon which it is claimed that such lands should be excluded and shall describe the boundaries thereof, and also the lands of some petitioners or petitioners which are included within such boundaries, but the description of such lands need not be more particular or certain than is required when the lands are entered as the assessment book by the county assessor. Such petition must be acknowledged in the manner and form as is required in the case of a conveyance of land, and the acknowledgment shall have the same force and effect as evidence as the acknowledgment of such a conveyance.

Sec. 53. The secretary of the board of directors shall cause a notice of the filing of such petition to be published for at least once a week for two weeks in some newspaper published in the county where the office of the board of directors is situated, and if any portion of such territory asked to be excluded lie within another county or counties then said notice shall be so published in a newspaper published within each of said counties; or if no newspaper be published therein, then by posting such notice for the same time in at least three public places in said district, and in case of the posting of said notices, one of said notices must be so posted on the lands proposed to be excluded. The notice shall state the filing of such petition, the names of the petitioners, a description of the lands mentioned in said petition, and the prayer of said petition, and it shall notify all persons interested in, or who may be affected by such change of the boundaries of the district, to appear at the office of said board or a time named in said notice, and show cause, in writing, if any they have, why the change of the boundaries of said district, as proposed in said petition, should not be made. The time to be specified in the notice at which they shall be required to show cause shall be the regular meeting of the board next after the expiration of the time for the publication of the notice. In the case of water conservation districts heretofore organized under the provisions of this act, said petition or petitions shall be filed within three months after the taking effect of the provisions herein for the exclusion of lands, and in the case of water conservation districts hereafter to be organized under this act within one year after the organization of such districts.

54. The board of directors, at the time and place mentioned in the notice, or at the time or times to which the hearing of said petition may be adjourned, shall proceed to hear the petition, and all evidence or proofs that may or shall be introduced by or on behalf of the petitioner or petitioners, and all objections to such petition that may or shall be presented in writing by any person showing cause as aforesaid, and all evidence and proofs that may be introduced in support of such objections. Such evidence shall be taken down in shorthand, and a record made thereof and filed with the board. The failure of any person interested in said district, other than the holders of bonds thereof outstanding at the time of the filing of said petition with said board, to show cause, in writing, why the tract or tracts of land mentioned in said petition should not be excluded from said district, shall be deemed and taken as an assent by him to the exclusion of such tract or tracts of land, or any part thereof, from said district, and the filing of such petition with said board, as aforesaid, shall be deemed and taken as an assent by each and all such petitioners to the exclusion from such district of the lands mentioned in the petition, or any part thereof. The expenses of giving said notice and of the aforesaid proceedings shall be paid by the person or persons filing such petition.

55. If, upon the hearing of any such petition, no evidence or proofs in support thereof be introduced, or if the evidence fail to sustain said petition, or if the board deem it not for the best interest of the district that the lands, or some portion thereof, mentioned in the petition, should be excluded from the district, the board shall order that said petition be denied as to such lands; but if the said board deem it for the best interest of the district that the lands mentioned in the petition, or some portion thereof, be excluded from the district, and if no person interested in the district show cause in writing why the said lands or some portion thereof, should not be excluded from the district, or if, having shown cause, withdraws the same, or upon the hearing fails to establish such objections as he may have made, then the board shall have power by unanimous vote of all seven directors, to make an order that the lands mentioned and described in the petition, or some defined portion thereof, be excluded from said district; provided, that it shall be the duty of said board to order, upon petition therefor as aforesaid, that all lands so petitioned to be excluded from said district shall be excluded therefrom, which in the judgment of all seven members of the board will not be benefited by the operations of the district.

56. If there be outstanding bonds of the district at the time of the filing of said petition, the holders of such outstanding bonds may give their assent, in writing, to the effect that they severally consent that the lands mentioned in the petition, or such portion thereof as may be excluded from said district by order of said board, or the decree of the superior court as hereinafter provided, may be excluded from the district; and if said lands, or any portion thereof, be thereafter excluded from the district, the lands so excluded shall be released from the lien of such outstanding bonds. The assent must be acknowledged by the several holders of such bonds in the same manner and form as is required in case of a conveyance of land, and the acknowledgment shall have the same force and effect as evidence as the acknowledgment of such conveyance. The assent shall be filed with the board, and must be recorded in the minutes of the board; and said minutes, or a copy thereof, certified by the secretary of said board, shall be admissible in evidence, with the same effect as the said assent, and such certified copy thereof may be recorded in the office of the county recorder of the county wherein said lands are situated.

57. In the event the said board of directors shall exclude any lands from said district upon petition therefor, it shall be the duty of the board of directors to make an entry in the minutes of the board, describing the boundaries of the district, should the exclusion of said lands from said district change the boundaries of said district, and for that purpose the board may cause a survey to be made of such portions of the district as the board may deem necessary; and a certified copy of the entry in the minutes of the board excluding any land, certified by the president and secretary of the board, shall be filed for record in the recorder's office of each county within which are situated any of the lands of the district; but said district, notwithstanding such exclusion, shall be and remain a water conservation district as fully, to every intent and purpose, as it would be had no change been made in the boundaries of the district, or had the lands excluded therefrom never constituted a portion of the district.

58. If the lands excluded from any district under this act shall embrace the greater portion of any division or divisions of such district, then the office of director for such division or divisions shall become and be vacant at the expiration of ten days from the final order of the board excluding said lands; and such vacancy or vacancies shall be filled by appointment by the board of supervisors of the county where the office of such board is situated, from the district at large. A director appointed as above provided, shall hold his office until the next regular election for said district, and until his successor is elected and qualified.

59. In case land is excluded from any district, the board of directors thereof, if they deem it desirable, but not less than thirty days before any election in such district, may reestablish the boundaries of the divisions and election precincts within such district.

60. A guardian and executor, or an administrator of an estate, who is appointed as such under the laws of this State, and who, as such guardian, executor, or administrator, is entitled to the possession of the lands belonging to the estate which he represents, may, on behalf of his ward, or the estate which he represents, upon being thereto properly authorized by the proper court, sign and acknowledge the petition in this act mentioned, and may show cause, as in this act provided, why the boundaries of the district should not be changed.

61. Nothing in this act provided shall, in any manner, operate to release any of the lands so excluded from the district from any obligation to pay, or any lien thereon of, any valid outstanding bonds or other indebtedness of said district at the time of the filing of said petition for the exclusion of said lands, but upon the contrary, said lands shall be held subject to said lien and answerable and chargeable for and with the payment and discharge of all of said outstanding obligations at the time of the filing of the petition for the exclusion of said land, as fully as though said petition for such exclusion were never filed and said order or decree of exclusion never made; and for the purpose of discharging such outstanding obligations, said lands so excluded shall be deemed and considered as part of said water conservation district the same as though said petition for its exclusion had never been filed or said decree of exclusion never made, and all provisions which may have been resorted to to compel the payment by said lands of their quota or portion of said outstanding obligations, and said exclusion never accomplished may, notwithstanding said exclusion, be resorted to to compel and enforce the payment on the part of said lands of their quota and portion of said outstanding obligations of said water conservation district for which it is liable, as herein provided. But said land so included shall not be held answerable or chargeable for any obligations of any nature or kind whatever, incurred after the filing with the board of directors of said district of the petition for the exclusion of said lands from the said district; provided, that the provisions of this section, shall not apply to any outstanding bonds, the holders of which have assented to the exclusion of said lands from said district, as hereinbefore provided.

62. Whenever one thousand or more of the holders of title or interest in title of land within a water conservation district as shown by the records of the county assessor, shall desire to create an improvement district within a water conservation district they may propose the organization of such an improvement district under the provisions of this act by filing a petition with the board of directors of the water conservation district. On receipt of the petition the board of directors shall set a time and place for a hearing on the petition and shall publish a notice of such hearing once a week for at least three weeks.

Upon the hearing on the petition the board of directors may make such changes in the boundaries of the proposed improvement district as may be deemed advisable and shall define and establish the boundaries, but the board shall not modify the boundaries so as to exclude from the proposed improvement district any territory which will be benefited by the organization of the improvement district nor include within such proposed improvement district any land which will not be so benefited by the organization. Any person whose land within a water conservation district would be benefited by such improvement district may, upon his written application and in the discretion of the board of directors, have such lands included within the proposed improvement district.

Upon the hearing of the petition the board of directors shall determine whether the petition complies with the requirements of this act and for that purpose must hear all competent and relevant testimony in support of or in opposition thereto. No defect in the form or contents of the petition or any proceeding thereon shall invalidate any proceeding, provided the petition or petitions have a sufficient number of qualified signatures attached thereto.

Sec. 63. If the board of directors shall determine that the organization of the proposed improvement district is in the public interest, then the board shall call an election for the determination of the question whether such proposed improvement district shall or shall not be organized. The board of directors shall divide the proposed improvement district into convenient precincts and fix a polling place in each precinct, and shall appoint an inspector, a judge and two clerks for each precinct thus established. The election must be held within forty days from the date of the order calling the election, and within one hundred twenty days of the date of filing said petition.

Notice of the election on the organization of the proposed improvement district shall be given in a newspaper published in the county or in each of the counties in which the proposed improvement district is situate, or the greater portion thereof, if there be one, at least once a week for three weeks previous to such election, and by posting notice thereof in three public places in the proposed improvement district and also by posting a copy in the office of such water conservation district. Such notice shall designate a name for such proposed district, and describe the boundaries thereof and designate the respective election precincts and the polling place in each, and the election officers, and the time of the election, and the hours during which the polls will be kept open; provided, that the polls must be opened not later than eight o'clock a.m. and kept open until seven o'clock p.m.

All electors residing within the proposed improvement district, whose names appear on the register of voters of the last general election and at any time within forty days preceding said election shall be qualified electors of said improvement district.

The board of directors shall require the clerk of the board to provide and furnish ballots for the election. No particular form of ballot shall be required except the same shall contain the words "Improvement district—Yes" and "Improvement district—No", or words equivalent thereto. The ballot shall contain instructions that the voter shall write or print or stamp the cross after the words that indicate his choice.

The election shall be conducted in accordance with the general election laws of the State as far as applicable and except as herein otherwise provided. The election officers shall publicly count the votes immediately after the close of the election and make and immediately transmit a report of the result of the election to the board of directors.

Sec. 64. The board of directors shall meet on the first Tuesday following such election, or as soon thereafter as may be convenient, and shall at such meeting proceed to canvass the votes cast at the election and, if upon such canvass the board determines that a majority of all the votes cast are for the organization of the improvement district, the board shall, by an order in its minutes, declare such territory a duly organized improvement district under the name designated and shall cause a copy of such order, certified by the clerk, to be filed in the office of the county recorder of any county in which any portion of the lands of the district shall be situated, and must also immediately forward a copy thereof to the clerk of the board of supervisors of any such county. From and after such filing the organization of the improvement district shall be complete.

The election on organization may be contested by any person holding property within the proposed improvement district liable to be assessed for the raising of funds to carry out the purposes of the improvement district. The directors of the water conservation district shall be made parties defendant. Such contest shall be brought in the superior court of the county where the petition for organization is filed; provided, if more than one contest be pending, they shall be consolidated and tried together. The court having jurisdiction shall immediately try such contest, and determine, upon the hearing, whether the election was fairly conducted and in substantial compliance with the requirements of this act, and enter its judgment accordingly. Such contest must be brought within twenty days after the canvass of the votes and declaration of the result by the board.

Sec. 65. Whenever such an improvement district is organized within a water conservation district such improvement district shall be under the supervision, direction and control of the board of directors of the water conservation district and such directors of the water conservation district shall have the same power, authority and jurisdiction over and with reference to the improvement district that the board possesses over and with reference to the water conservation district and improvements made within and chargeable to the entire water conservation district, provided, that any obligation created in behalf of an improvement district shall be a charge against only the property situated within such improvement district.

All provisions of this act in so far as they are applicable, including provisions for bonds and assessments, shall apply to and govern the improvement districts within water conservation districts as herein provided.

Sec. 66. In addition to and as an alternative method of creating improvement districts of parts of the area within water conservation districts two-thirds of the holders of title or evidence of title of any tract or contiguous tracts of land, situated within any water conservation district organized under this act, susceptible of conservation of water, or capable of development separate and apart from the main project or the development of the water resources of the entire water conservation district, provided by section 1 of this act, may petition the board of directors of the water conservation district to create and organize an improvement district within the water conservation district for the purpose of conserving and developing the water resources of such improvement district and for the levying of assessments to pay the costs thereof.

Sec. 67. Said petition shall contain a statement of the plan of the proposed improvement, a description of the boundaries of such proposed improvement district, the names of the owners of all lands within such improvement district with their last known addresses and a description of the lands owned thereby, and which petition shall be signed and acknowledged by the requisite number of landowners. Such petition and all proceedings in reference thereto, and the lands affected thereby, shall be designated by number, and the description of the parcels of land shall be according to the last duly equalized assessment book of the county assessor.

Sec. 68. Upon receipt of such petition the board of directors of said district shall cause a survey to be made of said proposed improvement and if, upon such survey, it is found that such plan of improvement is feasible, said board shall cause to be prepared plans and specifications of such improvement and an estimate of the cost thereof, together with a statement and assessment of the amount of such costs apportioned to each tract of land in said improvement district, as said tracts of land are shown upon the last equalized assessment book of the county assessor, according to the benefits that will accrue to each of said tracts of land in said improvement district respectively, by reason of the expenditures of said sums of money for said improvements. Said board of directors of said district are hereby designated and constituted a board of assessment commissioners to levy and apportion said assessment. Said petition, plans, specifications and proposed assessment shall be filed in the office of said district and shall be subject to the inspection of all parties interested.

Sec. 69. After the filing of such plans, specifications, estimate, statement and assessment, said board shall give notice of a hearing upon said petition and whether a special assessment shall be levied upon the lands within said improvement district for the purpose of raising money to pay for such improvements, as set forth in such petition, plans, specifications, statement and assessment, notice of which hearing shall be given by posting a notice thereof in three public places within said proposed improvement district, the publication of such notice once a week for two weeks in some newspaper published in the county in which the other of said water conservation district is situated, and sending a copy thereof to the last known address of all the owners of said lands in said improvement district, as such address appears in said petition. Such notice shall be posted and mailed not less than twenty days prior to the date set for said hearing.

Sec. 70. At said hearing said board shall hear such objections to the said petition and to the formation of said improvement district and its boundaries, and to the said plans, specifications and estimates, and to said proposed assessment, and the apportionment thereof as may come before them and at such hearing shall make such changes in reference thereto as they may consider proper. The board may exclude any part or portion of the lands described in said petition from said improvement district, and may include additional lands provided, however, that if any additional lands are included therein, the levying of said petition shall be continued and the owners of said added lands be given not less than twenty days previous notice of the addition of such lands to said improvement district. It may, if any one-third in number of the holders of either an address or piece of land within said improvement district shall object, at said hearing, to the formation of said improvement district and the levy of said proposed assessment, said board of directors shall deny said petition and no further proceeding shall be had thereon.

At said hearing said board of directors shall make a final order to be entered in the minutes of said board and a copy thereof recorded in the office of the county recorder in which any of said lands of said improvement district may be located, approving said petition creating said improvement district, levying said assessment for said purposes and apportioning the same to the said lands according to location, and which said assessment shall include a sum that shall equal interest on any deferred payments at a rate not to exceed seven per cent per annum, and ten per cent additional for anticipated delinquency. Said assessment may be made payable in not to exceed ten annual installments and the board of directors of said water conservation district shall, at the time of the levy of the annual assessments of said district, if any, add to the amount of the annual assessment levied upon said lands within said improvement district such amount for which they may be liable in reason of the levying of said improvement district assessment, and if said annual district assessment is made payable in two installments then said improvement district assessment or installment thereof shall be and remain a lien on said lands in the same manner as and be a part of the annual assessment of said water conservation district.

Sec. 71. Said water conservation district shall issue warrants for the amount of said assessment which warrants shall be made payable in amounts and at the time corresponding substantially to the payment of the installments of said improvement district assessment and shall bear interest at such rate of interest as may have been fixed on the levy of said improvement district assessment. Said warrants shall be payable only out of funds derived from the levy and collection of said improvement district assessment on said lands.

Sec. 72. The said work of improvement provided for in this act and the purchase of all necessary supplies, material and equipment therefor, shall be purchased and done by said water conservation district or in the discretion of the board of directors bids may be received for said work and material and proceedings had and taken in reference thereto as provided for in the Water Conservation Act of 1929 as revised by Chapter 1020, Statutes of 1931, provided, however, that the cost thereof shall be paid only out of said assessments levied upon and collected from the said lands in said improvement district.

Sec. 73. Should the assessments levied upon said lands in such improvement district be insufficient to pay in full the cost of such improvements or pay the warrants issued for said improvements, an additional and supplemental assessment shall be made and levied upon all of said lands sufficient to pay said cost or said warrants in full, and the procedure followed in making such additional and supplemental levy of assessment shall be substantially the same as the levy of the original assessment, but without the necessity of a petition. If the proceeds from said assessment so levied shall exceed the final amount necessary for such purposes, said lands so paying said assessment shall be entitled to a credit in said excess amount upon the next succeeding district annual assessment levied upon said land.

Sec. 74. Said board of directors and all other officers of said water conservation district shall have all the rights, powers and privileges concerning said improvement district, and lands thereof and the proceedings herein provided for, as such board may have concerning the water conservation district, of which it is a part, and including the right of said district to condemn lands and to acquire, own and hold property within said improvement districts.

Sec. 75. This act shall be liberally construed to carry out the purposes and intent hereof.

Sec. 76. In case any section or sections, or a part of any section, of this act shall be found to be unconstitutional, the remainder of the act shall not be invalidated thereby, but shall remain in full force and effect.

Sec. 77. This act shall not be construed as repealing the existing Conservancy Act of California, approved May 16, 1919, or any part thereof or any other existing law of this State, but shall be treated as, and shall be in effect, an alternative act thereto.

Sec. 78. It is hereby declared that this act is a reenactment of Chapter 166 of the Statutes of 1929, and known as the "Water Conservation Act of 1929," and is to be construed as a continuation of said act.

All water conservation districts that have been organized after an election has been held pursuant to said statute and declared to have been organized in accordance with its provisions are hereby declared to have been duly and legally organized and all proceedings relative thereto are hereby validated and confirmed. Such districts shall continue to exist and exercise and enjoy all the powers, rights and privileges conferred by this act."

WHEREAS, This Legislature will have failed in its duty and responsibility to the people of California if it does not balance the budget; therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate, That the Committee on Finance be directed upon request of this Senate, at the earliest date possible, to plan that shall balance the budget and equalize estimated revenues with expenditures for the coming biennium.

Resolution, upon request of the author, passed on file.

STATEMENT BY SENATOR JESPERSEN.

The following statement, offered by Senator Jespersen, was received and read:

In the report of W. H. Cooley, California's representative at the oil conference at Washington, D. C., to Governor Rolph (as it appears in the Senate Journal of April 6th) there are two statements which I believe should be challenged because they clearly indicate the unreliability of his report. Referring to John B. Elliott, who represented the Independent Petroleum Association of California at the conference, Mr. Cooley says:

"John B. Elliott * * * stood out against his own organization and all other groups attending the conference" and, second, "Mr. Elliott had no program of his own to present, although he was requested by many of the representatives to offer a program."

Mr. Cooley weakens the accuracy of his second statement by attaching to his report to Governor Rolph the very program prepared by Mr. Elliott which he (Mr. Cooley) says Mr. Elliott did not present at the Washington conference. Moreover, it is a significant fact that the President of the United States was so impressed with one of the features of Mr. Elliott's program that, since the close of the Washington oil conference, he has publicly announced his intention to make it the basis of a recommendation to Congress to enact a law divorcing pipelines engaged in interstate commerce from other branches of the industry. This surely does not look as though Mr. Elliott's program was overlooked at Washington, although at Sacramento Mr. Cooley seems disposed to have us believe otherwise.

As to Mr. Cooley's first statement, that "Mr. Elliott stood out against his own organization," I have the authority of certain telegrams which passed between the executive head of the organization at Los Angeles and Mr. Elliott at Washington to show how wholly inaccurate is Mr. Cooley's report in this respect. Not only was Mr. Elliott's stand at the Washington conference fully endorsed by his organization but it is also a fact that when, just prior to the opening of this Legislature, Mr. Cooley presented to the Independent Petroleum Association of California the draft of a proposed bill similar in its monopolistic intent to the re-enacted Oil Control Bill, that organization condemned it in a formal resolution. And this same condemned bill, which has all the earmarks of major oil industry protection, subsequently showed up at Sacramento, and now lies dusty and neglected in the desk of a member of the Assembly.

In conclusion, I wish to say that when some time back I introduced in this Senate a resolution to inquire into Mr. Cooley's employment as an oil conferee from California, particularly with respect to the source of the funds to finance his numerous trips to and from oil conferences at Washington ostensibly as the representative of California. I was firmly convinced, as were many others, that Mr. Cooney had no serious thought for the interests of the oil industry as a whole nor for the real interests of the people of California. And everything that has since transpired in this latest Washington conference tends to confirm my belief.

INTRODUCTION, FIRST READING AND REFERENCE OF BILLS.

By Senators Breed, Hays, Waggy, Williams, Mixter, Riley, Pierovich, Schottky and Seawell: Senate Joint Resolution No. 19—Relative to approval by the President of the United States of a project for the completion of the John Muir Trail under the provisions of Act of Congress approved March 31, 1933.

WHEREAS, The seventy-third Congress of the United States of America at its first session adopted on March 31, 1933, an act entitled "An act for the relief of unemployment through the performance of useful public work, and for other purposes," under which the President of the United States is authorized to select projects qualifying for construction in accordance with the purpose of the act; and

WHEREAS, The project is at present in such a state of incompleteness as to be only partially useful, and it would be highly desirable that the said John Muir Trail be completed between Yosemite and Sequoia National Parks, and be extended from Yosemite National Park to Lake Tahoe, in El Dorado National Forest, or the north, and be extended southerly from Sequoia National Park, through the Kern River Canyon, to connect with the national forest road system of Sequoia National Forest; now, therefore, be it

COMMUNICATION.

The following communication was read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL,
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, April 11, 1933.

Hon. Joseph A. Beck, Secretary of the Senate,
State Capitol, Sacramento, California.

In re: S. B. 827 as amended April 6, 1933.

DEAR MR. BECK: I have your letter of April 10, 1933, in which you state—

"I am directed by the Senate to submit to you Senate Bill No. 827, as amended in the Senate April 6, 1933, and to ask you whether or not in your judgment this bill as amended violates Joint Rule No. 9."

The rule to which you refer provides that—

"A substitute or amendment must relate to the same subject as the original bill, resolution or constitutional amendment under consideration."

This, I believe, is a new rule, adopted this session, and I have not found in the Journals of this session any decision of the presiding officers or of either house of the Legislature construing or applying this rule.

The bill, as introduced, proposed to add section 173 to the Code of Civil Procedure, the title of the bill describing it as—

An act "prohibiting the practice of law by attorneys employed full time in the offices of the Attorney General of the State of California, in the offices of district attorney and public defenders and of city prosecutors, and in the offices of other public officials throughout the State of California."

The bill as amended April 6, 1933, strikes out everything but the enacting clause, and substitutes therefor amendments to sections 112 and 274c of the same code, repealing sections 831h, 835a, 900b and 982a of that code, described in the title as amended, as—

An act "relating to courts of justice and various officers thereof."

There is no doubt in my mind that the bill in each form (as introduced and as amended) deals with a single subject. Also, there would appear to be no reason why one and the same bill could not deal both with courts and attorneys at one and the same time, attorneys being officers of the court, though, in the instant case, there would be good reason for holding that the bill as introduced affected attorneys holding public office and in their capacity as public officers, rather than as attorneys. The difficulty in the instant case is that, as introduced, the bill by its own terms defines a specific subject, and, as amended, would seem to define a different specific subject.

I am, therefore, of the opinion that the amendment effected April 6, 1933, violates the rule.

Very truly yours,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel.

Sec. 6. (a) The Department of Public Works shall annually expend from the State highway fund an amount equal to one-quarter of one cent per gallon tax on motor vehicle fuel, after the proportionate payments therefrom into the "fuel tax enforcement fund" and after the proportionate refunds shall have been made, within the incorporated cities and cities organized under freeholder charters, in this State, for the purposes specified in this section and in section 5 of this act, and such expenditures shall be made within each such city within the State in the proportion that the total population in each city bears to the total population in all such cities in this State. For the purpose of this section the population in each city is declared to be that determined by the last preceding Federal census.

(b) The expenditure of the money hereby allocated to each incorporated and charter city shall, in the discretion of the Department of Public Works, be made first for the acquisition of rights of way for, or the construction or maintenance or improvement of State highways or portions thereof within such city.

(c) In the event that the amount of money allocated to any one incorporated or charter city is greater than is necessary to adequately maintain and improve to adequate standard all State highways within such city, then any surplus amount accruing to such city shall be expended for the acquisition of rights of way, or the construction, or maintenance or improvement of other streets of major importance within such city as may be agreed upon by the Department of Public Works and the legislative body of such city.

(d) With respect to any expenditure within an incorporated or charter city herein authorized, the Department of Public Works may designate any such expenditure to the legislative body of such city, when such it would be authorized to be made, that such city is empowered to conduct such maintenance or improvement work in an efficient and economic manner.

(e) The legislative body of any incorporated or charter city may authorize the incumbrance of funds occurring in or over a period of years, or authorize the advancement of moneys to occur in such any year or period of years to secure the accomplishment of a definite project or projects. No such authorization or advancement of funds shall be made without the approval of the Department of Public Works.

(f) The legislative body of any incorporated or charter city may authorize the allocation and expenditure by the Department of Public Works of any moneys accruing to such city hereunder upon any State or other moneys given or granted outside the limits of such city. The expenditure of these moneys shall be accounted as a guaranty for the expenditures of not less than the amount herein provided within each year, but shall not be deemed to prevent the expenditure of any larger amount by the Department of Public Works upon any State highway or project thereof lying within an incorporated city or city organized under Governmental charters in this State, as provided in section 5 of this act.

Sec. 5. Said act is hereby amended by adding thereto a new section to be numbered 7, to read as follows:

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The following message from the Governor was received and read:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE,
SACRAMENTO, April 12, 1933.

To the Members of the Senate.

Attached hereto is a letter addressed to me, dated April 7, 1933, from Mr. Robert M. Searls, Standard Oil Building, San Francisco, together with certified copy of a resolution passed by the Legislature of the State of Arizona, relating to foreign trade and commerce.

This is being transmitted to you for your information and such action as is deemed advisable in the premises.

Respectfully submitted,

JAMES ROLPH, JR., Governor of California.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA, April 7, 1933.

Hon. James Rolph, Jr., Governor of California, Sacramento, California.

DEAR GOVERNOR ROLPH: I take the liberty of enclosing a certified copy of a resolution passed by the Legislature of the State of Arizona which has just been placed in my hands, importuning the President of the United States to effect an early adjustment of the foreign debts in order to bring about a revival of American and foreign trade and commerce.

I understand that a move is being made in a number of other States to encourage the President and Congress in expediting this desirable move. Certainly nothing could be more important to the State of California than to get the debt question settled and have foreign nations once more in a position to buy our products.

If you consider the matter worth a submission to the State Legislature, the enclosure may be of some use as a basis for your action. I am sending it to you at the suggestion of friends and clients interested in the copper mining industry, but I think there is a much wider basis than that for its serious consideration.

Very respectfully,

ROBERT M. SEARLS.

REPORTS OF STANDING COMMITTEES.

The following report of standing committee was received and received printed in the Journal.

REPORT BY SENATE COMMITTEE ON JUDICIARY ON CHARGES REFERRED BY GOVERNOR ROLPH AGAINST SENATOR INMAN

To the Senate of the State of California

Your Committee on Judiciary begs leave to report:

Certain charges made by His Excellency, the Governor, in his official capacity, were heretofore referred to this committee for consideration and determination.

Because of the seriousness of the charges made, and the prominent public action of this character might tend to establish, your committee desired to ascertain as fully advised as to the law concerning the charges involved, and the proper procedure for their removal to pass on. For that reason all of your committee were referred to the Legislative Council with a request for the advice concerning the subject. The Legislative Council made a very extensive report of the matter involved, and his opinion that heretofore as demonstrated of the opinions required and of the course to be pursued by this committee.

In line with the conclusions arrived at by the Legislative Council this committee has no authority to subpoena witnesses, nor to require testimony in the charges made, nor the duty of the charges, until procedure of that committee. It therefore becomes the duty of this committee to refer the matter back to the Senate with a copy of the Legislative Council's opinion so the Senate may so fully advise concerning the conclusions arrived at by the Legislative Council, and the committee concerning such charges and the reason for the proper removal thereof. When such a course would no doubt dispose of this particular matter, there is involved in charges of this character a very more serious matter. In the future you will have a charge preferred by the Chief Executive against a member of the Legislature at a time when that member was in possession of information as to the Senate, conducting an investigation into the affairs of the Senate, which is the opinion of the Senate required not only investigating but explanation.

Of course it is the right and province of the Legislature, and we believe of the duty, to call the attention of the Legislature to any impropriety of law in a manner which would subject the member to exposure. In the future also we are advised by the Legislative Council that the charges preferred are not at all a matter. The Governor, however, in his communication of April 10, 1933, to you, in which he is represented by counsel and that his counsel in that matter was Judge Golden, from which we assume that Judge Golden considered such charges as "charges" concerning the preparation and filing of such charges and that the Governor followed the advice of Mr. Golden.

We cannot assume that the Governor himself acted other than in good faith and with proper motive. However, the statements contained in the charges, and the time and conditions under which they were made, suggested to us, committee, upon the possibility of the Governor having been grossly deceived. It is important to note that most of the alleged offenses were of long standing and occurred during prior term of office of the member involved. None of the charges directly involved any official act of the member referred to, and at the present time there were none the member involved was engaged in the performance of a legislative duty and function assigned him by the Senate. The question naturally arises: Was the making and filing of the charges filed so as to harass the member and embarrass him while performing an important legislative function? If so, it was an offense on the part of the Chief Executive, but having acted under advice and with the aid of counsel we can only assume that the fault, if any, was not that of the Governor but of his attorney.

Rule 13 of the Code of Professional Ethics applicable to members of the State Bar provides "a member of the State Bar shall not commit any act of gross misconduct . . . a case solely out of spite or solely for the purpose of harassing . . . another."

If Judge Golden is not familiar with this rule, it is well as well to call to his attention for if charges of the character mentioned are not well founded, and if the only effect is to harass a member and embarrass him in the performance of his duty, it would be highly improper for an attorney to either advise or counsel the making of any such charge.

The Legislature has a very important function to perform and should not be embarrassed by the filing of groundless accusations, which can have no other effect and serve no purpose other than maligning a member or subjecting him to ridicule and thereby interfere with his duties. The Legislature should look with disfavor on any action of any official which would tend to lessen the efficiency of its members.

Under our Constitution the executive and legislative departments are intentionally severed. Neither should improperly encroach upon the powers or functions of the other, nor should either department intentionally or otherwise embarrass the other in the proper performance of their respective duties.

In considering the subject before us, we are not concerned with any political or personal feelings or animosities between the parties involved, nor are we concerned with absolving a member of the Senate should he commit an offense which would justify action by the Senate. We are bound, however, to act in accordance with law and proper procedure and this we must do even though it results in a summary disposition of the charges made. In so disposing of the charges, it is not to be taken as a slap at, or reflection on, the Governor, nor is it to be deemed as an indication that the Legislature would condone an offense by a member if such offense was one that permitted action. The Senate is concerned in maintaining the highest possible standard of integrity and faithful action on behalf of its members, and will, at all times, insist upon such conduct, but we are not justified in criticizing the private actions or conduct of a person simply because he happens to be a member of the Legislature. In each instance mentioned in the charges filed by the Governor, Senator Inman was acting as an attorney. There is neither law, rule nor reason which prevents him appearing before any tribunal, department or officer of this State in the practice of his profession.

While it is possible to draw different inferences, we must assume that the Senator, when acting as such attorney, acted in good faith and that he conformed to the code of ethics prescribed by the State Bar. If he did not, it is a subject for the State Bar Association and not for the Senate.

Senator Inman did not participate in any of the deliberations of the Committee on Judiciary either in the consideration of the charges or in the preparation of the report.

We respectfully suggest that the Governor be advised of our action and that the matter be closed.

Respectfully,

SWING, Chairman.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL.

SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, April 10, 1933.

Hon. Ralph E. Swing,

Chairman of Senate Committee on Judiciary.

Senate Chamber, State Capitol, Sacramento, California.

DEAR SENATOR SWING: Under date of April 8, 1933, we received the following communication from you:

"I herewith hand you a communication from His Excellency, the Governor, making certain specific charges against a member of the Senate, to wit, the Honorable J. M. Inman.

The matter is now pending before the Judiciary Committee of the Senate. I desire to ascertain from you, for the benefit of the committee, the following:

(a) Do the charges set out in the Governor's communication constitute ground for removal or suspension from office?

(b) Do the charges set out in the Governor's communication disclose any violation of any duty imposed upon a member of the Legislature?

(c) Do the charges set out in the Governor's communication disclose any violation of any rule regulating the official conduct of a member of the Legislature?

(d) Are the charges set out in the Governor's communication sufficient to justify the hearing of evidence by the Senate concerning such charges?

(e) Assuming the truthfulness of all of the accusations set forth in the Governor's communication, do such charges or any of them, directly or indirectly form the basis for official action by the Senate?"

The communication thus referred to consists of three letters, each addressed to the Special Investigating Committee of the Senate of California and dated, respectively, February 6, February 20, and February 20, 1933. A copy of each is attached hereto.

Preliminarily I would state that in my opinion it is the function of the Committee on Judiciary of the Senate not to investigate these charges nor to take any evidence concerning them at this time but merely to consider such purely legal questions as may be involved with a view to making recommendations to the Senate as to the action, if any, the latter should take.

There is nothing in the Standing Rules of the Senate authorizing the Committee on Judiciary to conduct any such inquiry and the order of reference in the instant case was in legal effect merely the submission by the Senate to the committee of such legal issues as might be involved, the committee to report back, advising the Senate what course of action, if any, in the opinion of the committee the Senate should take (see Senate Daily Journal, March 1, 1903, pages 1 and 47).

As to the specific questions propounded by you to our two well known friends, at least we may aid in the answer in certain cases.

(a) Do the charges set out in the Government's constitutional complaint amount to removal or suspension from office?

What constitutes ground for removal or suspension of a member of the Senate in a given case is for that body to decide. It is not a matter for inquiry on the part of the Judicial Department and should depend on any future system. In deciding such a question it is the province of a legislative body to determine in what cases and under what circumstances the same or other legislative bodies in the past have disciplined members. Such precedents include the dramatic proceedings which may be looked on as a guide to action in a given case.

In California we have, thus, two express declarations of legislative authority in section 9 of Article IV of the Constitution:

"Each house shall determine the rules of its proceedings, and may, with the concurrence of two-thirds of all the members elected, expel a member."

This is but the statement in condensed form of the inherent power of a legislative body to discipline its members, changed from a sentence to a specifically stated as more broadly stated in Cushing vs. Light and Finance of Legislative Assemblies:

"The power to expel a member is naturally, and even necessarily, incidental to all legislative bodies, which without such power could not meet lawfully and freely the object of their creation. It is so in the very nature of things, that is, it is impossible to qualify individuals at the outset for office as members, ought to be expelled and, therefore, in the nature of the power, in each particular case, a legislative body should be governed by the strictest justice, for if the welfare of parts should be put upon an arbitrary position, and a representation of the people diminished of the body constituted upon that by law, it would be without good cause a supply of good would then be secured by the representative body, and the confidence which confidence with the freedom of election." (See, 625, p. 250.)

As an incident to the power to expel, a legislative body possesses the power to discharge a member.

"The power to expel also includes in it a power to discharge a member, for good cause, without reflecting upon him, the Senate and Congress agreed to the term expulsion, and this has accordingly been done in some instances, by the House of Congress." (Cushing, See, 625, p. 251.)

The power to expel would seem then to require the power to suspend.

Analogous to the right of suspension is that of committal, is limited from the exercise of his functions as such, for a longer or shorter period, which is a sentence of a milder character than the former, though attended with some what different effects. For during suspension, the member is deprived of the services of their representatives, without power to occupy his place, but the rights of the electors are not more affected by this proceeding than by the exercise of the power to punish." (Cushing, See, 627, p. 251.)

In exercising such powers a legislative body must, necessarily, and independently of either of the other branches of government. The Judicial branch, for example, has not the authority to judge or suspend the action in the Senate in this regard. In French vs. Senate, 146 Cal. 604, some constitutional grounds were stated in the following terms:

"The Legislature is a co-equal department of the State government. By Article III of the Constitution it is provided that one department of the State shall not exercise the functions of either of the other departments except as in that instrument expressly limited and permitted. There is no authority authorizing courts to control, direct, supervise, or forbid the exercise by either house of the power to expel a member. These powers are functions of the legislative department, and therefore in the exercise of the power thus committed to it the Senate is supreme. An attempt by this court to direct or control the Legislature, or either house thereof, in the exercise of the power, would be an attempt to exercise legislative functions, which it is expressly forbidden to do."

As a precedent for legislative action French vs. Senate, 146 Cal. 604, indicates that it is eminently proper for the Senate to expel members found by a court of accepting bribes given to influence their conduct as senators, that being the action taken in that case.

What, short of commission of a crime involving his conduct as a senator, would be cause for removal or suspension is not indicated by the California precedent that we have found. It seems appropriate to consider what precedents are furnished by other legislative bodies so far as available records disclose for in the instant case no crime of any sort whatsoever has been charged or any acts affecting the member's conduct as a member. We turn first to "Hind's Precedents of the House of Representatives" of the Congress of the United States.

The only cases which we find there noted in which the Senate or the House of Representatives entertained an inquiry looking toward the expulsion or suspension of a member were in respect to the asserted violation of a penal law or conduct in his capacity as a member of such character, in the judgment of the House or Senate, as indicated he was not fit to be or remain a member. The greater number of these cases arose as a question of privilege.

A resolution directing an inquiry into alleged treasonable conduct on the part of a member was admitted as a question of privilege "and of the very highest kind, since it involved the right of a member to his seat" (1865, H. P. III, Sec. 2653).

A charge of "corruption, bribery and malfeasance in office" was held to present a question for investigation of which a committee could be appointed (1865, H. P. III, Sec. 1830).

An accusation in a newspaper that certain members had received an excess of mileage pay was held to involve a question of privilege (1840, H. P. III, Sec. 2704).

A newspaper allegation that a certain number of representatives had entered into a corrupt speculation was held to involve a question of privilege. The alleged speculation was that pending the adoption of a certain act of Congress for the purchase of silver bullion certain members were admitted to a partnership in various silver pools by which they realized tremendous profits in the rise of silver after the passage of the act. Even then the Speaker did not take the responsibility himself of ruling on the question. He submitted the same to the House, which decided that the resolution presented a question of privilege (1891, H. P. III, Sec. 2704).

A resolution charging that members had violated section 3730 of the revised statutes (which section prohibited any member from undertaking or enjoying any contract or agreement with any officer of the United States) was deemed in order and appropriate for consideration (1904, H. P. III, Sec. 2710).

A charge that a member violated a law in the matter of alleged liquor speculation was held to involve privilege (1864, H. P. III, Sec. 1829).

The principles by which legislative bodies have been guided in such matters were stated in the report of a committee of the House of Representatives in 1872.

In that case an investigating committee in making its report stated the guiding principles as follows:

"Members of Congress are not subject to be impeached but may be expelled, and the principal purpose of expulsion is not as punishment but to remove a member whose character and conduct show that he is an unfit man to participate in the deliberations and decisions of the body and whose presence in it tends to bring the body into contempt and disgrace. In both cases it is a power of purgation and purification, to be exercised for the public safety and, in the case of expulsion, for the protection of the character of the House."

It is, of course, for the Senate to decide whether the application of such principles would present a case for expulsion or suspension in the instant case. Such precedents as we have been able to find do not indicate that such a case is here presented.

(b) Do the charges set out in the Governor's communication disclose any violation of any duty imposed upon a member of the Legislature?

Our examination of the Constitution, codes and general laws of this State indicates that the only duty imposed upon a member of the Legislature by express provision of law is that he be present during the session and unless excused cast his vote upon the legislative measures before the House, and the prohibition against taking a bribe affecting his vote on any matter. The accusations against Senator Inman do not appear to come within either of these limitations.

We have also examined the Senate Rules and the Joint Rules and find nothing therein which appears in any way to bear upon this question.

(c) Do the charges set out in the Governor's communication disclose any violation of any rule regulating the official conduct of a member of the Legislature?

We have been unable to discover any rule regulating the official conduct of a member of the Legislature except such as are mentioned in our response to question "b" above.

(d) Are the charges set out in the Governor's communication sufficient to justify the hearing of evidence by the Senate concerning such charges?

The Senate itself, as already indicated, is the sole judge as to what matters are of sufficient importance to warrant a senatorial investigation. The cases cited in the answer to question "a" may be of aid in determining the answer to this question also.

It may be suggested that it is not the province of legislative bodies to conduct investigations not considered to pertain to action by the body. The grounds on the other question would be an important bearing upon this case.

(c) Assuming the truthfulness of all of the statements set forth in the University of Sacramento, do such charges as may be shown justify an indictment from the house for official action by the Senate?

The remaining question that might arise under the present case this kind would be the question of privilege: that is, privilege of the House or of the Senate.

Much the same considerations appear to be taken from another view, that is, that by legislative bodies as those indicated in the answer to question "a". The following advice and cases might be noted:

A member is not entitled to require a statement of privilege as a condition of his relations with other members in the Senate. In holding this opinion the member said: "It is manifestly open to a member to engage in conversation with other members in relation to the relations between the minority leader and himself are not cordial." The Speaker ruled that no question of privilege was presented (1894 H. P. 111, Sec. 2695).

An alleged statement that a certain member would come with intent to speak in a certain legislative session of which was held was to become a question of general privilege, the course of action being that of the general intention of bringing an opponent to the point of the House of determining his future course of action (1897 H. P. 111, Sec. 2707).

No question of privilege arose from the mere fact that a newspaper had attributed to a member certain remarks which he denies having made (1894 H. P. 111, Sec. 2708).

A member is not entitled to require a question of general privilege in regard to a newspaper charge relating to his conduct while a member but not as a member. In 1860 a member claimed the right to question of general privilege, saying a newspaper (from which he had taken his words of action) in reference to the then editor of the New York Sunday Register in the City of Washington. The speaker decided that no question of privilege was involved. Some appeal from the chair the appeal was laid on the table (H. P. 111, Sec. 2724).

In addition, it may be noted that it is manifest in a legislative body to consider charges concerning one of a member which proposed before he became a member or which occurred during a previous term of office. In such cases the fact that his constitution has elected an returned the member to the Senate or to the House appears to be one of the controlling factors.

In 1879 a member in the office of a prominent physician presented a resolution providing for a committee of investigation. The Speaker ruled:

"It does not come to any attention upon the grounds from Massachusetts in reference to revealing how he had during his initiation of a meeting (the floor)." (H. P. 111, Sec. 2723.)

A proposal to investigate the property records of the attorney residing at a time before he became a member may not be presented as a question of privilege (1904 H. P. 111, Sec. 2725).

In the cases of Matthew Loan (1799 H. P. 11, Sec. 1284) and Oppenheimer (1858 H. P. 11, Sec. 1285), the decision of the House was that an act of a member occurring prior to his reelection could not be considered.

In conclusion, it is for the Senate to decide whether or not the charges present a case for investigation.

Very truly yours,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel.

SECTION 1. Section 1094 of the Political Code is amended to read as follows:

1094. Commencing January 1, 1934, except as hereinafter provided, there shall be in each county and city and county of the State, a new and complete registration of the voters of such county or city and county, who are entitled thereto. Such registration shall be in progress at all times except during the thirty-nine days immediately preceding any election, when it shall cease for such election as to electors residing in the territory within which such election is to be held; and transfers of registration for such election may be made from one precinct to another precinct in the same county or city and county at any time when such registration shall be in progress in the precinct to which the elector seeks to transfer; provided, that where any election is held on or after the first day of January and before the first day of April of the year 1934 the original affidavits of registration and indexes used in the last general State election in any county or city and county in the State, together with the original affidavits of registration since the last election, and supplemental indexes, showing all additional registrations, changes and corrections made since the registration for the last general election, completed to and including the fortieth day prior to said election then being held, may be used at such election to determine the persons entitled to vote thereat.

All affidavits of registration made prior to the first day of January of the year 1934 shall be deemed canceled upon said day except for the sole purpose of being used as hereinbefore stated at elections held thereafter and before the first day of April of that year, and shall on said last mentioned day be deemed canceled for all purposes. The board having charge and control of elections in each county or city and county, may provide by resolution, for the registration of voters in their respective precincts, by the officer charged with the registration of voters, and may also provide by resolution for the registration of voters at specified times and places, other than the office of the county clerk or registrar of voters, deemed most convenient to large numbers of voters, without reference to respective or particular precincts, in such a manner that the affidavits of registration as provided by law may be taken at such time and place, of any voter within the county who is entitled to register therein; provided, however, that in any city and county no registration outside of the main office of the officer charged with the registration of voters shall be had except that which is without reference to particular precincts as last specified herein; and provided, also, that any registration which may be made at the main office for registration in any such city and county may be made and taken in any place in said city and county in such manner as may be provided by rules and regulations made by the board having control of registration in any such city and county.

Upon the written request of the officer charged with the registration of voters, which request said officer shall make upon petition from any ten electors of the county, such petition must be filed in his office not less than twenty days before the date of the next succeeding election and it shall specify the premises from which lists are desired, every landlord or keeper of premises where lodgers abide shall furnish said officer a list of all lodgers occupying rooms, or sleeping apartments, or beds in the premises under his or her or its control. Such lists shall be furnished upon blanks provided by said officer, and they must be received in his office not less than ten days before the day of said election. Any landlord or keeper of premises where lodgers abide, who neglects or refuses to comply promptly with the provisions of this section or who furnishes a false list of such lodgers, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. All lists so returned shall be kept on file in the office of the officer receiving same, open to public inspection. It shall be the duty of said officer to compile a list of such persons, if there are any, who are registered as residing in any of these premises and whose names are not returned in the lists furnished by the landlord or keeper thereof. At least three days before the date of the next succeeding election, in any precinct where such premises are located, said officer shall send by registered mail to the inspector of election in said precinct a certified copy of the list he has thus prepared, with instructions to challenge the vote of each and all such persons if offered at the election, under subdivision five of section 1230 of the Political Code. Whenever in the laws of this State the word "register" or "great register" is used with relation to elections, it shall be deemed to mean and include the relative and proper affidavits of registration, or both thereof, prepared and bound by the county clerk or registrar of voters.

SEC. 2. This act is adopted in order to offset the effects of general misunderstanding* of the provisions of the Political Code on permanent registration of voters, resulting in the cancellation of registration of many electors. Resolved by the Assembly, the Senate concurring. That the Legislature of the State of California at its fiftieth regular session commencing on the second day of January, 1933, two-thirds of the members elected to each of the two houses of the said Legislature voting thereon, hereby proposes to the people of the State of California that the Constitution of the State of California be amended by amending section 1 of Article XVI thereof to read as follows:

Section 1. The Legislature shall not, in any manner, create any debt or debts, liability or liabilities, which shall singly or in the aggregate with any previous debts or liabilities, exceed the sum of three hundred thousand dollars, except in case of war to repel invasion or suppress insurrection, unless the same shall be authorized by law for some single object or work to be distinctly specified therein, which law shall provide ways and means exclusive of loans, for the payment of the interest of such debt or liability as it falls due, and also to pay and discharge the principal of such debt or liability within forty years of the time of the contracting thereof, except as hereinafter provided, and shall be irrevocable until the principal and interest thereon shall be paid and discharged; but no such law shall take effect until, at a general election, it shall have been submitted to the people and shall have received a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election; and all moneys raised by authority of such law shall be applied only to the specific object therein stated or to the payment of the debt thereby created, and such law shall be published in at least one newspaper in each county, or city and county, if one be published therein, throughout the State, for three months next preceding the election at which it is submitted to the people. The Legislature may, at any time after the approval of such law by the people, if no debt shall have been contracted in pursuance thereof, repeal the same.

Except as hereinafter otherwise provided, bonds issued in accordance with the authorization of the Legislature pursuant to this section shall not be for a longer time than the estimated useful life of the project for which the same are issued, as determined by the issuing authority and specified in the bond proposal, when such project consists of tangible physical improvements or constructions and in no case shall the work on any bond issued in accordance with the provisions of this section extend forty years. There is hereby made up the sum of several bonds maturing in substantially equal amounts in equal installments. When the project for which bonds are issued consists of tangible structural improvements or constructions the amount of the first installment of such improvements or constructions shall be specified in the bond project. The commission shall provide that the date of first maturity of such bonds issued under this section shall be not later than three years from and after the date of issuance of such bonds, except that when bonds are issued for the construction of improvements or structural improvements on landlocked water, the date of first maturity shall be not later than four years from and after the date of issue of such bonds, and the date of first maturity of such bonds shall be the date of first maturity of the construction or improvement. It is so further provided that the date of first maturity be later than two years from and after the date of issuance of such bonds. The date of maturity of such bonds shall be determined by the date of the first maturity of the bonds from which revenue is authorized to be levied to defray the principal, interest or rental expenses of such bonds, or payment from other sources, or otherwise (taken together with such sinking, redemption and amortization paid or to be paid, as constituted therewith or by such bonds).

The Legislature may provide in the appropriation that bonds issued thereunder shall be subject to call by the sinking payments or some other means, and may also at some time above the first maturity of such bonds, and may also at any time in the original project authorized in the bonds be required to be called.

Nothing in this section shall be construed to limit the power of the State or counties to issue bonds for the purpose of financing or extending to such authorized bonded indebtedness, except that no indebtedness shall be incurred under this section at any time later than the date of first maturity of the bonds to be authorized and levied by this section, and no such bonds shall be authorized to be issued at any time later than the date of first maturity of the bonds to be authorized and levied by this section.

To the California Legislature, Sacramento, California.

The undersigned taxpaying farmers and citizens of San Luis Obispo County protest the passing of Assembly Bill No. 897. It is headed "A Mandatory Consolidation and Merger of School Districts."

We protest any bill which will increase our costs, either directly or indirectly. We prefer reduction or elimination of State services to any new licenses, fees, assessments or taxes.

So far as the farmers are concerned, the money with which to pay increased costs does not exist. That fact makes it unnecessary to discuss the merits or desirability of many public services at this time.

We respectfully petition you to balance the budget by cutting costs not by increasing taxes.

PASO ROBLES, CALIFORNIA, April 4, 1933.

The undersigned taxpaying farmers and citizens of San Luis Obispo County protest any bill which will increase our costs, either directly or indirectly.

We prefer reductions or eliminations of State service to any new licenses, fees, assessments or taxes.

So far as farmers are concerned, the money with which to pay increased costs does not exist. That fact makes it unnecessary to discuss the merits or desirability of many public services at this time.

We respectfully petition you to balance the budget by cutting costs not by increasing taxes.

NORTHERN SAN LUIS OBISPO COUNTY UNITED FARMERS.

C. D. NIDIVER, President.

This is true with regard to the expenditure of moneys made available by the Federal government alone, and moneys to be expended by the State government can be administered through the same agency without additional cost to the State. On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out lines 1 to 27, inclusive, and on page 2, strike out lines 1 to 20, inclusive, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"SECTION 1. In all cases where land has, prior to the effective date of this act, been sold to a county treasurer, as trustee of a reclamation district, or to a reclamation district, for any delinquent reclamation assessment or installment thereof, and where a county treasurer, as trustee of a reclamation district, still holds the certificate of sale, or where the said county treasurer, as trustee of the district, or a reclamation district, has taken a deed for the land at any time prior to three years before the effective date of this act, and still holds title to said lands, such county treasurer or reclamation district shall not sell said land at public or private sale, or otherwise, to any person or corporation other than any person who could have redeemed said land during the period of redemption, for a period of two years next succeeding the effective date of this act.

SEC. 2. During said period of two years from the effective date of this act, all rentals or moneys received from all lands leased or operated by the board of trustees of a reclamation district shall be forthwith paid to the county treasurer, as trustee of a reclamation district, less the actual and reasonable costs incident and necessary to operating and leasing of said lands, and shall be applied by such county treasurer on account of the payment of all delinquent and unpaid installments of assessments levied and assessed against the particular tract of land from which the income is received, and accrued interest thereon; and during said period of two years from the effective date of this act, any person who was entitled to redeem said lands may purchase said lands at a private sale from the county treasurer or the reclamation district for the amount of all the delinquent and unpaid installments of assessment then owing upon said lands, less the amount of all penalties accrued, as of the effective date of this act, but including all penalties hereafter accruing, together with interest upon said amount at the rate of seven per cent (7%) per annum from the date of the respective sales to the date of such purchase, and also less the amount credited upon said delinquent installments and interest received from all rentals, rents and receipts from the renting and operation of said land, as herein-

SEC. 6. This act shall also be applicable to all irrigation, drainage and levee districts whose boundaries to any extent overlap or encroach upon or within the boundaries of a reclamation district, but only as to the lands lying within the boundaries of such reclamation district, and this act shall remain in effect only until the expiration of two years from the effective date of this act, and it is not intended to repeal or modify any provisions of the Political Code of the State of California, or any act creating a reclamation district, except as to the matters hereinabove set forth, and for the period of two years hereinabove provided.

SEC. 7. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution, and shall therefore go into effect immediately.

The facts constituting such necessity are as follows:

Due to the agricultural depression which has existed for the past several years, many landowners in reclamation districts in the State have been unable to meet their installments upon assessments, with the result that their land has been sold to the district. The heavy penalties necessary to be paid as now provided by law, and which continually increase, make it impossible for the landowners to redeem their land, and thousands of landowners are now threatened with the loss of their land. If the land is not redeemed and it is added to the district, it then becomes nonassessable for district purposes, and the burden becomes all the heavier on the other landowners in the district, causing more delinquency and loss. The Legislature hereby declares that the welfare of the State requires that the landowners in these districts be not dispossessed of their land, and that the land be redeemed so as to thenceforth bear its just proportion of taxation."

Amendment adopted.

Senate Bill No. 569 read second time, ordered to reprint, and re-referred to Committee on Drainage, Swamp and Overflowed Lands.

Senate Bill No. 1191—An act making an appropriation for contingent expenses of the Senate for the fiftieth session of the Legislature, and declaring that this act shall take effect immediately.

CASE OF URGENCY.

RECOMMENDATION OF THE GOVERNOR.

In accordance with section 34 of Article IV of the Constitution, the Governor presented the following communication recommending the passage of Senate Bill No. 1191:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE,
SACRAMENTO, April 14, 1933.

To the Honorable Members of the Senate and Assembly,

Senate Bill No. 1191 makes an appropriation of $50,000 for the contingent expenses of the Senate for the fiftieth session of the Legislature.

In my opinion Senate Bill No. 1191 constitutes an emergency bill within the meaning of section 34 of Article IV of the State Constitution, consideration of which should not await final enactment of the Budget Bill, by reason of the fact that at present there is not sufficient money appropriated for the purpose of paying the expenses of the Senate at this session, and it is imperative that this money be made immediately available.

I, therefore, recommend the passage of this bill as an emergency measure within the meaning of that term as used in section 34 of Article IV of the Constitution.

Respectfully submitted,

JAMES ROLPH, JR., Governor of California.

URGENCY CLAUSE.

Sec. 2. Inasmuch as this act provides an appropriation for the usual current expenses of the State, it is hereby declared an urgency measure and shall, under the provisions of Article IV, section 1 of the Constitution, take effect immediately.

UNANIMOUSLY PASSED BY THE ASSEMBLY.

In accordance with section 34 of Article IV of the Constitution, the Governor presented the following recommendation recommending the passage of Assembly Bill No. 2361:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, Sacramento, January

FOURTEENTH, CALIFORNIA, A.D. 1933.

To the Honorable Members of the Senate:

Assembly Bill No. 2361 makes an appropriation of $75,000 for the contingent expenses of the Assembly at its official sessions.

In my opinion Assembly Bill No. 2361 constitutes an emergency bill within the meaning of section 34 of Article IV of the State Constitution, notwithstanding it which should not apply that provision of the Budget Bill is necessary at the time that in present there is no sufficient money appropriated for the purpose of paying the expenses of the Assembly at this session and it is imperative that this money be made immediately available.

I therefore recommend the passage of this bill as an emergency measure within the meaning of that term as used in section 34 of Article IV of the Constitution.

URGENCY CLAUSE.

SEC. 8. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure within the meaning of section 1, Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California, and it is deemed necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety that this law shall go into effect immediately. The following is a statement of the facts constituting such urgency.

Many reclamation districts organized under the laws of this State have issued bonds for the purpose of acquiring works for the reclamation of the lands within such districts, which bonds mature in whole or in part on July 1, 1933. If this amendment does not go into effect until ninety days after the final adjournment of this session of the Legislature, such districts will be unable to take advantage of the provisions hereof prior to July 1, 1934. To some such small and transient coupons are referred pursuant to the provisions of this act such districts may advance large cash payments for erecting boats and fishing machines on that day, thereby leaving them without sufficient funds to cover them in materials and operate efficiently their works of construction. The cooperative efficient operation of such works is necessary in order to prevent the failure of the industry and the failure of such reconstruction projects would be a serious one for the health of the inhabitants of such districts and the adjacent communities. If, however, the provisions of this amendment become a law immediately, such districts will be able to refund their bonds and coupons by or before July 1. How should money be able to districts to maintain their said works of construction.

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communication, addressed by Senator Shattuck, was read and ordered printed in the Journal:

SENATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE.

SACRAMENTO, April 14, 1933.

The President of the United States, Washington, D. C.

DEAR MR. PRESIDENT: I have the great honor to acknowledge receipt and to thank you for your letter of April 14, and for the accompanying communication which accompanied it. They were promptly sent to both houses of our Legislature now in session, and a copy of my letter of transmittal is attached hereto.

My delayed acknowledgment is due to the fact that before writing you I desired to confer with the various sections of the oil industry in California, to the issue that inspired by national considerations of the past few years, and by our desire to stabilize the industry, the differences among these numerous parties in California might happily be compromised. I desire again that I may achieve some of my success.

The dissenters are made up of a small group representing not more than five per cent of the production in the State. They have persistently refused to subscribe to the plan of voluntary contribution in this State, partly with their intention would now be advisable to meet the situation here without resorting to taxation. The minority report recently filed in Washington is their statement.

Two years ago our Legislature passed and I signed a bill introduced by Senator William Shattuck designed to remove the production of oil from tax. This measure was lodged in a board to be elected by oil and non-oil producers. A small group of producers were dissatisfied with the bill and started the struggle, saying that they would resist any legislative legislation. The movement was resisted and a public campaign followed, in which the people were made that the enactment of any measure by the people would result in considerable taxation of the oil industry by the major companies, and in further taxation, which would be a larger total than that paid during the war period.

I have never thought the opponents of the Shattuck bill really believed either of these statements to be correct, but these small dissident minority, with the facts undoubtedly accepted the statements as true and the bill was carried four to one.

Please be assured of my sincere desire to collaborate with you in a national plan of oil promotion, and it is my earnest hope that the California Legislature will seriously consider the recommendations of the national association now before it.

With personal regards to you.

Respectfully and sincerely yours,

JAMES ROLPH, JR., Governor of California.

COMMUNICATION

The following communication, addressed by Senator Jorgensen, was read and ordered printed in the Journal:

SHUMWAY OIL COMPANY,

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, April 14, 1933.

*Hon. James Rolph, Jr., Governor of California,
The Capitol, Sacramento, California.*

DEAR SIR: Pursuant to my appointment by you to represent the independent oil interests of California as one of a delegation of three members representing the Governor of California at the conference of Governors of oil-producing States, called for Monday, March 27, 1933, I proceeded to Washington and was present when the conference assembled.

There was only one Governor at the "Governors' conference." This was Governor Landon of Kansas. The other delegates from the different States were largely made up of spokesmen from the major oil companies, only a very few representatives of independents or of the public in general being present. It was evident from the rapid, automatic organization of the conference the whole program of the conference had been carefully worked out in advance, and the delegates thoughtfully relieved of any effort in this connection.

Governor Landon was appointed chairman of the meeting, and immediately thereafter took a prepared address from his pocket, and read it to the meeting. Mr. Edward S. Rochester was present and appeared to have in hand the details of the meeting. Rochester was secretary and manager of the Federal Oil Conservation Board, during the past eight years, and was formerly executive secretary to Attorney General Daugherty during the Harding administration.

It is perhaps significant in connection with this conference to note that the Federal Oil Conservation Board was abolished by President Roosevelt during our stay in Washington, and Secretary-Manager Rochester was separated from the government service. These actions followed representations by independent oil operators in Washington.

With reference to Governor Landon, the only Governor present at the meeting, it was revealed that the Governor was a brother-in-law of the president of two important midwestern Standard Oil subsidiaries. This latter fact may have, of course, been merely a coincidence.

Governor Landon appointed a committee of five from the "Governors' conference" to act with a committee of five from the major oil company group, and like number from a meeting of alleged independents, called together by President Wirt Franklin of the Independent Petroleum Association of America. This committee of 15 adopted a set of resolutions prepared by a subcommittee of six, which was headed by Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. These resolutions were submitted to the Secretary of the Interior and the President of the United States, but were not acted upon favorably by the President, excepting in some matters of minor consequence.

A group of actual independent oil operators representing California, Texas, Oklahoma and various other States, met simultaneously but separately from the "Governors' conference," and submitted a different set of resolutions to the Secretary of the Interior and President of the United States. Among the recommendations made by the independent committee was one urging that interstate pipe lines be separated in operations and ownership from producing companies, and this important recommendation was adopted by the President.

The above is a brief summary of events occurring in connection with the "Governors' conference," and other meetings growing out of the conference.

Yours very truly,

W. M. KECK.

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

The following report pursuant to the attached resolution introduced March 9, 1933, was received and read:

REPORT OF THE SPECIAL COMMITTEE OF THE SENATE INVESTIGATING PROBLEMS GROWING OUT OF THE REGULATION OF PUBLIC UTILITIES, PURSUANT TO SENATE RESOLUTION PASSED MARCH 9, 1933, WHICH IS AS FOLLOWS:

WHEREAS

WHEREAS, There are a number of bills pending before the Senate designed to change the system of taxation now in effect in this State and more than proper for the adoption of a new system; and

WHEREAS, On the calendar of the Senate are certain bills providing for an increase in the rate of taxation on public utilities; and

WHEREAS, It has been stated in the floor of the Senate that the effect of such bills is so far as they increase the taxation of public utilities would not be reflected in the rates charged by such utilities, and it has been further stated that such taxes are taxes solely on the corporation and are not in effect increasing assessments; and

WHEREAS, It is a matter of common knowledge that during this period of economic stress prices of money and of commodities and services is generally being dragged to a great extent; and

WHEREAS, It would seem that public utilities would have been able to take advantage of such lower costs; and

WHEREAS, It is common knowledge that the rates charged by public utilities have not been reduced to any degree commensurate with general conditions; and

WHEREAS, It is important that the cost of operating public utility services during the present period of distress be reduced to the lowest possible lawful level in order to afford maximum relief to the people of the State at that time when they need it most; and

WHEREAS, It is essential in the interests of public utility regulation that the facts with respect to the present workings of such public utilities be ascertained and made public, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California: That a special investigating committee of three members be appointed by the President of the Senate, which shall be empowered to make such investigations of the Railroad Commission of the State of California and all other persons having knowledge of the rates or rates be necessary, either by making testimony or otherwise, to determine why the rates of public utility corporations have not been reduced to a greater extent, and what effect taxes paid by such public utilities and other expenditures have upon such rates, and be it further

Resolved: That said committee shall have power to engage such necessary assistants as it shall deem necessary and proper in connection with its assigned matters; and is authorized and empowered to summon and subpoena witnesses, furnish the production of papers, books, accounts, records, documents, records and papers of every kind, to take all necessary means to compel the attendance of witnesses and to procure testimony; the members of said committee are and each of them is hereby authorized to administer oaths, all of the powers of Article VIII of Chapter II, Title I, Part III of the Political Code, except to the attendance and examination of witnesses before the Legislature and committees thereof, shall apply to the committee appointed under this resolution and said committee shall have the powers therein specified; the Sergeant at Arms of the Senate is hereby authorized and directed to serve any and all subpoenas and process or other process that may be issued by said committee when directed so to do by the chairman thereof, and perform any other service required of him by said committee; that said committee be and it is given leave to sit during the sessions of the Senate or such place or places as the committee may determine; said committee may at its discretion hold public or executive meetings, as it shall deem necessary or desirable; and be it further

Resolved: That the sum of two hundred fifty dollars be and the same is hereby made available for the purpose of defraying the expenses of such committee other than that required by law to be paid from the legislative help fund. Said sum shall be paid from the contingent fund of the Senate and the State Controller is authorized and directed to draw his warrants in favor of the chairman of said committee for such expenditures as may be certified to him from time to time by the chairman of said committee, and the State Treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to pay the same.

The members of the committee are as follows:

Senator Bradford S. Crittenden.
 Senator Nelson T. Edwards.
 Senator Charles H. Deuel.

To the Senate of the State of California.

Your Investigating Committee, appointed pursuant to the resolution hereinbefore set forth, proceeded promptly to meet and plan the method to be followed in the investigation, and did thereafter hold public meetings in the auditorium of the Railroad Commission in the State Building in the city of San Francisco, State of California, on March 17 and 18, 1933.

Numerous witnesses appeared and testified, among whom were:

Mr. Clyde L. Seavey, President of the Commission.
 Mr. A. G. Mott, Chief Engineer.
 Mr. W. C. Fankhauser, of the Department of Finance and Accounts.
 Mr. Claude C. Brown, Gas and Electric Engineer.

Additional evidence before said Investigating Committee included exhibits consisting of:

1. Report of A. G. Mott, Chief Engineer, "Earnings position of various gas, electric and telephone utilities."
2. Summary of earnings of major utilities by groups, year 1932.
3. Typical reductions in consumers bills from 1928 to 1932.
4. Comparison of fluctuations of cost of gas for average domestic use with cost of living for city of San Francisco.
5. Comparison of fluctuations of cost of gas for average domestic use with cost of living for city of Los Angeles.
6. Effect of gross revenue of a six and one-half per cent return on rate base.
7. Data prepared by Department of Finance and accounts in response to commission's resolution of February 14, 1933.
8. Rate of return, decisions of Supreme Court of the United States; determining factors.
9. Letter to Legislative Investigating Committee regarding public utilities.
10. Letter from Railroad Commission to Senate.

We agreed at the outset of the investigation that the substance of the resolution appointing this committee was "to determine why the rates of public utility corporations have not been reduced to a greater extent, and what effect taxes paid by such public utilities and other expenditures have upon such rates."

It will be borne in mind that the Railroad Commission was created and its powers and duties prescribed by and pursuant to the Public Utilities Act approved April 23, 1915. That said act was authorized by the passage of Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 47, which was approved by a vote of the people on the tenth day of October, 1911. By said constitutional amendment the Railroad Commission was created and was granted the power to establish rates of charges for transportation of passengers and freight by railroads and other transportation companies. Other obligations were later imposed upon the commission by statute.

Exhibit 1 of this report shows:

- (a) Earning position of various gas, electric and telephone utilities.
- (b) Relation between historical cost of properties and cost of current price levels.
- (c) Approximate percentage of controllable operating expenses, and effect of curtailment on return.
- (d) Approximate effect of reduction of higher bracket salaries on operating expenses.

The data in Exhibit 1 was compiled by Chief Engineer A. G. Mott, and filed with the commission March 10, 1933.

Table A gives a summary of results of operation of major gas, electric and telephone companies for the year 1932. It first names the company; second, gives estimate of rate base for 1932; third, amount of operative revenues; fourth, operating expenditures, including taxes and depreciation; fifth, the amounts available for return (to the companies); and sixth, the rate per cent of the estimated rate base returnable and payable to the utilities.

It will be observed that there are only five items to be analyzed and considered in the determination of the problems covering the investigation. First, to determine how the Railroad Commission, under the law, arrives at the estimated rate base; second, to determine what are operating expenses, under the decisions of the Railroad Commission, the statutes, and the decisions of the courts; third, to determine what operating revenues are; fourth, what available for return; fifth, how return per cent of rate base is found; lastly, the relation of these groups to each other.

The operating revenues consist, of course, of the moneys received by the utilities from the rates charged to the public for service. Operating expenses, including taxes and depreciation, represent what the name implies, that is, the outgoing money paid by corporations for operating expenses, including taxes and depreciation. Taxes and depreciation are properly apportioned thereto. It is clear, then, from Table A of Exhibit 1 that the difference between the gross operating revenues and the gross operating expenses is the amount available for return to such corporation. The amount available for return is the amount of the corporation's net return from which the corporation may pay interest on its bonded money and on its preferred stock and such dividends as may be paid to its stock, and the balance being surplus reserved for such corporation. The return per cent of the rate base is a per cent of the investment upon which interest should stand the amount available for return to the public utility, as shown in column 5 of said Table A. The amounts in column 6 are apportioned for ratemaking of the utility's charge for services to the consumer.

The consumer's rates paid for utility services, of course, is the yard by which the public is most interested because that is what the public has to pay. The return per cent of the rate base is most important to the utility, because the amount available for ratemaking depends upon amount invested, upon the amount of the return per cent of the rate base.

METHODS OF DETERMINING THE CORPORA TE RATE BASE

It is clear, then, that the first practical question of the Railroad Commission is to determine the rate base upon which a return per cent of rate base is to be allowed. The rate base is the value of the utility property.

There are two principal methods of determining the value of the corporation for rate-making purposes. One is known as the reproduction cost method, the other is the reproduction less depreciation method.

The historical cost is the amount of money which the corporation borrowed to purchase of such corporation, mechanically and commercially and is generally used and useful. While the theory is satisfactory with some limited details, it is in reality nothing more than the fact that the amount of money originally put in the business in a prudent way by the corporation for its perpetuating must and useful. This method has the advantage of being rather simple in that the value can be determined at any time by point in the original investment for all present purposes. It includes in some instances such cost as discounts on the sale of bonds, interest during construction.

The reproduction less depreciation method is more detailed in its details and difficulties of application. Previous to this method there used to be some kind of an inventory of the properties. In itself it is a reasonable fact. There must be a determination of the condition and quality of all of the properties and the manner in which they were originally purchased, purchased and constructed. It must then be determined what it would cost to reproduce such properties in the manner and way in which they were originally constructed and included as present value for labor and material. The original method had very of perfection in that, although inefficient and not the present method. The value of the property, then, under the reproduction cost less depreciation does not mean consideration of the same at present prices by the lowest possible value under modern methods. It includes costs in the manner in which it was originally built in 1910. (p. 73, also see p. 58.) Both of these methods have to be used instead of (a) in determining the value of the corporate property is concerned. When computing of the present value of property, the value of it is a matter of what it would be worth when offered for sale under present conditions and determined by a willing purchaser or what it would cost to reproduce under present day conditions and with present day improved methods and at present prices. Value is subject to comparison property for rate-making purposes for such purposes.

The determination of value of corporate property by the reproduction less depreciation method takes into account many other matters as they are considered used in the appraisal of the value of property for purposes of taxes or for sale.

Thus, of course, as more factors and follow as far as determining real present values are concerned. The effect of the future is to adjust a sum which will result in the present value of the property being approximately the same as the historical value of the property, and both methods are designed to obtain means in regard to values, which will always result in present valuations being approximately the same as the original amount of money invested. This result is accomplished by making rate adopted by the courts and the commission for making depreciation. There is never any real depreciation of rate base suffered by the utility in its property used and useful, for the reason that the utility is paid out an increasing amount in some way, over a given period of years, will replace the property purchased out of the original investment. So therefore the value of the utility property, as the rate is generally used, never depreciates under the rules of the Railroad Commission. The company is repaid annually sufficient to repay the original investment at the end of the useful life of the property, and also to obtain a net return at the same time as the full amount of the original investment.

The usual methods of valuing other property are taken very little into account, such as the rise and fall of the purchasing price of the gold dollar and the rise and fall of the value of land, material and labor.

Instead of saying the commission will allow 7 or 8 per cent on the capital investment of used and useful property, they go through a maze of fictitious reasoning to bring the value of the property to approximately the same amount as the money invested. (Trans., pp. 112, 113, 114.) The value of the property of the public utility, because of such rules, is not affected materially by the value of the dollar or the fluctuating values of property generally, or ordinary rise and fall of the stock and bond market. The original investment never depreciates. (Trans., pp. 100, 101.)

Depreciation is paid in two ways—one, by allocating a payment yearly which will repay the original amount in a term of years, or, by sinking fund method which consists of a sum paid yearly which is placed at interest, which annual payments, together with interest, will repay the original investment in a given term of years. (Trans., p. 106.) Theoretically, depreciation allowed on the property will amount to the value of, or the cost of, the property at the end of its useful life. (Trans., pp. 91, 101.) The commission allows depreciation as expense and therefore, it does not come out of the so-called net return, but is in addition thereto. The net return remains constant on original value. The original value remains constant and is fully repaid at the end of the useful life of such property. (Trans., pp. 91, 92.) The theory of this is that depreciation is an amount paid for the wearing out of the corporation's property in addition to payment for its use during the same period. (Trans., p. 98.)

WHAT IS RETURN PER CENT OF RATE BASE?

The return per cent of the rate base, which is more popularly called the rate of net return of the utility, is the rate fixed so as to give a net return on the value of the property (value here meaning as before herein explained) in addition to and unimpaired by deductions for operating expenses. (Trans., pp. 27, 33, 34, 35.) It is the rate determined to be the reasonable and fair return on the value of the utility property used and useful and convenient in the operation of the utility's business. The per cent of the return of the rate base is fixed by the Railroad Commission. It is not in any way fixed by the statutes or by the Constitution of the State of California. Notwithstanding the Railroad Commission is the sole rate-fixing agency, nevertheless, such rates must be in harmony with the decisions handed down by the United States Supreme Court. (Trans., p. 31.) Some of these principal decisions controlling the decisions of the Railroad Commission are as follows:

"It is manifest that just compensation for utility, requiring for efficient public service skillful and prudent management as well as use of the plant, and whose rates are subject to public regulation, is more than current interest on mere investment. Some business management requires that after paying all expenses of operation, setting aside the necessary sums for depreciation, payment of interest and reasonable dividends, there should still remain something to be passed to the surplus account, and a rate of return which does not admit of that being done is not sufficient to assure confidence in the financial soundness of the utility to maintain its credit and enable it to raise money necessary for the proper discharge of its public duties. (Trans., p. 41.)

The cost of service consists of four items: The first is the operating expense; the second, depreciation; the third, taxes; the fourth, a fair return (usually computed in the neighborhood of 8 per cent) upon the value of the property actually used in supplying such service. The sum of these four items should equal the total amount of gross revenue received by the company." (See Railroad Commission Report for year ending June 30, 1931, by Harley W. Brundage.)

This shows that the return per cent of the rate base, or the net return to the corporation on the value of its property, must be certain under the rulings of the commission and be allowed at all times. On this point Mr. George, attorney for the Railroad Commission, said in part: "so, in other words, under the standard laid down by the United States Supreme Court decisions, the utility is entitled to a fair return, notwithstanding a general depression or general decline such as we are going through now." (Trans., pp. 50, 42.)

The rate of return herein mentioned is not alone calculated on the value of the original capitalization, but also on the added investment in additional property used and useful, which may come from the corporation's surplus. The rate of net return, then, is allowed not alone on the original capitalization, but upon the historical cost of the property owned and used by the corporation at any given time.

RETURN PER CENT OF RATE BASE.

The fixing of the exact per cent of the so-called net return is a conclusion arrived at by a circuitous route of reasoning which always arrives at a rate of return required by the court decisions. First, this is not as a general rule done by first determining what money is entitled to at any given time. It would be a simple matter to apply at once such rate of per cent to the original investment of the utilities. The rule adhered to is to set a rate which will pay the cost of money and also something in addition for the use of the money invested. It appears there has been no return rate allowed by the United States Supreme Court within the last ten years less than 7 per cent. (Trans., p. 37.)

The amount of the surplus which the company had large accumulated out of its net returns and out of its investments (accumulations) during its 20 years in existence (Trans., p. 36) and which it has not made the subject of any business transaction and can not be distributed to its shareholders. The accumulation was lawfully set down some years ago for the purpose of making net returns being paid out declared to be, by the commission, and the United States Supreme Court, a fair return. (Trans., p. 26, 31; see pp. 32 and 27.)

Neither can the commission, in doing such thing, justify the decrease in rate account how much profit the common stock had made. A corporation may have a structure so a few shares of common stock will have an enormous return. This will not affect in any way the amount of the rate of return paid attributable to the common stock. It takes the common stock and the rate of return to be paid on value of the property of the company.

One can not help at this point, regarding the amount of rate of return the net returns are that the Supreme Court has said that the rate of return on common stock is fair return to them were had them before the corporation was set up into being.

There seems to be great doubt about having said to have been amount in the setting of rates which would limit the amount of the rate of return the ability of the company to pay, as an element. If such element is taken into account, it seems to be very in a very limited way. (Trans., p. 31, 4.) The rate of return. Mr. Supreme Court in the past has been 8 per cent. In the last 10 years it has been 4.7 per cent as is reasonable, and one can see why it is not a fair return. It is clear then that if one had a rate of return of 4.7 per cent, that one having an amount 4 would require an amount of 4.7 per cent. (Trans., p. 31, 4.)

It is clear from Table A, which shows the rate of return on the property of the company, the rate of net return, is calculated to be an amount of money available for return, separate and distinct from operating expenses. Taxes have nothing to do with the net return allowed to corporation. (Trans., pp. 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41.) Neither are taxes to be taken out of net return but out of surplus. (Trans., p. 39, also p. 41.) It follows that taxes are to be paid out of the surplus and not out of the net return. The percentage of return on the rate base, by using the net return to the common stock and operating for the same reason may prevent the rate to be increased from being amount to an amount to cover stock tax.

In Volume 20, Railroad Commission Report, p. 101, in the year 1920 there seems to be an increased rate of return (taxes) caused by the thing done. The report states as follows:

"The rates proposed by [the] petitioners [the railroad] for average increase of 6.57 cents per thousand cubic feet. Some of the [the] petitioners' other factors have arisen which separately affect the cost of service. The net additional increase in the cost of gas is 1.8 cents per thousand cubic feet. A further increase in the cost of gas of 2 cents per thousand cubic feet. Some taxes were increased from 5.6 per cent to 7.5 per cent of the gross revenue. Finally further increasing the cost of gas by 2.5 cents, or a total increase for both oil and gas of 4.5 cents per thousand cubic feet sold."

In another matter reported in the same volume, the commission said, on page 104:

"In the estimate of reasonable operating expenses set forth in Table IV heretofore there has been allowed in the item of taxes 8.5 cents of the rate of 6.57 per cent upon the gross revenue for the operating expenses, namely: Federal income tax, capital stock tax and city and county franchise tax."

showing that taxes previously listed will be allowed in the future fixing of rates.

Again, the North Park Ditch Company Rate Case, March 31, 1921 (Vol. 10, Railroad Commission Report, p. 579), the California Railroad Commission said, on page 588:

"Applicant urges that its taxes will exceed that previously estimated. An analysis of the evidence presented at the hearing shows that the taxes existing at the rate then in effect would be only slightly greater. However, since the applicant's State taxes have been increased from 5.6 per cent of its gross revenue to 7.5 per cent. This increase results in an increase in cost of operation of approximately $220,000 per annum on the basis of present rates applied to 1920 business."

In the reports of the Railroad Commission, dated March 31, 1921 (19 California Railroad Commission Report, p. 565). It is stated, on page 588, as follows:

"Applicant's estimate of taxes is based on the taxes existing in 1920. The rate of taxation by the State has been increased from 5.6 per cent to 7.5 per cent of the annual gross revenue. The result of this is a net increase in operating expenses based on the estimate basis of $220,000 and the total taxes chargeable to operation $1,100,000. The net amount of operating expense for 1921, based on average rates, after the net return, with other conditions as expected, is found to be $6,130,000."

It is apparent that in all these cases the commission has included the increased taxes in the rate allowed to the company, to be charged against the consumer.

The net return received by the utility is used by such utility first in paying interest on its borrowed money; second, interest on preferred stock; third, the difference between the entire net return received by the utility and the interest paid out on borrowed money is subject to the control of the common stock. It may be spent any way the corporation desires. It may pay dividends to the common stock; it may reinvest it in further capitalizing the company; it may pay corporation officers high salaries against the recommendation of the Railroad Commission; or even use it in publishing propaganda in the interest of the utility. Neither the commission nor the Legislature can compel the utility to use this money in the payment of taxes.

It is clear from the above that the return per cent allowed in rate cases is estimated to be a percentage of the cost of the project, or, in other words, it is a definite per cent of the corporation's property, which will be entirely in excess of operating expenses. It follows that the consumer's rates must be high enough to pay the 7 per cent or 8 per cent net return to the utility and also pay operating expenses which include taxes and depreciation.

OPERATING EXPENSES.

Operating expenses are raised by setting a charge to the consumer sufficient to pay all operating expenses in addition to the net return to the utility. It includes taxes (which have been heretofore discussed), depreciation, and expenses for labor, material, salaries, and legitimate operating costs of the utility. (Trans., pp. 76 and 77; and p. 8 of Exhibit 1.)

The Railroad Commission exercises no direct control over the prices of material and labor, and unless it is very unreasonable it is passed by the commission favorably and is charged to the consumer. It does not pass upon a particular wage, but it is a blanket appraisal of the reasonableness of the cost for labor for the work accomplished and also the reasonableness of undertaking a particular line of work. (Trans., pp. 80, 81, 82; also 77.)

Wages constitute 20 to 25 per cent of the total operating cost. (Trans., p. 81.) In other words, they are wholly in the hands of the corporation, excepting that the commission can say what they ought to work at and whether or not the total cost is reasonable. (Trans., p. 85.)

Certain operating expenses are classified as being beyond the control of the Railroad Commission. They are set forth on page 8 of the report filed March 16, 1933, by Chief Engineer A. G. Mott. They are such as fuel, water, electric energy, rents, insurance, injuries and damages, uncollectible bills, taxes, and depreciation—all of which are considered beyond the control of the commission and are allowed in the consumer's rates.

Depreciation has been heretofore explained and is an amount charged to the consumer and allowed to the utility, which would, on an installment plan during the estimated useful life of the properties of the utilities, repay to such utility the full amount of the original cost of such property. This is in addition to the net return.

The salaries, above $5,000 paid to officers and employees of the utilities, if wiped out, would only amount to sixteen one-hundredths of one per cent of the net return. (Trans., p. 93.) Salaries are sometimes paid out of funds over which the commission has no control. (Trans., pp. 93, 94 and 95.) Many high salaries are for the persons of a multiplicity of duties and are not really salaries in fact of any particular corporation, and if reduced by order of commission could be paid by the utility out of the surplus.

The lowering of salaries, the expenditures of money for propaganda out of the surplus, or the raising of taxes would not lower the net return of the corporation. The necessary conclusion from the testimony and facts and law in these utility matters is that by the lowering of the corporation's operating expenses it could, and should, be reflected by the lowering of rates to the consumer. The net return to be allowed to the public utility on the original cost of the property is a quite definitely fixed and certain thing, irrespective of operating expense. Taxes increase operating expenses and thereby increase consumer's rates sufficient to pay the tax.

THE FOLLOWING IS A TYPE OF IMAGINARY REGULATED CALIFORNIA UTILITY.

Value of all operative property-----	$20,000,000 00
Borrowed on bonds @ 5 per cent interest-----	$10,000,000 00
Paid by preferred stock upon which is promised 6 per cent interest-----	6,000,000 00
Paid by common stock-----	4,000,000 00
Total value of property-----	$20,000,000 00

Theoretically, consumers pay no more because of demand charge than they do otherwise. The theory of the rate is that it is necessary to get a certain amount at all times of revenue from the investment. (Trans., p. 148.)

It is our opinion that if a greater proportion of the expense comprised in standby and special charges generally were absorbed in the common consumer's rate, even though it resulted in some inequalities, the consumers would be better satisfied and the relations with the utility would be more cordial. The majority of the consumers can understand uniform common rates. They can not grasp the intricacies of standby and service charges. They often result in excessive and unreasonable charges, as against individuals and against group consumers.

Again, it is said taxes may not always be reflected in rates immediately. Fixing of rates is not done every year. The tax spread might be over a considerable number of years. They are, however, always considered as an influence upon the consumer's rates and are always placed in the operating expense budget, and if they overtax the operating expense account, it would require an immediate raise in taxes, and in all events would prevent a lowering of consumer's rates to the extent of the tax according to the rules of the commission and the decisions of the court. Rates have been raised subsequent to the war by summary proceedings and if necessary to meet present conditions, they should be lowered by such proceedings. If taxes are raised now they would have to be taken into account now in fixing rates.

It is the function and the duty of the Legislature to either equalize taxes as between utilities and common property under present law, without regard to what effect such equalization will have, if any, either in increasing or decreasing the rates of the utilities or in place of such equalization to change the tax laws and submit changes to the Constitution which will raise the necessary revenue for the State's expenditures by some method more equitable to all properties in the State. It may enforce laws as they now exist, or it may enact new and different laws and submit new and different amendments to the Constitution, as in their judgment seems to be to the best interest of the people of the State.

It is the function and duty of the Railroad Commission to fix rates charged by the utilities so as to pay the costs of operating such utilities and to pay to them a fair and just return upon their money and for their service and to require uniform service and rates fair to the public. They have nothing to do with the problem of taxation, except to include it in the budget or operating expenses.

It appears to us from the testimony and the exhibits that the surplus accounts of a number of utilities have reached large figures, larger in amount than are justified in order to meet possible contingencies which may arise in the conduct of their business. It would seem to us that excessive surpluses indicate that the utility has been in receipt of a higher net return than was justified, either because of too high a return per cent or too great a value placed upon property or both. Furthermore, the notion upon which the theory of depreciation is calculated may be unfair and the utility may have received repayment of the money which it has originally invested at too early a period. If the installment payments of depreciation were reinvested, the interest might repay the utility more than its original investment within the life of the property, and this in addition to its net return. We therefore think the commission may well regard excessive surplus as being indicative of error in arriving at either the per cent rate base, the return per cent, and/or the depreciation installments.

Hence in answer to the question of determining why rates of public utility corporations have not been reduced to a greater extent, it is to a great extent because, first, the value of utility property under the rules of the Railroad Commission does not fluctuate very much, and secondly, because the rule that the utility is entitled to a net return on its investment based upon normal times creates a situation under our regulatory system where it is very difficult to reduce rates to any great extent, which would be comparable to the rise and fall of other prices of service which is not regulated.

The commission has not made use of summary proceedings to reduce rates and therefore it can not be said that the commission would have been enjoined by the courts under present conditions. In fact, they have not, as yet, determined, themselves, what the present reasonable rate of return should be under present conditions.

We recommend that greater diligence be shown in all lawful ways to bring about such rates as are just, equitable, and lawful under present conditions.

Again, answering the question of what effect taxes paid by such public utilities and other expenditures have upon the rate, we find that under normal conditions taxes are charged to operating expense and are included in the consumer's rate and has nothing to do with the reasonable net return allowed the utility.

It is true that Mr. Seavey said that at this particular time, it might be that an increase in the corporation tax would not be reflected in the consumer's rates and could be used to reduce the utility's net return. His illustration, testified to at the hearing tended to show that if the operating expense budget of a given corporation had been set for a given year at $10,000 and that the Legislature imposed a tax thereafter of $200, the company might have to absorb that $200 from its net returns. However, he also said on page 173 of the transcript that they had waited in their actions for a reduction of rates until after the action of the Legislature in regard to taxes because " * * * that if we (the Railroad Commission) reduced rates and the Legislature immediately put into effect a measure of taxes that balanced the operating expenses, we would have to increase rates again. Assuming that the budget for operating expenses is correct and that the Railroad Commission knows what it is doing when it proceeds for increasing rates, then our tax bill for the operating expense would, of course, balance such operating expense and the rates would have to be immediately raised. Again, the business men beyond doubt that taxes are always taken into account in setting the business rates and also prevent the reduction of the commission's rates to the extent of the tax. (Hearings, pp. 166, 173, 212, 217, 219.) Furthermore, if the commission is now going to set new rates, it will be compelled to figure taxes set by the Legislature beforehand; whereas, if the commission had set rates and before the Legislature set the company right, on the commission's theory, should come for a new rate. It appears from all the acts of the commission lately then that they did not intend to reduce rates soon.

If it is so certain in fact reduction of rates will be followed by an increase, then cause a raise in consumer rates, it is unwise and unnecessary, better that a reduction in the consumer's rate should directly be secured if the increasing public demand and could not be taken away from them.

We quote for further consideration a successful article of the public utility regulatory law in California, from the committee of both the senate and the assembly. On one hand it may be said nothing is better than to regulate. On the other hand it may be said to check the government's interference in the enterprise, planning and creating surpluses for the utility to the great detriment of the public.

Starting up, we remember that public utility.

First, that the commission proceed to set rates, regulate, control, public to the consumer to the lowest legal amount. We say now that the Highway Commission's policy of waiting for any definite on the part of the Legislature before proceeding to adjust rates.

Second, We seriously question the commission's method of determining the value of the property of public utilities, as it is the basis of determining the rates. We do not believe it is sufficient to rely on that value as established, known, and therefore may not be true to the consumer.

Third, We do not feel at all sure the method of determining the rate per unit of return is fair to the consumer.

Fourth, We believe that the commission should not lose sight of the public in the lowering of salaries to the highest level and of determining the cost of material and the quantity of labor to be employed. This lack of supervision over utilities in this regard while they are under the protection of regulation by the State tends to produce extravagance and waste.

Fifth, We believe that the method of the present manner of the setting of sums of money classified as depreciation should be carefully studied, since that it is quite probable these charges payments result in increasing surplus to the extent unfair to the consumer, and.

Sixth, While we realize that regulation of public utilities has many advantages in lessening the waste by competition and the standard of uniform service, nevertheless, we believe the entire regulatory system should be carefully and carefully analyzed from the standpoint of fair treatment to the public as well as to the utility.

Lastly, we call attention to the fact that the lowering of rates to the consumer would immediately and directly benefit the public, whereas increasing of taxes would directly, or at least in a short time, be reflected in increased rates or prevent the lowering of rates to the extent of the tax.

SUPPLEMENTAL REPORT BY SENATOR DUFFEL

While I have signed the above report and assisted in its preparation, I reserved the right to individually express certain reservations based upon my interpretation of the testimony with which my colleagues upon the committee may not wholly agree. If some of these reservations appear to be in conflict with particulars of the main report which I have signed, the matter of emphasis is the excess and the deductions here recorded should be considered as provided.

That which led to the appointment of the committee was the discussion by the Legislature of the proposal to equalize taxes as follows: the taxes on land and other property according to the findings and recommendations of the Tax Research Bureau. Equalization was resisted by the members who said that such equalization in certain instances would be immediately reflected in increased taxes to consumers. The evidence taken by the committee is to be found in the transcript which should be preserved and studied. It is upon this testimony that the following deductions, in addition to those found in the main report, are based.

Determining values of investment upon which depend returns to utilities and rates to consumers, is a process highly involved in theory and technicalities, so much so, that the writer confesses his inability to thoroughly grasp it. Apparently, from the testimony, the intricate processes are left largely by the commission to its experts and skilled technicians for interpretation and application. The ascertainment of values of utility properties and the fashioning of rates thereto remains far from an exact science. In the final analysis it is a matter of judgment upon the part of the regulating commission, and such judgment, it is inevitable, must rest upon ascertainable facts, often difficult to adjust, and upon theories applied thereto which are within themselves more or less obscure and indefinite. However, it is the method used and there must be reason therefor, although if attempted in private affairs would soon be discarded as intolerably slow and unresponsive. As long as regulation is thus predicated, it is inevitable that proper rates will always be far behind the social and economic status of the people, whether that status be one of prosperity or one of economic distress. How to diminish this gap is well worth the study of both the Legislature and the commission and, one might add, the utilities themselves.

Taxes are not reflected in rates immediately, nor are they a paramount factor in fixing rates. Fixing rates is not done every year. The tax spend might be over a considerable number of years. They are only considered as an influence upon rates when the matter of adjudication of rates is under consideration by the commission. The influence of a change in taxation is, therefore, intangible and uncertain. Until rates are changed by the commission the consumer continues to pay the rate previously fixed irrespective of whether the company's expenses went up or down, taxes being a part of the expense.

It appears from the testimony and the exhibits that the surplus accounts of a number of utilities have reached large figures, possibly larger in amount than are justified in order to meet possible contingencies which may arise in the conduct of their business. As shown by the testimony, the commission exercises only casual authority over allocations made from the net return of the utility. It would seem, therefore, that excessive surpluses, accumulated after bond and stock requirements are met, indicate that the utility has been in receipt of a higher net return than was justified, either through the percentage figure itself or an excess valuation of its investment, or both. It is, therefore, the thought of this writer that the commission may well regard excessive surpluses as being indicative of possible errors in appraisement values, coupled as such surpluses are with salaries and expense account lavish upon their face. (Trans., pp. 267, 268, and 271.)

The attitude of the commission will perhaps be best understood by quoting briefly from the transcript, and here follow several verbatim quotations:

QUESTION BY SENATOR DEUEL: Now, isn't it a fact that the fact that it is demonstrated that an unusually—an undue surplus—is accumulated over necessities and over their obligations, that either your rate is too high or your base too high?

MR. SEAVEY: Yes, I think you are right.

SENATOR DEUEL: Well, then, in the investigation here that you have gone into of these surpluses, do you check these surpluses, and would it, in an instance like that as occurring here, where it is claimed that certain public service corporations have a surplus of millions of dollars, that an increase in their rate can not be taken out of the surplus rather than passed on through an increase of rates, can't that be done?

MR. SEAVEY: We cannot actually touch their surplus, but in times of stress like this, I think we could consider, and would, the fact that they are in a sound position, that they have a surplus, and that we could reduce—

SENATOR DEUEL: And have an ample surplus, after the increased taxation is paid, to meet all their reasonable requirements over a considerable period of time?

MR. SEAVEY: Yes.

SENATOR DEUEL: And that the rates they, the utilities, are now receiving are not only meeting their bond interest, their preferred stock interest, their common stock interest at the highest rates in the flush times of this country and still adding to the surplus, is it reasonable to suppose that any Railroad Commission is going to permit that to be carried on in the shape of increased burdens upon the consumers?

MR. SEAVEY: That is one of the things, of course, that enters into—that will enter into our attempt to reduce rates.

SENATOR DEUEL: Apparently there would be no justification either in morals or law to pass on an increase in equalization of public utility taxes to the consumers at this time.

MR. SEAVEY: There would not be, Senator, unless it was some exceptional condition.

SENATOR DEUEL: Some particular company in bad shape?

MR. SEAVEY: Yes. (Trans., p. 170.)

SENATOR DEUEL: The income of taxes on the part of the Legislature levied against the state people would result in increased income to the State government, would it not?

MR. SEAVEY: It would.

SENATOR DEUEL: And therefore, indirectly, results in raising the taxes paid by common property?

MR. SEAVEY: It would, yes. (Trans., p. 170.)

The machinery of the Legislature is such, more or less, that of the Railroad Commission. Proper operation affords the best means of doing so. The objection is that the State, through equalization, has caused additional expense, thus relieving the common taxpayers of the same relative amount and so it seems equally then the commission can afford the same relief through that commission. (Trans., p. 170.)

MR. SEAVEY SAYS: I should say that it would be a dangerous thing for the Legislature if they refused the plan, simply assuming that the taxpayers should pay more or equality. The reason that is before the Legislature is a matter of equalization as between taxpayers. (Trans., pp. 222-223.)

MR. SEAVEY: Yes, that is what I have been trying to establish, that under the unequal condition, the commission has found that this sort of system can be cut down. Now, it can be cut down, as I have already explained, in two ways. (Trans., p. 187.)

QUESTIONS FROM MR. SEAVEY: If I get your explanation as I think I have explained that all increase of value would not follow an increase of taxes. (Trans., p. 188, under question of Mr. Allen.)

QUESTIONS OF SENATOR DEUEL: The question is, Mr. Seavey, that the utilities are not taxpayers when you equalize them. If you do not want to do the utilities always uniformly and more benefit, and to give equalization always light pay increase or taxes if that are simply the basis of uniformity?

MR. SEAVEY: Because they are afraid they can not pass the taxes on. (Trans., pp. 227 and 228.)

SENATOR DEUEL: Then (the utilities) by uniformity under the increase in taxes?

MR. SEAVEY: Yes, so far as I know, they have already received increase in taxes when they were laid upon and more than have been paid by the State.

SENATOR DEUEL: The theory, then, that they are simply target-shooting away off any absorption of the taxes themselves is erroneous.

MR. SEAVEY: I think it is. (Trans., pp. 229-230.)

In conclusion, it seems better in the matter that it is the ideal duty of the Legislature to equalize taxes as between the public utilities and common property whenever it appears that inequality exists. That is not with the local duty, but a moral duty. Equalization of the tax burden as between those living in groups of taxpayers in either right or wrong. It seems, modification, that no place in the Legislature or elsewhere. If right, the Legislature should be forward with legislation, but this does not say they only, and legislation is not a constructive effort thereby. In the end, if equalization is right morally and economically, it is simply whatever benefits which may accrue incidentally, and the entire body of taxpayers.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA, March 16, 1933.
MEMORANDUM.

Subject: Data Relating to Earning Position of Various Major Utilities in California in 1932.

To the Commission.

There is presented herewith my report as to the earning position of the major gas, electric and telephone utilities in California, prepared pursuant to the commission's resolution dated February 14, 1933, reading as follows:

"WHEREAS, Annual and monthly reports of utilities are now being filed furnishing information as to the current earning position of the major utilities in California,

Resolved, That the commission's chief engineer be instructed to advise and report to the commission, in writing, and as speedily as possible, as follows:

(a) The earning position of the various gas, electric and telephone utilities in 1932 by bringing his Exhibit No. 3 in the Southern California Gas Company rate case up to date.

(b) The probable effect of price levels on the rate bases specified in (a).

(c) The approximate percentage of controllable operating expenses of said utilities.

(d) The approximate effect of an adjustment of higher bracket salaries on operating expenses; and that the commission's financial expert be requested to report to and advise the commission, in writing and as speedily as possible, as follows:

(a) Based on the chief engineer's data, the effect of a 6½ per cent and a 6 per cent return on the historical rate base on the financial structure of the utilities.

(b) The effect on the financial integrity and standing of the utilities of a reduction of common stock dividends to a 6 per cent basis.

(c) Current earning power of money in investments of comparable risk."

In response to this resolution, I have prepared and attached hereto four tabulations, each of which will be commented upon in turn.

Table A: Table A is entitled "Summary of Results of Operation of Major Gas, Electric and Telephone Utilities—Year 1932."

In column 1 of this tabulation are shown all of the utilities of these classes having capital investment in California in excess of $2,000,000, except the California-Oregon Power Company, a large integrated company which operates principally in Oregon. In those instances in which utilities engage in both the electrical and gas business, the two departments are segregated and the sum of the two departments is shown, also. The system figures for the Pacific Gas and Electric Company do not include the street railway, steam heat, or water departments of that company. The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company's properties in California are shown separately from the Southern California Telephone Company's properties, as well as the sum of these two, which is indicated as the Pacific telephone system in California.

In column 2 are shown the estimated historical costs of the operative properties for these various companies (or departments) for the year 1932. In the event there has been a rate base established during the year for any of these properties, that rate base has been used. In other cases, the figures in column 2 are arrived at by taking the estimated historical cost of the property as of December 31, 1931, which I reported to the Tax Research Bureau and which was included in column 2 of Exhibit 3, in Case No. 23233, from which figure I have deducted the amount of consumers' advances to arrive at the historical cost of the property as of the first of the year. I have then determined the equivalent figure for these properties as of the end of the year by adding the net additions and betterments as reported by the companies for the calendar year 1932, from which figure there has been deducted the value of lands as of the first of the year and substituted therefor the value of lands as of the end of the year as determined by Assistant Engineer E. P. McAuliffe, thus arriving at the historical cost of the property as of the end of the year. The average of these two figures is taken as the amount included in column 2. The term "historical cost" is defined, for all properties other than land, as the actual cost of the properties at the time of acquisition or construction for utility purposes, if ascertainable, or the estimated amount of money reasonably required to reproduce the various units of property existing on the date of valuation in the same condition as when they were acquired or installed for utility purposes at price levels and under conditions effective as of the date of such acquisition or installation. Land is included at its fair value as of the date of valuation. The figures in column 2 represent the average of the historical cost of the properties thus determined as of the first and the last of the year 1932.

Column 3 shows the operating revenues of the companies as reported by the companies, without adjustment.

Column 1 shows the operating expenses, including fuel and depreciation. With the exception of depreciation, these figures are shown as reported by the companies, without adjustment. Depreciation is included as debited to the companies in those instances where the companies account for depreciation on a sinking fund basis. In those instances where the companies report depreciation determined on the straight-line basis or on other methods, such as cost of funds for amortizing for interest on the mortgage, the amount charged by operating expenses by the companies has been reduced to represent the depreciation debited to the total provision that should be made for depreciation during the year being used to replace these companies on a sinking fund basis with those using the sinking fund sinking fund method. Interest has been computed at 5 per cent on the balance in the depreciation reserve at the beginning of the year and the amount charged by operating expenses has been reduced by the amount of such interest. The net amount for depreciation in operating expenses under this method would be substituted for those companies having a relatively large mortgage and would be computed for those companies having a relatively small mortgage. In the case of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, whose depreciation reserve is not segregated by between California and other States, the calculation has been made on the basis of the total reserve of the company, that the total depreciation charged in California bears to the total depreciation charge of the entire company.

Column 5 is the estimated difference between columns 1 and 4, and represents the amount available for repair.

Column 6 is the percentage that the amount available for repair bears to the estimated historical cost of the property, as shown in column 2, and is designated "rate of return."

The figures in this table do not necessarily represent the correct working position of the various companies. As in many of the companies, the amounts shown in column 2 are not based upon findings of the commission, but upon those given by the engineering department, some with the hope that in future acquired appropriate for rate cases. As above stated, no adjustments have been made in the amounts reported for revenues, although the actual amounts may be the result of abnormal conditions, for example, abnormal in the case of gas companies; and, furthermore, they do not reflect the operating position for an entire year, since rates presently in effect for these companies whose rates have been changed during the year. Likewise, no attempt has been given to the elimination of the operating expenses or to any revenue from it, but merely that it may be that careful investigation would show that some adjustments in these operating expenses would be required to reflect accurately and would actually be of the nature of the year.

In this table, as well as in Tables B, C, and D, amounts of money are rounded out to the nearest thousand dollars.

Table B. Table B is entitled "Probable Effect of 1932 Price Levels on Rate Bases."

In column 1 are shown the same figures for departments shown in Table A, and for convenient reference column 2 is identical with column 2 in Table A.

In column 3 is shown the estimated cost of these same properties at 1932 price levels, these figures being computed at the end of the various utility companies or the average of prices during 1932, assuming a construction program similar to that followed in the actual construction of the properties but with such costs and construction methods as of the current time. Land is included at its fair market value as of 1932, at the same prices as in column 2.

Column 4 shows the percentage that the amount in column 3 bears to the amounts in column 2.

Under the definition above given, the amounts shown in column 3 are a collection of actual prices and wages paid during 1932 at the current prices. They do not reflect any amounts for theoretical difficulty, prices paid in construction program nor any reduction that might be caused by independent contractors taking advantage of a lower market for the labor.

Table B indicates without exception for the utilities under consideration, that the current cost as above defined is less than the construction program in such property, the effect of the changing price levels ranging from 2.4 per cent to 9.6 per cent, with an average reduction for the entire group of 5.4 per cent.

Table C. Table C is entitled "Relation of Companies' Operating Expenses to Total Operating Expenses, and Effect on Amount Available for Return of Various Degrees of Curtailment."

In column 1 are listed the names of the same utilities (or departments) as are shown in Table A.

In column 2 are shown the total operating expenses, including taxes and depreciation, being the same amounts that are shown in column 4 of Table A.

Column 3 shows the total attributable amount of these classes of operating expenses which are subject to some degree of control by the management.

In column 4 there is shown the percentage in per cent that the amounts in column 3 constitute of the amount in column 2.

It should be understood that some kinds of uncontrollable operating expenses are subject to a relatively large degree of control while on the other hand many kinds of controllable expenses are subject to only a relatively minor degree of control.

For example: little control can be exercised by the management in the matter of prices of materials. The quantities of materials used may be controlled to some degree by controlling the amount of current maintenance undertaken. The amount of labor used is subject to control for certain classes of work and not at all subject to control for other classes, for example: the installation of consumers' services. The wage paid for labor is usually, but not always, subject to some degree of control by management. For the purposes of this report, in order to present an approximation of the total amount of controllable expenses without unduly delaying the submission of this report, controllable expenses have been taken as the total of all of the operating expenses and deductions shown in column 2, except the following items:

	C. R. C. Account Numbers
	Electric corporation	Gas corporation	Telephone corporation
Fuel, including gas purchased -----	705	703, 704, 756	None
Water -----	706, 757	None	None
Electric energy purchased for resale -----	791	None	None
Rents -----	721, 756, 831	721, 751, 781	330, 331, 332
	881, 924, 935	815, 824, 835	333, 334
	943, 952	843, 853
Insurance -----	948	848	668
Injuries and damages -----	949	849	669
Uncollectible bills -----	403	403	304
Taxes -----	404	404	305
Depreciation -----	958, 959	859, 861	608

Columns 5, 6, 7 and 8 show the estimated increase in the rate of return that would result from reduction in the controllable operating expenses shown in column 3 by 10 per cent, 20 per cent, 30 per cent and 50 per cent, respectively.

This tabulation does not indicate the extent to which managements may have already exercised their power of control over operating expenses and the ability of any company to effect a further given percentage of reduction from the amounts spent in 1932, shown in column 3, would be reduced by the extent to which these figures are the result of reductions already effected.

Table D: Table D is entitled "Relation of Higher Bracket Salaries to Total Controllable Expenses and Effect on Amount Available for Return of Various Percentages of Reductions of Such Salaries." The term "higher bracket salaries" is taken to include all compensation to individuals of $5,000 or more per annum and are those reported under General Order No. 77. All of the companies do not make returns under General Order No. 77 on an identical basis, for example: The San Diego Consolidated Gas and Electric Company does not pay directly or report the salary of its president. This company pays a management fee to a holding company, which company in turn pays the salary of the president of the operating company.

In column 1 is shown the same group of utilities (or departments) as is listed in Table A, and for convenient reference the total amount of controllable expenses shown in column 3 of Table C is repeated as column 2 in this table.

Column 3 shows the aggregate of salaries of $5,000 or more paid to each individual by the respective companies. No attempt has been made to apportion these aggregate figures between departments of the companies serving both electricity and gas.

Column 4 shows the estimated portion of these same salaries charged to operating expenses and apportioned between the various departments. These apportionments have been made upon the bases actually used by the companies, when known, and in other instances on a judgment basis.

Column 5 shows the per cent that the operating portion of the higher bracket salaries is of the total controllable expense, as shown in column 2. It appears that the total amount paid for executive salaries in the higher brackets is approximately 3.4 per cent of the total controllable expense for the group of utilities as a whole, and 1.6 per cent of the total operating expenses of the utilities as a whole.

Columns 6, 7, 8 and 9 show the increase in rate of return which would result from varying percentages of reductions in these higher bracket salaries, the last column showing the increase that would result were these salaries entirely eliminated. It thus appears that were it possible to eliminate all compensation to those individuals receiving in excess of $5,000 per annum, the average effect upon the utilities' earnings would be to increase the rate of return by .16 per cent.

Respectfully submitted.

A. G. MOTT, Chief Engineer.

EXHIBIT SEVEN.

DATA PREPARED BY DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE AND ACCOUNTS IN RESPONSE TO COMMISSION'S RESOLUTION OF FEBRUARY 14, 1933.

March 16, 1933.

To the Commission.

Building.

Subject matter: Answers to those inquiries in commission's resolution of February 14, 1933, referred to Department of Finance and Accounts.

In its resolution of February 14, 1933, the commission requested me to report on the following:

1. Based on the chief engineer's data, the effect of a 6½ per cent and a 6 per cent return on the historical rate base on the financial structure of the utilities.
2. The effect on the financial integrity and standing of the utilities of a reduction of common stock dividends to a 6 per cent basis.
3. Current earning power of money in investments of comparable risks.

The answers to the above inquiries are limited to the major gas, electric and telephone utilities. The companies considered are those mentioned in Mr. Mott's report. Because of intercompany stock ownership we have included Midland Counties Public Service Corporation and San Joaquin Light and Power Corporation under Pacific Gas and Electric Company. Southern California Telephone Company is included under Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company.

The following table shows the bonds and stock outstanding and in the hands of the public or subscribed for, as of December 31, 1932, and the per cent of bonds, preferred stock and common stock:

<sup>1</sup> The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company from time to time issued its certificate to acquire the $125,000,000 outstanding stock of Southern California Telephone Company. The historical cost of the properties reported by Mr. Mott represents about 77 per cent of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company and subsidiary companies' investment in fixed capital. We reported 77 per cent of the company's bonds and stock to California properties.

It will be observed that in most instances the historical cost of the properties, as reported by Mr. Mott, exceeds the outstanding bonds and stock. This is accounted for by the fact that land is included in his figures at current market value, and that depreciation reserve monies and surplus earnings not capitalized through the issue of securities have been invested in the properties. The companies report depreciation reserve and surplus as of December 31, 1932, as follows:

Name of company	Unappropriated surplus	Retained earnings
Associated Telephone Company	$1,025,264 68 <sup>1</sup>	$1,733,776 96
Coast Counties Gas and Electric Com- pany	248 415 98	2,955 437 82

Southern Sierras Power Company	1,000,000 00	1,000,000 00

<sup>1</sup> Only $120,000 of common stock outstanding. The company's surplus on December 31, 1932, is reported at $380,450 41, which includes $78,961 57 of appropriated surplus.

Mr. Mott in his report shows the rate of return earned by the companies during 1932. There are attached hereto the following statements:

Table No. 1—Showing rate of return as determined by Mr. Mott and cost of bond money, depreciation reserve money and preferred stock money.

Table No. 2—Showing amount available for paying up dividends by Mr. Mott, the amount necessary to make bond and depreciation reserve interest and dividends on preferred stock, the balance for common stock, common stock outstanding December 31, 1932, and the paying thereon.

Table No. 3—Showing earnings on common stock under a 6 1/2 per cent return on Mr. Mott's historical cost.

Table No. 4—Showing earnings on common stock under a 6 per cent return on Mr. Mott's historical cost.

Table No. 5—Showing dividends paid on common stock during 1932, what dividends on such stock would have been at 6 per cent and 6 1/2 per cent.

Table No. 6—Showing amount available for paying up dividends on common stock assuming a 6 1/2 per cent return on historical cost of properties as shown in Table No. 1, and a 6 per cent dividend on common stock.

Table No. 7—Showing amount available for dividends on common stock assuming a 6 per cent return on historical cost of properties, as shown in Table No. 1, and a 6 per cent dividend on common stock.

Table No. 1 shows that the cost of bond, depreciation reserve and preferred stock money varies from 5.41 per cent for the Southern California Gas Company of California to 6.54 per cent for the San Diego Consolidated Gas and Electric Company. For the Pacific Gas and Electric Company and subsidiary companies it is 5.88 per cent, and for Southern California Edison Company, 10.00 per cent.

A 6 1/2 per cent return and a 6 per cent return would permit the companies to pay dividends on common stock, as compared with 1932 payments as follows:

Name of company	Dividends on common stock
	Assuming a 6 1/2 per cent return	Assuming a 6 per cent return	Paid during 1932

I believe that a 6 per cent return will make it impossible for the utilities to sell common stock. Some may be sold at a discount under a 6½ per cent return. In my judgment it is not necessary for the utilities to sell common stock this year and probably not next year. As shown by the preceding table, most of them have a low bond ratio. What money they need could be obtained through the sale of bonds. A 6½ per cent or a 6 per cent return may result in an increase in the outstanding bonds.

In reply to the second inquiry, namely, the effect on the financial integrity and standing of the utilities of a reduction of common stock dividends to a 6 per cent basis, I would say that if it is made clear that the reduction would be for the current emergency only, and because of existing conditions, the reduction would have no injurious effect on the credit of the utilities. A 6 per cent dividend on common stock as a permanent policy would adversely affect the credit of the companies. Practically all of them have six per cent preferred stock outstanding. This stock is now selling at around par. There, of course, would be no incentive for one to buy common stock, paying 6 per cent, when he can get preferred stock yielding him six per cent.

I have devoted considerable time to find an answer to inquiry No. 3, namely, "current earning power of money in investments of a comparable risk."

I do not know what might be termed a comparable risk. The investments that at one time were considered comparable are no longer so. In the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Rate case, a witness for the company submitted a list of 31 securities which an investor might buy and realize a return, according to his report, of 8.2 per cent. If he bought a share of stock of each of the companies listed by the witness and at the price quoted by him, he would have paid for the stocks a total of $2,076 and realized a cash dividend of $151.72, or a return of 7.31 per cent. If he still held the investment, he today would realize about 1.56 per cent. Twenty-one of the companies have suspended dividend payments entirely and all but one have reduced the dividends. Another witness in the same case emphasized the fact that banks loaned money on mortgages at 7 per cent, and a return of 8 per cent or more could be realized through building and loan investments. It is common knowledge that mortgages are not a profitable investment today and that money invested in building and loan associations can not be had on demand. There is a nation-wide agitation against mortgage foreclosure sales. True, the mortgagee may eventually take the property, but what he can realize on his investment is problematical.

From 1925 to about 1930 many California building bonds, carrying interest from 6 per cent to 7 per cent were sold at par. Many of these are in default today. I have attached hereto Table No. 8 which shows the names of $40,511,000 of bonds issued against buildings in California and which are in default.

Out of a total of $97,700,000 irrigation district bonds reported by Walker in his "Manual of Pacific Coast Securities," $74,600,000 or 76 per cent are in default or have been reorganized during 1932 because of default. These bonds carry interest at rates varying from 5 per cent to 6 per cent.

Because of the large decrease in the gross and net earnings of the steam railroads, during the past three years railroad bonds have, at least for the time being, lost their standing as sound investments. The forty railroad bonds which Moody uses in compiling his average yield, showed for March, 1930, a yield of 4.89 per cent and on March 3, 1933, a yield of 7.22. In June of last year they sold at prices yielding 9.14. The decrease in the gross and net earnings of the railroads reporting to the Interstate Commerce Commission is shown by the following tabulation:

1929 -----	$6,339,246.882 00	$1,798,200.253 00
1930 -----	5,335,131.510 00	1,367,577.221 00
1931 -----	4,230,360.603 00	971,654.527 00
1932 -----	3,157,463.014 00	733,368.461 00

It is only by virtue of loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation that a number of railroads have been able to ward off receivership.

Both the Santa Fe and the Southern Pacific have suspended the payment of dividends on their common stock. The Santa Fe 4 per cent general mortgage bonds, due 1935, are selling now for about the same as in 1929, or on a 4½ per cent basis. The common stock, however, has dropped from $233.75 per share on June 28, 1929, to $37.12 on February 24, 1933, and the 5 per cent preferred from $102 to $62.25 per share.

The Southern Pacific Railroad Company first and refunding 4 per cent bonds due January 1, 1955, have dropped from $9.875 to 68.75. The yield has changed from 4.68 to 6.75. The Southern Pacific Company 4½ per cent gold bonds issued and sold during 1931 at 91 are now selling at 41. The yield has changed from 5 per cent to 11 per cent. The Southern Pacific common stock has declined from $135.125 on June 28, 1929, to $12.81 on February 24, 1933.

Western Pacific Railroad Company 5 per cent first mortgage bonds dropped from 98 in June, 1929, to 24 on February 24, 1933.

Moody's Investor's Service has analyzed the 1932 income statement of 633 industrial, rail and utility corporations which reported net earnings for 1931. The net earnings of the corporations for 1932 were 73.7 per cent less than for 1931. Only two groups of industries show an increase in net earnings. Seaboard petroleum companies show a gain of 18.7 per cent, while the gold-mining group shows a gain of 7 per cent. Four hundred eight industrial corporations suffered for March 1932 a drop of 89.8 per cent in net earnings. 164 companies show a deficit of $377,000,000 as compared with a surplus of $134,000,000 for 1931. 60 gas, 1241 and power companies show a decline of 23.7 per cent in net earnings, while the Bell Telephone companies show a decline of 2.7 per cent.

The National City Bank of New York has compiled the 1932 earnings statements of 840 manufacturing and trading corporations having a net worth, in aggregate, of about $16,050,000,000. Total profits of $130,000,000 were reported by 45 per cent of the companies compared with a total of $1,000,000,000 for 1931. Deficits of $445,000,000 were reported by 57 per cent of the companies. The net profit was a deficit of $15,000,000 as compared with a net profit for the same group for 1931 of $559,000,000. For 1931, 61 per cent of the companies reported a profit of $807,000,000 and 39 per cent a deficit of $248,000,000. Table No. 9 attached hereto contains a list of the companies.

The 840 companies in 1931 earned 7.2 per cent on their net worth and in 1932 had a deficit of $15,000,000.

One city, of course, paid out a bond issue here and there, as, for instance, Associated Oil Company 6 per cent 20 years due to 1950, as though the market might be such, the same with the same degree of safety and nonvolatility as if the payment is in Pacific Gas and Electric or Southern California Edison Company bonds. The new security of the Associated Oil Company bond, the small amount outstanding and the large amount sinking fund all have a tremendous effect on the price of such bonds. As long as the bonds are not coming in the same way as the bonds of the two companies mentioned. So any list of bonds which may sell on the favorable basis as the other bonds, will be affected by favorable conditions that do not apply to the other bonds which nevertheless are selling on the same basis.

The gas, electric and telephone utilities of California have not experienced as much a decrease in net earnings as have the industrial corporations, as such reference is made in Table No. 9. Mr. Mull's report shows the return dropped to 20 per cent. These bonds are selling around a 5 per cent basis, and many preferred stock from 6 per cent to a 6 1/2 per cent basis. The common stock of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company is selling around par and that of the Southern California Edison Company, listed at around 23 (par $25) a share.

Aside from Federal and State bonds I know of no group of securities which have during this depression sold on as favorable terms as have the securities of operating gas, electric and telephone companies.

TABLE NUMBER EIGHT—BUILDING BONDS.

Building bonds because of their limited marketability have never, in my opinion, ranked as high as public utility bonds. There are some, however, who from time to time have pointed to this type of bond as being a security from which an investor could realize from six to eight per cent with a minimum risk as to the receipt of interest and payment of principal when due. A few of the more important California building bonds in default and the price at which they were sold are shown by the following statement:

RATE OF RETURN—DECISIONS OF SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
DETERMINING FACTORS.

Willcox vs. Consolidated Gas Co. (1909) 212 U. S. 19.

"There is no particular rate of compensation which must in all cases and in all parts of the country be regarded as sufficient for capital invested in business enterprises. Such compensation must depend greatly upon circumstances and locality; among other things, the amount of risk in the business is a most important factor, as well as the locality where the business is conducted and the rate expected and usually realized there upon investments of a somewhat similar nature with regard to the risk attending them. There may be other matters which in some cases might also be properly taken into account in determining the rate which an investor might properly expect or hope to receive and which he would be entitled to without legislative interference. The less risk the less right to any unusual returns upon the investments. One who invests his money in a business of a somewhat hazardous character is very properly held to have the right to a larger return without legislative interference, than can be obtained from an investment in government bonds or other perfectly safe investment."

Bluefield Waterworks vs. P. S. Commission (1923) 262 U. S. 679.

"What annual rate will constitute just compensation depends upon many circumstances and must be determined by the exercise of a fair and enlightened judgment, having regard to all relevant facts. A public utility is entitled to such rates as will permit it to earn a return on the value of the property which it employs for the convenience of the public equal to that generally being made at the same time and in the same general part of the country on investments in other business undertakings which are attended by corresponding risks and uncertainties.

"* * * but it has no constitutional right to profits such as are realized or anticipated in highly profitable enterprises or speculative ventures. The return should be reasonably sufficient to assure confidence in the financial soundness of the utility, and should be adequate, under efficient and economical management, to maintain and support its credit and enable it to raise the money necessary for the proper discharge of its public duties. A rate of return may be reasonable at one time, and become too high or too low by changes affecting opportunities for investment, the money market, and business conditions generally.

* * *

"Investors take into account the result of past operations, especially in recent years, when determining the terms upon which they will invest in such an undertaking. Low, uncertain, or irregular income makes for low prices for the securities of the utility and higher rates of interest to be demanded by investors. The fact that the company may not insist as a matter of constitutional right that past losses be made up by rates to be applied in the present and future tends to weaken credit, and the fact that the utility is protected against being compelled to serve for confiscatory rates tends to support it."

United Railways vs. West (1930) 280 U. S. 234.

"What will constitute a fair return in a given case is not capable of exact mathematical demonstration. It is a matter more or less of an approximation about which conclusions may differ. The court in the discharge of its constitutional duty on the issue of confiscation must determine the amount to the best of its ability in the exercise of a fair, enlightened and independent judgment as to both law and facts. * * * It is manifest that just compensation for a utility, requiring for efficient public service, skillful and prudent management as well as use of the plant, and whose rates are subject to public regulation, is more than current interest on mere investment. Sound business management requires that after paying all expenses of operation, setting aside the necessary sums for depreciation, payment of interest and reasonable dividends, there should still remain something to be passed to the surplus account, and a rate of return which does not admit of that being done is not sufficient to assure confidence in the financial soundness of the utility to maintain its credit and enable it to raise money necessary for the proper discharge of its public duties."

Smith vs. Illinois Bell Tel. Co. (1930), 282 U. S. 133.

"In determining what is a confiscatory regulation of rates, it is necessary to consider the actual effect of the rates imposed in the light of the utility's situation, its requirements and opportunities. As was said in United Railways vs. West, 280 U. S. 234, 249, 250, a rule as to the rate of return can not be laid down which would apply uniformly to all sorts of utilities; what may be a fair return for one may be inadequate for another, depending upon circumstances, locality and risk."

McCardle vs. Indianapolis Water Co. (1926), 272 U. S. 490.

The city urged the acceptance of a rate of return equal to that received by investors in public utility bonds. To that the court said:

"It is obvious that rates of such an arrangement to bonds plus brokerage are substantially less than the rate of return required to encourage and compensation for the use of property in the public service. Bonds rarely constitute the source of all the money required to finance public utilities. And investors insist on higher yields on stock than on most types of interest on bonds. Obviously, the cost of money to finance the whole enterprise is not measured by interest rates plus brokerage on bonds, but at the rate of interest on the investment."

1909—Willow vs. Consolidated Gas Co. 212 U. S. 19.

Six per cent return held not confiscatory.

1913—Cedar Rapids Gas Co. vs. Cedar Rapids 223 U. S. 655.

Six per cent return held not confiscatory. (per 1909.)

1915—Dix Mosaic Gas Co. vs. Dix Mosaic 258 U. S. 456.

Six per cent return held not confiscatory.

1918—Danvers vs. Danvers Edison Water Co. 240 U. S. 178.

Six per cent held not confiscatory, but said anything less would surely be inequitable.

1919—Lincoln Gas Co. vs. Lincoln 250 U. S. 256.

Said 6 per cent return was confiscatory.

1921—Greenham Rd & Power Co. 262 U. S. 625.

Seven and one-fourth per cent return not confiscatory.

1923—Bluefield Water Works vs. P. S. Comm. 262 U. S. 476.

Six per cent return for a water company held not confiscatory.

1926—McCardle vs. Indianapolis Water Co. 272 U. S. 490.

"A reasonable rate of return (for a water company) is not less than 7 per cent" and "recent decisions support a higher rate of return."

1926—Ottawa vs. Consolidated Gas Co. 272 U. S. 576.

Less than 6 per cent held confiscatory.

1930—United Railways vs. West 280 U. S. 234.

"* * * a return of 6.25 per cent (for a street railway) is not held confiscatory."

In the light of recent decisions of this court and other Federal decisions, it is not certain that rates securing a return of 7 1/2 per cent or even 8 per cent on the value of the property would not be reasonable for utility companies.

1933—Wabash Valley Elec. Co. vs. Young 287 U. S. 273. Jan. 9, 1933.

"On the whole, we are unable to conclude that a 7 per cent return, under the facts here disclosed, is so low as to be confiscatory."

EXHIBIT NINE.

RAILROAD COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA, March 17, 1933.

To the Legislative Investigating Committee regarding rates of public utilities.

GENTLEMEN: As indicated in our letter addressed to the Legislature under date of March 8th, we welcome this opportunity to furnish information regarding the earning position of the major gas, electric and telephone utilities and the action up to date taken by this commission in regulating their return.

On February 14th, by resolution, the commission directed its staff to prepare data showing the results of the 1932 operations of the above utilities as reflected by reports being filed for that year and from contributing information in the hands of the commission. This data was presented to us this week and is herewith made available to you. In brief, this indicates the following:

1. That the earnings of these utilities ranged from 8.73 per cent in the case of the gas department of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation to 5.19 per cent in the case of the gas department of the Coast Counties Gas and Electric Company. The total figures include revenue which is under dispute in the Federal courts. If the commission is successful in the United States Supreme Court this high figure of 8.73 per cent would be reduced to 6.94 per cent after adjusting for taxes.

2. That the earnings of the combined properties of these utilities for 1932 was 6.91 per cent. This again includes revenues under suit in the Federal courts with the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation and the Southern California Gas Company. If the commission is successful in these suits the return of 6.91 per cent would be reduced to 6.81 per cent. If reductions held up by court and reductions made during the year are figured for the whole year the rate of return for the combined utilities would be 6.77 per cent.

3. That the proportion of the expense subject to management control of the combined utilities amounts to 46.6 per cent of the total. Ten per cent of this amount would affect the return to the extent of .41 per cent. Other bases of reduction would follow in approximate ratio. The amount of the possible reduction in these expenses is limited by the necessity for adequate service.

4. That if a reduction of ten per cent of the higher bracket of salaries charged to operating expenses were made in the combined utilities it would affect the rate of return to the extent of .02 per cent. If a one hundred per cent reduction in such salaries were made it would affect the rate of return to the extent of .16 per cent. While these salaries have only a minor effect on the rates and even though it is not within the power of this commission to fix such salaries, the managements, we believe, could greatly improve their public relations at this time by substantial reductions in such salaries. The control that this commission does exercise in this matter is through the restriction in the total operating expenses of the utility when fixing rates.

5. That the rate of return on the combined properties of the telephone utilities for 1932 was 6.58 per cent.

6. That the rate of return on the combined properties of the electric utilities for 1932 was 6.72 per cent.

7. That the rate of return on the combined properties of the gas utilities for 1932 was 7.93 per cent. If this last figure is adjusted to include reductions in the rates of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation now held up in the Federal court the return would be approximately 7.5 per cent. There should be considered in connection with this return that other reductions in gas have been made which will take effect in 1932 and that three major gas rate cases are now under hearing by the commission.

8. That assuming a 6.5 per cent return being granted the utilities alone mentioned, the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation could pay 7.00 per cent on common stock and the Coast Counties Gas and Electric Company could pay none.

9. That assuming a 6 per cent return based on the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation could pay 6.43 per cent on common stock and the Coast Counties Gas and Electric Company could pay none.

10. That a temporary emergency reduction of income stock dividends to a 6 per cent basis would have no injurious effect upon the financial structure of the companies.

11. That aside from Federal and State bonds no group of companies have recently sold on as favorable terms as those of operating gas, electric and telephone companies and that it is practically impossible to select other groups of industries that properly can be compared with the utility group.

The rate base used in this study contains the historical cost of the properties which is, on the average, 5.3 per cent higher than it would have been historically to construct the properties at present price levels. No allowance is made for inflation, such as going concern value or franchise and water rights, among the present cost. While courts in certain cases have given such allowances, this commission adheres to the belief that consumers have been fully protected and utilities placed on a sounder basis by the disallowance of the existing intangibles in rate bases.

It should be stated that the experts of this commission, in arriving at the base figures underlying these requests have not had complete control in setting the conditions and conditions of the properties. The experts judge from years of experience that he stated as substantially correct. Any possible adjustments should not affect the grand total figures to any appreciable extent.

It should also be understood that the revenues of some of these utilities were steadily declining in 1932 and that the level of enterprise was lower at the end of that year than at the beginning.

To summarize the action of this commission, we cite the following brief examples and comparisons:

1. In 1928 the combined utilities showed a return of 7.0 per cent, whereas the return in 1932 was 6.9 per cent.

This action on our part in the whole utility field may mean that from 1928 to date the total annual reductions made to the benefit of the consumers, not including the amounts held up on taxes, totaling to over $20,000,000. The total amount requested by the commission during that period was approximately $4,000,000. Ignoring the fact that a substantial part of this amount was expended for service, maintenance, accounting, financial control and other utilities, it is our conviction to say that we have returned to the public its investment placed with us multiplied eightfold.

2. While the commission has been following rates during the last few years, which include the hard years of 1930, 1931 and 1932, the general property tax burden has, according to reports to the Legislature, risen from 1.74 on the hundred dollars in 1928 to 1.85 in 1932.

If, as is often stated, utility rates have come to be regarded very much as taxes, then it will be admitted that this commission has not been behind in its contribution towards lifting the public burden.

3. Gas and electric utility rates are lower than they were before the war.

4. Typical reductions in consumers' bills for domestic electric and gas service have been made between 1928 and 1932 as follows:

(a) Pacific Gas and Electric Company, electric rates in the San Francisco Bay area, 13.8 per cent reduction.

(b) Southern California Edison Company, electric rates in the Los Angeles territory, 6.2 per cent reduction.

(c) Pacific Gas and Electric Company, gas rates in the San Francisco Bay area, 11.5 per cent reduction.

(d) Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation, gas rates, including the reductions held up in the Federal court, 49.7 per cent reduction.

4. Typical comparisons in telephone revenue per station between 1928 and 1932 show the following:

(a) San Francisco Bay area (exchange revenue only), 0.5 per cent increase.

(b) Los Angeles area (exchange revenue only), 14.7 per cent reduction.

(c) For the whole State (including toll revenues), 8.3 per cent reduction.

5. There is also available to your committee graphic charts plotting the trend of cost of commodities and cost of gas and showing how rates for gas have been drastically kept down, and are still shown below the cost of the combined elements entering into the cost of living. Charts on other services have not been drafted for lack of time.

This commission has not tied itself down by precedent. It has been alert to find and use new methods to protect the public interest. For example:

1. On May 16, 1931, we created the position of Director of Research. This officer pays attention to nothing but rate proceedings. He coordinates the detail work along that line in the various divisions and conducts examination and cross-examination of all witnesses along technical lines. He in reality acts as a public defender. The employment has promoted economy and speed in rate matters.

2. For several years we have accomplished considerable by informal conferences and voluntary reductions. This has helped materially to reduce both rates and expenses.

3. Where informal conferences would not work we have shortened procedure and gotten quicker relief to consumers by instituting proceedings for ad interim rate reductions. The experience under this process has been most satisfactory. This method is now under attack in the Federal court in the case of the Southern California Gas Company.

4. Wherever possible we have eliminated expensive and long drawn out valuation proceedings.

Had it not been for these new methods and the loyalty and disregard for holidays and vacations on the part of the staff the appropriation for the commission would have been lamentably inadequate.

5. Nor have we stopped at the State line in an endeavor to be of more benefit to the consumers. When, early in 1931, we found ourselves still tied up in the Federal court and faced by interminable delays, we sought a way out of this difficulty. As a result of studies made by our legal department we decided to launch a national campaign to take from the lower Federal courts their jurisdiction over commission rate cases and to restore to the State courts their original exclusive right to pass upon regulatory orders, laws and statutes. This action has been unanimously endorsed by the State commissions and by other interested bodies. A bill, S. 3243, was introduced in Congress by Senator Hiram W. Johnson and has been reported out favorably by the Senate Judiciary Committee. There is good chance of its passage at this session of Congress.

We ask your aid and that of the Legislature in memorializing Congress to pass the Johnson bill. We also ask your aid in passing through the State Legislature Senate Bills Nos. 334 and 335, which will insure full conformity of our laws with the Johnson bill.

We also seek your aid in passing Senate Bill No. 336, giving this commission greater control over holding companies and further protecting the interests of the users of utility service.

May we say in conclusion that while under normal conditions the standard of compensation for the character of work performed in this regulatory office has been low, the commission and staff agree wholeheartedly in the necessity for appropriate salary reduction to meet the emergency. We do trust, however, that our support appropriations which constitute the tools for carrying on the work may be kept adequate and that if added duties are given us additional funds will be supplied to meet such needs.

Respectfully,

RAILROAD COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

EXHIBIT TEN.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA, March 8, 1933.

To the Senate of the State of California.

GENTLEMEN: According to press reports there are before your body resolutions calling for certain information from this commission regarding the rates of return of the utilities of the State and kindred matters. Whether or not these resolutions are passed, this commission is desirous of not only furnishing any information wanted but of getting your aid in attempting to harmonize the income of the utilities with conditions obtaining with businesses and individuals. Some proposed legislation is now before you which may indirectly assist in this regard.

For the past three years this commission has been devoting especial attention to utility rates and has succeeded in reducing the return below what has been allowed in normal times, except where we have been attacked in the Federal courts. We have now three major rate cases under hearing. In addition to this, we have contemplated and have been preparing to take more drastic action which might or might not take us further into the Federal courts. On February 14th of this year the commission spread upon its minutes a resolution directing its departments to bring together in concise form the data necessary upon which to institute such emergency proceedings regarding rates and rates of return. We have not heretofore actually started such proceedings for four principal reasons:

1. Because to do so would have needily interfered with the legal and proper process of the Legislature in the consideration of other bills which matter we knew would be before your honor.

2. Because we believed if equalization of taxes was accomplished the source of the militia would be assured substantially and perhaps be put on a basis that we could accomplish by an attempt to exercise extra-ordinary regulatory powers.

3. Because we believed the proposed equalization of taxes would be a more way of reducing returns than drastic action on the part of the commission subvert, as the latter action is, to delay and restrict through the federal courts.

4. Because this commission is in a most pressing position of present rate increases they to reduce rates.

The commission is also advised through the press and by individual members that it is contemplated later in the session to attempt consideration of other bills. We wish to conform to the wishes of the Legislature in this matter. It is our desire that we proceed at once to attempt those matters which will be under the circumstances we are prepared to do so.

Respectfully,

"SECTION 1. The words and phrases used in this act shall be construed for the purposes of said act, unless such construction be contrary to or inconsistent with the context thereof, as follows:

(a) The word "operator" shall include all persons, firms, associations and corporations who operate motor vehicles upon any public highway in this State and thereby engage in the transportation of persons or property for hire or compensation, either directly or indirectly.

(b) The term "registration emblem" shall include any and all emblems of registration of a motor vehicle issued by the Department of Motor Vehicles of the State of California.

(c) The term "motor vehicle" shall include an automobile, automobile truck, or trailer, not exempt from registration fees under the laws of this State, registered upon or over public highways of this State, whether the same be propelled or operated by steam or electricity, or propelled or operated by combustion of gasoline, distillate or other volatile and inflammable liquid fuel.

(d) The term "gross receipts from operation" shall include all receipts from the operation of such motor vehicle or motor vehicles beginning and ending monthly within this State and a proportion thereof upon the expiration of the month within this State to the entire mileage over which such vehicle or motor vehicle operates of such operator on all highways passing through, into or out of this State, or partly within and partly without this State.

SEC. 2. Each operator of a motor vehicle within this State who owns or desires to transport for compensation or hire persons or property upon or over any public highway within this State shall make application to the State Board of Equalization, on such forms as said board may prescribe, for a license to operate motor vehicles for the transportation of persons or property for hire or compensation over public highways in this State.

All applications for licenses must be accompanied by a fee of twenty-five dollars. Upon the receipt of the application of any such applicant accompanied by such fee, the State Board of Equalization shall issue to such applicant a license to operate for compensation or hire persons or property upon or over any public highway within this State, provided that no license issued by permission of this act shall be construed to authorize the operation of any vehicle used or upon the public highways of this State contrary to the laws now or hereafter in effect regulating the operation of motor vehicles. No license issued hereunder shall be assignable by operation of law or otherwise.

All licenses issued under the provisions of this act shall expire on the thirtieth day of December next succeeding the date upon which they are issued. Licenses issued hereunder must be renewed annually upon application made to the State Board of Equalization on such forms as it may prescribe. All applications for renewal of licenses must be accompanied by a fee of fifteen dollars, and must be filed not later than the thirtieth day of December next preceding the date on which the renewal is sought; otherwise, any application must be accompanied as an application for a new license and the twenty-five dollar fee paid accordingly.

SEC. 3. After obtaining the license provided for in the preceding section, the operator of any motor vehicle is deemed to have duly made known the Department of Motor Vehicles number plates or emblem for such motor vehicle issued by said operator indicating its such number, as said Department may determine, that the license herein provided for has been obtained. Such number plates or emblems shall be attached to and conspicuously displayed upon each of the motor vehicles authorized to be operated by said license in such manner as may be required and prescribed by the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Said department may charge and collect from operators licensed as provided number plates or emblems under the provisions of this act, the sum of one cent to the State of the designing, manufacturing and distribution of such number plates or emblems.

It shall be unlawful from and after the effective date of this act for any person, firm, association or corporation, in connection with such vehicle for the transportation of persons or property for hire or compensation upon the public highways of this State without obtaining the license for motor vehicles as provided in the preceding section or without having displayed upon such motor vehicle the number plates or emblems required to be displayed thereon by this section.

SEC. 4. On or before the tenth day of June, 1933, and on or before the tenth day of each calendar month thereafter each operator shall file with the State Board of Equalization a written report upon a form to be prescribed by said board, showing the gross receipts from operation of such operator for the preceding calendar month, and such other information relating to his or its operations as said board may require to enable the board to make the assessment for which assessment is herein made. A license tax equal to three per cent of gross receipts from operation derived on and after May 1, 1933, shall be based upon amounts so reported.

If any operator shall fail, neglect or refuse to file said return within the time prescribed herein, the State Board of Equalization may, upon such failure, neglect or refusal upon the tax roll hereinafter described, and must estimate the gross receipts from operation of said operator, assessing the license tax thereon, adding to said license tax a penalty of twenty-five per cent thereof for failure, neglect or refusal to report, and said operator shall be deemed to have committed the amount of said estimate. Said penalty for failure to report shall not be in lieu of the penalty for delinquency prescribed by section 4 of this act.

The State Board of Equalization shall, on or before the first day of July, 1933, and on or before the first day of each calendar month thereafter, assess the license tax due hereunder, and prepare and complete an assessment roll showing the amount of the license tax assessed against each operator and immediately deliver said assessment roll to the State Controller.

SEC. 5. License taxes herein required to be paid shall be payable in monthly installments to the State Controller for the month ending May 31, 1933, and for each and every calendar month thereafter. The amount of such license tax for each month shall be paid on or before the tenth day of the second calendar month thereafter, and if not paid prior thereto, shall become delinquent at five o'clock in the afternoon of said day, and ten per cent penalty shall be added thereto for delinquency. Interest at the rate of six per cent per annum shall be collected by the Controller on all license taxes paid after the date on which such taxes are delinquent.

All license taxes accruing hereunder shall be a lien upon all property of the operator used in producing gross receipts from operations as herein defined; said lien shall attach at the time of the earning of said gross receipts and shall have the effect of an execution duly levied against all such property of the operator and shall so remain until said taxes and all penalties accruing thereon are paid, or the property sold for the payment thereof.

The lien created by the provisions of this act shall be paramount to all private liens or encumbrances of whatever character, and to the rights of any conditional vendor, or other holder of the legal title, in or to any vehicle the privilege of operating which is subject to the license tax imposed hereunder.

In the event that any operator is delinquent in the payment of the license tax herein provided for, the Controller shall notify the State Board of Equalization forthwith and may give notice of the amount of such delinquency by registered mail to all persons having in their possession, or under their control, any credits or other personal property belonging to such operator, or owing any debts to such operator, at the time of receipt by them of such notice, and thereafter any person so notified shall neither transfer nor make other disposition of such credits, other personal property or debts until the Controller shall have consented to a transfer or disposition, or until twenty days shall have elapsed from and after the receipt of such notice. All persons so notified must, within five days after receipt of such notice, advise the Controller of any and all such credits, other personal property or debts, in their possession, under their control or owing by them, as the case may be.

Whenever any operator shall be delinquent in the payment of the license tax herein provided for, the Controller or his duly authorized representative shall proceed forthwith to collect the license tax due from such operator in the following manner: The Controller shall seize any property, real or personal, subject to the lien of said license tax, and thereafter sell at public auction such property so seized, or sufficient portion thereof, to pay the license tax due hereunder, together with any penalty or penalties imposed hereby for such delinquency, and any and all costs that may have been incurred on account of such seizure and sale. Notice of such intended sale and the time and place thereof, shall be given to such delinquent operator in writing at least ten days before the date set for such sale by inclosing such notice in an envelope addressed to said operator at his last known residence or place of business in this State if any, and depositing the same in the United States mail, postage prepaid, and by publication for at least ten days before the date set for such sale in a newspaper of general circulation published in the county or city and county in which the property seized is to be sold; provided, however, that if there be no newspaper of general circulation in such county or city and county, then by the posting of such notice in three public places in such county or city and county for said ten day period. The said notice shall contain a description of the property to be sold, together with a statement of the amount of the license taxes, penalties and costs, the name of the operator, and the further statement that, unless such license taxes, penalties and costs are paid on or before the time fixed in said notice for such sale, said property, or so much thereof as may be necessary, will be sold in accordance with law and said notice.

At any such sale, the property shall be sold by the Controller or by the duly authorized agent thereof in accordance with law and said notice, and the Controller shall deliver to the purchaser a bill of sale for the personal property, and a deed for any real property so sold, and such bill of sale or deed shall vest title in the purchaser. The unsold portion of any property so seized may be left at the place of sale at the risk of the operator. If, upon any such sale, the moneys so received shall exceed the amount of all license taxes, penalties and costs due the State from such operator, any such excess shall be returned to the operator, and his receipt therefor obtained. If for any reason, the receipt of such operator shall not be available, the Controller shall deposit such excess moneys with the State Treasurer, as trustee for such owner, subject to the order of such operator, his heirs, successors, or assigns.

It is expressly provided that the foregoing remedies of the State shall be cumulative and that no action taken by the Controller shall be construed to be an election to the provisions of this act, until such time as the provisions of this act relating to such operation have been fully complied with by said operator.

SEC. 11. If any operator of any motor vehicle shall fail, neglect or refuse to file any report required to be filed by this act within ten days after the report is required to be filed, or if any operator shall fail, neglect or refuse to pay any license tax imposed hereunder within ten days after the license tax is delinquent, the State Board of Equalization shall immediately suspend the license issued to such operator and notify the Department of Motor Vehicles of such suspension. It shall thereupon be the duty of said department to forthwith suspend the registration of the motor vehicles of any such operator and to cause to be removed therefrom any or all number plates or emblems issued by said department for display upon such vehicles. Thereafter it shall be unlawful to operate such vehicles upon the public highways of this State until the license of the operator has been reinstated by said board and the registration thereof restored by said department.

Such reinstatement shall not be made until such board is satisfied that the amount of license tax actually due from the operator has been paid and has collected a fee of five dollars for reinstatement. Restoration of registration of such vehicles shall be conditional upon such reinstatement of the license hereunder and the payment to said department of a fee of five dollars for such restoration.

If the registration of any vehicle has been suspended as provided in this section, the Department of Motor Vehicles shall not thereafter reregister such vehicle or transfer the registration or ownership thereof upon the records of the department until such time as the license for the operation thereof required under this act has been reinstated.

Transfer by the Department of Motor Vehicles of the registered ownership of any vehicle licensed hereunder may be effected only after a certificate of license tax clearance has been issued therefor by the State Board of Equalization and a new license is issued in the name of the proposed transferee.

Upon the issuance of any number plates for display on any vehicle licensed hereunder, the Department of Motor Vehicles shall immediately notify the State Board of Equalization thereof.

SEC. 12. Any person, firm, association or corporation who shall use any public highway in this State for the transportation of persons or property for hire or compensation without first obtaining the license for which provision is herein made, or without carrying upon each motor vehicle so used the number plates or emblems for which provision is herein made, or who fails, neglects or refuses to make any return required hereunder or any report required by the State Board of Equalization, or who makes any false return, or who refuses to permit said board or any of its representatives to make the examination which said board is authorized to make, or who fails to keep records of gross receipts from operation as may be prescribed by said board, or who violates any other provision of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, unless such act is by any other law of this State declared to be a felony, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than five hundred dollars nor more than five thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

The State Board of Equalization shall have the power to revoke the license of any operator refusing or neglecting to comply with the provisions of this act.

SEC. 13. All sums paid to the State Controller or to the State Board of Equalization under and by virtue of this act shall be deposited in the State treasury to the credit of the motor transportation license fund, which fund is hereby created. All sums so paid to said board and so deposited, and ten per cent or so much thereof as may be necessary of all sums paid to the State Controller and so deposited, are hereby appropriated to be used by said board to pay expenses incurred by said board in carrying out the provisions of this act and there is hereby further appropriated five per cent or so much thereof as may be necessary of the amounts so deposited by said Controller to be used by him to pay expenses incurred by him in carrying out the provisions of this act. The balance of the amounts so deposited shall be transferred by the State Controller to the general fund of this State and is hereby appropriated to pay interest and redemption charges on bonds heretofore issued by the State of California for State highway construction.

SEC. 14. This act shall not apply to motor vehicles operated exclusively within incorporated cities or towns, nor shall it apply to such vehicles operating between incorporated cities or towns where no portion of public highway outside of the corporate limits of said cities or towns is traversed in said operation.

SEC. 15. All matters of procedure relating to refunds of taxes or the cancellation of any assessment levied under the provisions of this act shall be governed by the provisions of section 3669 of the Political Code.

SEC. 16. If any section, subsection, clause, sentence or phrase of this act which is reasonably separable from the remaining portions of this act is for any reason held to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the remaining portions of this act. The Legislature hereby declares that it would have passed the remaining portions of this act irrespective of the fact that any such section, subsection, clause, sentence or phrase of this act be declared unconstitutional.

Sec. 17. This act, inasmuch as it provides for the payment for the usual current expenses of the State, shall, under the provisions of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution, take effect immediately.

Such association may also provide for the payment of annual dues by members, which annual dues, exclusive of initial membership fee payable in the first policy year, shall not exceed in the aggregate a sum equal to twelve dollars per one thousand dollars or fraction thereof of insurance written, but no member shall be subject to the payment of any annual dues in excess of that established upon the issuance of the policy held by the member. The association may make such by laws not inconsistent with the laws of the State as may be necessary for its government and the transaction of its business; may by its name sue and be sued; loan such funds as it may have on hand; and own sufficient real estate for its business purposes and such as it may be necessary to purchase on foreclosure of its mortgages.

Each association governed by the provisions of this chapter may, in addition to other assessments authorized by the provisions of the chapter, levy assessments and collect same, for the purpose of creating and maintaining an emergency mortality fund, provided, however, that no such assessment shall exceed three dollars for each one thousand dollars of insurance or fraction thereof carried by such member. Such emergency mortality fund may be used for its collection, payment of policy claims, inspections, taxes, professional services, reinsurance and expenses incidental thereto, but no such payment shall be made out of such fund for the payment of any death claim to an amount in excess of the net proceeds of the last preceding assessment. Notwithstanding the payment of any death claims, the association may, in addition to the special assessment above authorized, levy an assessment in the same manner as though for the payment of such claims, but the proceeds thereof shall be paid into said fund to replenish it for the loss arising out of the payment of such claims. Each association governed by the provisions of this chapter may provide for the payment of premiums in advance of stipulated amounts at periodic intervals. That portion of such advance premiums which constitute payment or part payment for mortality purposes, must as to each member, be carried as a trust fund in the name of such member on the books of the association. Amounts chargeable to the member as they become due shall be deducted from such trust funds for policy claims and/or the replenishment or creation of the emergency mortality fund. Any unused portion of such trust fund, paid by such member, shall be the credit balance as to such member subject to the terms of the policy held by such member.

The limitation of annual dues hereinafter provided shall not apply to associations heretofore organized and incorporated and then existing under the provisions of an act of the Legislature of the State of California, approved March 28, 1874, as amended, entitled "An act relating to mutual benefit and relief associations."

I therefore nominate Mr. Maurice Asher, as successor to Mr. Joseph J. Tynan, subject to your consent.

Mr. Asher has been for many years Mr. Tynan's secretary, and is familiar with the affairs of the harbor.

It is my hope that Mr. Joseph J. Tynan will soon recover sufficiently to become again a member of my official family.

Respectfully,

JAMES ROLPH, Jr., Governor of California.
